Districts Two and Three Unite For Joint Conclave

BANQUET HELD at close of District II and III Conclave in Fresno, Calif., on Feb. 13-14, 1953.

Calif., over the weekend of February 13 and 14 to meet in their annual Joint Conclave.

Host to the brothers was the Fresno Alumni Chapter. The Californian Hotel provided excellent facilities for not only food and lodging but also the business sessions and various receptions.

To start the conclave off with ye olde fraternity spirit(s) the Fresno Alumni Chapter staged a reception Friday evening at which the delegates and alumni became acquainted with one another and renewed old friend-

The next morning an early hour found the sleepy-eyed brothers registering in their official capacities, and at 9:30 a.m. J. Albert Hutchinson, Justice of District II, officially opened the conclave with the call to order. The morning session was taken up with roundtable discussions led by the delegates from the active chapters. Discussed was Rushing, Pledging and Invitation Practices and Projects (Field Chapter), Cooraination af Active Chapters with Alumni and Alumni Activities (Ford Chapter), and Chapter and Conclave Financing (Holmes Chapter).

Dean Hogan Luncheon Speaker

The conclave then adjourned for the luncheon banquet which was also held at the Californian Hotel. Doing a fine job as toastmaster was Truman Campbell of the Fresno Alumni. He introduced Edward A. Hogan, Viceverged upon the city of Fresno, say that Brother Hogan's talk was made because it is he who pushmagnificent. It was, without a ever given at any PAD conclave.

In his address he made three

He stated that it was the strength and vigor of the youthful attorney which keeps the profession alive.

> Secondly, he emphasized that the legal profession grossly underpays the beginning attorney. It may be true that at first he is not able to do enough to pay his salary, but, he said, look what industry does. A man starting out in the industrial world knows not enough nor can he accomplish sufficient to warrant the high salary which he is paid.

However, industry recognizes that it must pay its employees a living wage, so it pays this wage and trains the man so that he will soon be able to cut his own swath. On the other hand, Dean Hogan stated, the legal profession generally does not pay such a living wage but takes advantage of the new attorney. It is his firm conviction that the legal field should pay a higher wage and realize that it is training its employee so that he may soon be "worth his salt," as does industry.

Legal Fraternity's Position

Third, he spoke on the advantages of a legal fraternity. He said that the legal fraternity provides the best opportunity to meet and make friends within one's profession, and that though other attorneys are your oppo-

Dean Joseph A. McClain, Jr., Defends Position of the Law School

In an article entitled "Is Legal Education Doing Its Job?" a reply published in the February, 1953, issue of the American Bar Association Journal, Dean Joseph A. McClain, Jr., of the Duke University School of Law sharply rebuts the criticism of Arch M. Cantrall voiced by him in the November issue of the ABA Journal to the effect that the law schools are not doing the job they should.

all work together to better the legal fraternity as a whole, and thus the legal profession.

Henry C. Rohr, Justice of District III, presided at the afternoon general business session. More roundtable discussions were had as follows: Chapter Participation in the Legal Aid Program (Ross Chapter); Interchapter Relations, Joint Initiations and Other Projects (Temple Chapter); Chapter Social Programs and Activities (McKenna Chapter); and Chapter Participation in Campus and Professional Projects (Sullivan Chapter).

After the discussion period the floor was thrown open for general questions and answers from the delegates. It was during this period when the delegates decided that the Joint Conclave idea should be continued but that the site should be changed from year to year. Accordingly, Los Angeles was chosen for 1954, San Francisco for 1955, and Fresno again for 1956.

New officers elected for the conclave were: Vice-Justice, Pat Coleman (Ford); Vice-Justice, David T. Hayden (Temple); Treasurer, John Craig (Ross); Secretary, John A. Arguelles (Mc-Kenna).

Conclave Banquet

To close out the 1953 Joint Conclave a banquet was held in the ballroom of the Californian Hotel with Chalmers E. Lones, Jr., presiding as toastmaster. Speaker for the banquet was Mark Hanna, Professor of Speech at Fresno State College.

Delegates were present from Holmes Chapter at Stanford, Temple Chapter at Hastings College of Law, Field Chapter at the University of California, Matt Sullivan Chapter at the University of San Francisco, Ross Chapter at USC, McKenna Chapter at UCLA, and Ford Chapter at Loyola University of Los Angeles.

Attending in a dual capacity was Frank E. Gray. Brother Gray is not only Supreme Secre-tary of PAD but also the pres-ent Justice of the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter.

Very much in prominence were many charming and lovely memers of the feminine sex. Needless to say these wives and guests of the delegates were greatly appreciated by all in at-

A NEW PAD RUSHING BOOKLET

By order of the Golden Anniversary Convention the rushing booklet has been completely revised and brought up to date. The new booklet contains many new features such as an explanation of the many advantages of belonging to PAD, a discussion of the professional programs sustained by PAD, a listing of some of the PADs who have attained prominence, and many pictures depicting various phases of the fraternity and its legal life.

Any chapter desiring copies should write to the Supreme Secretary requesting same.

The principal criticism of Mr. Cantrall was that the law school completely fails to teach the stu-dent the "knowhow" which is necessary to qualify him to adequately serve the public. Dean McClain, a brother from Fish Chapter, does not claim that the law school does teach this 'knowhow" but rather states as his thesis that the law school cannot teach such "knowhow." at least to the extent that Mr. Cantrall would have them do so. He takes issue with this insinuation of Mr. Cantrall that the complete responsibility lies on law school to provide lawyers who are competent in the practice instantly upon graduation.

Brother McClain brings forth the fact that the United States is probably the only jurisdiction in the Western world that does not provide some system of apprenticeship or internship after graduation from law school. Although England and European countries have such a system the legal profession in the U.S. has not even attempted to provide such a system. However, this is no excuse for shifting the entire responsibility to the law schools to provide an "ideal" finished product in three years.

It is true, Dean McClain states, that what is needed for the law graduate is an internship, but where, he asks, is he to get it? A doctor has his hospital, but a law graudate has only the law office. And the truth of the matter is that such apprenticeship is not available to all. Those in the upper part of their class would have no trouble in getting such a job in a law office, but those whose ranking is somewhat lower and who are the ones who truly need such training will not be able to obtain employment in the law office.

As a result of the absolute absence of an apprentice system, the law school is left with the entire job of training.

Mr. Cantrall has stated of the new law graduate that "it seems to me, as a minimum, that he should be competent . . . to examine a title; write a deed and other customary instruments; close a real estate deal; institute and prosecute suits . . . defend a criminal; prepare individual, partnership tax returns; . . . form, operate and dissolve an individual proprietorship, a partnership and a corporation. . . . It goes without saying that a proper law course would include instruction on handling of clients, charging of fees, the development of a practice." (NOTE: because of space limitations, a great many of these essentials listed by Mr. Cantrall have been omitted.)

Brother McClain well asks the question: "How many lawyers who have practiced 5 to 10 years could do all these things with real competence?" How is the law school to teach all the necessary substantive and theoretical law courses plus all these things Mr. Cantrall wants in the short period of three years, and three years it must be, too, for the demands of the veteran and young man of today make impractical the lengthening of time spent in the law school.

MESSAGE FROM THE SUPREME JUSTICE

Your new administration has been in office exactly seven months. A survey of the fraternity's progress nationally in this short period is gratifying and encouraging. All twelve districts are now manned by highly qualified, hand picked Justices. We are holding our gains, strengthening our Distrist organization, and at the same time feeling out possibilities of expansion in some areas where it is felt there are prospects for new chapters. There is every indication of greater alumni activity, with more of our men taking a lively interest in fraternity affairs and responding to the fraternity's financial needs to carry on.

On the National level, the Placement Committee planning is making satisfactory progress. Already, some of its thinking has taken root in several Districts where the alumni has set up effective machinery rendering a real service to the young PADs entering the profession.

The National Office has stimulated wider and more effective participation in Legal Aid Work throughout the country. The same is true of PAD activity in local, State and National Bar

Our financial position can be termed sound because expenditures are being kept within budgetary appropriation, while income is a little in excess of our estimates for the present fiscal year thus far.

In addition to meeting operational needs, the long range 11- twelve District Justices, as well nancial planning of the Supreme Board contemplates building up our Endowment Fund. This is for two very important purposes, viz.: (1) Scholarship or educational loan funds, and (2) protection against another war or depression period such as we experienced during the third of a century last past. More detail on happy, healthful, prosperous and this in my next message to you.

This Is Your Chance

A fund of $13,285.86 representing contributions by members of Calhoun Chapter at Yale University and collected for the purpose of erecting a suitable fraternity house on the campus has been turned over to Yale University to be used for scholarships in the Yale Law School.

The interest accumulating in this fund is to be used for scholarships to be awarded to either sons or daughters of Phi Alpha Delta, or, if none should qualify, then to PAD undergraduates in any law school who are members of the local chapter in good standing and who can transfer to Yale Law School and in the event that neither of the foregoing make application for the scholarship, then to PAD graduates who desire to do post-

The funds were to be available for either undergradute or graduate law work at the Yale Law School.

Full authority was given to the Yale Law School to invest or reinvest any or all of the money and to sell bonds or other securities and to make purchases of bonds in accordance with the policy of Yale.

At Loyola he served as Clerk and Justice of Ford Chapter. PADs Instrumental In Issuance of Emory Law Journal

The second number of Emory University's Journal of Public Law was published recently. Brothers of Phi Alpha Delta were instrumental in its completion as Harold D. Jones, Jr., served as an assistant editor, while Thomas W. Christopher was faculty advisor. Former Senator Claude A. Pepper contributed an article entitled "Morality in Government."

The 545-page journal, inaugurated last year, contains articles, case studies, and book reviews of interest to practicing attorneys and law students.

legation that the law schools provide a weekly class work load of only 13 to 14 hours per week, Brother McClain reminds the reader that proper preparation for each class hour requires at least 2 to 3 hours of outside work and that much more is needed for the student to get the most out of his subject. And he goes on to remind Mr. Cantrall that in addition to class work the student is participating in law review work, practice and appellate moot court work, seminars, etc., all of which are worthy "knowhow" projects.

In closing, the author states "it will be of no service or aid in the effort to get the most that the law schools are able to contribute to demand of them the impossible, or to ask them to assume training responsibilities that properly belong to the profession itself and which can best be performed by it."

About Brother Joseph McClain

Dr. Joseph A. McClain, presently Dean of the School of Law at Duke University, has a vast and extensive background in the field of legal education. He has previously taught at Mercer University, University of Georgia, University of Louisville Law School and Washington University. He has also served as Dean of the Mercer Law School, the University of Louisville Law School, and the Washington University Law School.

Brother McClain was born in Ringgold, Ga., on May 1, 1903. He is a graduate of Mercer University where he received his B.A. in 1925 and his LL.B. in 1924, and his LL.D. in 1941. He also holds a J.S.D. from Yale University and an LL.D. from Tulane University.

In addition to his recent article in the ABA Journal he is also the author of numerous articles in legal periodicals and law reviews.

Among his varied activities he lists membership in the American Bar Association; vice-president and general counsel, Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis, 1942-45; general counsel, Wabash Railroad Co., 1945; member House of Delegates, American Bar Association, 1945; chairman of various citizens' committees; chairman. Special Committee to make survey of legal education and admissions to the Bar of California, 1948-49; Pi Kappa Phi; Phi Alpha Delta; Order of Coif.

NEW OFFICERS FOR FULLER CHAPTER

Northwestern University's Fuller Chapter recently elected a new slate of officers to govern the chapter for the coming semester. They are:

Justice, James D. Griffith, Evanston, Illinois; Vice-Justice, Bernard Kleinman, Kendalville, Indiana; Clerk, John F. Grady, Evanston, Illinois; Treasurer, Arthur J. Johns, Chicago, Illinois; Chicago, Illinois.

Of Military Appeals

Daniel Walker (Fuller), Commissioner of the United States Court of Military Appeals, reports on the first year of activity by the new court in the July issue of the American Bar Association Journal.

As a prelude to his article, Brother Walker presents a brief review of the history of the courts martial and the gradual develop-ment of a system of review since the earliest American Articles of War in 1776. He points to the injustices which were possible under previous systems, and the civilian concern which resulted in improvements after both World War I and World

The Court of Military Appeals was created by the Uniform Code of Military Justice, evolved after lengthy Congressional hearings following the last war. At its 1946 Convention in Kansas City, Phi Alpha Delta adopted a resolution urging reform in the existing system of military justice and authorizing the Supreme Executive Board to seek appropriate legislation to this end. Thereafter, officers of the Fraternity played a prominent part as witnesses before various Congressional committees studying reform of the courts martial. One of the three civilian Judges appointed to the new Court of Military Appeals when it com-menced its operations in July, 1951, is Paul W. Brosman (Magruder), formerly Dean of the Tulane University School of Law and a one-time Colonel in the Air Force.

Brother Walker reports that the court docketed 782 cases during its first year of operation, of which 65 per cent arose in Japan or Korea. Eighty-seven opinions have been rendered and are reported in the court-martial reports published by the armed services. The influence of the civilian bar in the deliberations of the court is noted by Brother Walker, who states: "An increasing number of civilian attorneys have argued cases before the court, even though the Services make available, without cost, appellate defense and government counsel. At present, 170 of a total of 556 lawyers admitted to practice are civilians. Civilian lawyers have participated in about sixty cases."

Further education of the services and the public is still required in the field of courts martial review, Brother Walker believes. He points out that only about ten per cent of a total of about four thousand court martial cases which would have allowed the accused to seek review were appealed to the court. He anticapates, however, that the rate of petitions for review will steadily increase and may be expected to reach about 2,000 per year if the size of the Armed Forces remains constant.

Brother Walker graduated from the Northwestern University School of Law in 1950 and served as law clerk to Chief Justice Vinson of the Supreme Court of the United States until his appointment as commissioner of the Court of Military Appeals.

JIM BEAR APPOINTED TO ALSA OFFICE

Brother Jim Bear, a member of Jay Chapter at George Washington University and a delegate to the Golden Anniversary Convention, has been appointed National Chairman of the Armed Services Committee of the American Law Student Association. The ALSA, consisting of 108 law schools, is sponsored by the American Bar Association.

The purpose of the Armed Services Committee is to keep law students informed of various draft policies, contemplated and actual recalls and releases of reservists, opportunities for commissions in the armed services, and other legislation regarding of the Washington Alumni Chapter of PAD was reached at the chapter's monthly luncheon held at the "Ruby Foo's" restaurant January 28, 1953. The largest attendance of the current season turned out to hear a most interesting, informative, "off the record" talk by an outstanding speaker on the subject of the current situation in the Near East and its relation to United States security.

The speaker, William S. Culbertson (Calhoun), spoke with the knowledge, authority and assurance produced by his long and distinguished career in private and public affairs. A few of the highlights of his career include his service as: member and Vice-Chairman of the U.S. Tariff Commission (1917-1925), U.S. Minister to Rumania (1925-1928), U. S. Ambassador to Chile (1928-1933), National Supreme Justice of PAD (1934-1936) and Chief of Geopolitics Section, U. S. War Department (1942-1945).

Among his other accomplishments include the writing of several books of foreign trade, his teaching activities at Georgetown University and his current professional activities as a member of the Washington law firm of

"BENEDICT" RAE

The many friends of former National Field Representative Sandy Rae will be pleased to learn that Brother Sandy has just recently announced his engagement to Miss Janet Hettman of San Francisco. Miss Hettman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hettman, Walter being a PAD himself.

The wedding date is to be May 2, 1953. Judge Douglas L. Edmonds of the California Supreme Court and the immediate Past Supreme Justice of Phi Alpha took place in the Redwood Room. Speaking before the assembled chapter was Brother Marsh Morgan, another Ross graduate and a member of the City Attorney's office. He told the Brothers of the possibilities of employment of lawyers in the field of civil service. He, himself, he stated, had tried over 600 cases in the short period of two years, and it is impossible for a man to get that kind of experience in private practice.

He told his friends and Brothers that there was plenty of room for advancement for an attorney in civil service. However, he cautioned, one should go into civil service with a definite goal in mind; that is, either make it your life work or spend only a few years in the service and then go into private practice.

Also in attendance was Brother Frank E. Gray, Supreme Secretary of the National Chapter.

Luncheon Success

The luncheon was a tremendous success not only from the point of view of the large number of Washington PADs present, but also because of the presence of so many new faces. It was particularly delightful of lawyers of diversified ages, experience and interests who are drawn together by the unity of PAD and its high code of professional and personal conduct.

If the current trend of PAD growth and activity in the Washington, D. C., area continues, and the chapter is confident that it will, it is a certainty that the Washington Almuni Chapter will progress into a period of fruitful activity unparalleled in the history of the local chapter.

With a view toward achieving this, it is urged that all PADs who find themselves in the Washington, D. C., area at some time in the future establish con-Robert J. Corber, Esq., Clerk of the Washington PAD Alumni Chapter, 1100 Shoreham Building, Washington 5, D. C.

THE CREED OF PHI ALPHA DELTA

Thomas J. Begley, Clerk of Sutherland Chapter at the University of Utah, in a recent letter to Supreme Justice Savarese outlined the program which his chapter follows to attain the fraternal goals for which we are organized. His statement is so well phrased that it was felt it was worthy of publication.

It is as follows: "Our program for the procurement of future members has been in the past, and will continue to be in the future, that of intermingling the ideas of professional ethics and brotherhood and social companionship. We believe that a wellrounded program, which has a social aspect combined with an emphasis upon professional ideas and ethics, is one which will, in the long run, enhance the ideas and ends which our fraternity and the legal profession as a whole wishes to promote."

CALHOUN CHAPTER AGAIN ON TOP

The recently revived Calhoun Chapter of PAD at Yale Law School has enjoyed an extremely successful fall term . This is reflected in the interest and spirit exhibited by the Brothers, both in their remarkable attendance at weekly meetings and in the lively discussions of PAD, social and legal problems which invariably ensue. The continuance of this exceptional fraternal camaraderie is assured for future classes as thirty-one new pledges are already participating in chapter activities and will be initiated this spring.

The chapter was especially honored when a distinguished PAD, Robert G. Storey (Taney), president of the ABA and Dean of Southern Methodist Law School, found time to chat with PADs at Yale. Dean Storey stopped briefly at Yale to speak to local and student ABA groups and when approached by Justice Hoffhaus, was pleased to arrange a short meeting with chapter members. Brother Storey's keen interest in local PAD activities was deeply appreciated by the assembled brothers in this rare opportunity to meet one of the most successful and distinguished PADs.

SUTHERLAND'S SPEAKERS PROGRAM ENJOYS SUCCESS

PAD's chapter at the University of Utah School of Law, George Sutherland Chapter, reports that its program of guest speakers for their periodic business meetings is meeting with great success. Among the fine group of men they have been chapter are such outstanding men as Brigham E. Roberts, Prosecuting Attorney for the Fifth District of Utah; John Openshane, District head of the direct personal representative of DISTRICT GOVERNOR FBI in the intermountain area; and Edward Clyde, prominent member of the Utah bar and an outstanding authority on water

Such a program, the chapter has discovered, has benefited the attendance, interest and knowledge of not only its pledges and actives but also prospective members. Along the same line, the chapter from time to time shows motion pictures on various fields of law.

CHAPTER CLERKS Form N must be submitted to the Executive Office not later than April 15.
