ORGANIZATION OF THE LEGAL PROFESSION IN THE 1970's

By Daniel J. Cantor*

Strong trends are at work in the legal profession as we approach the next decade of the 20th century. An analysis of past directions, plus a look at today's economic picture, indicate substantial restructuring in the way law practice will be organized in the 1970's.

In 1951, there was one lawyer for each 699 Americans; in 1967 one out of every 631 Americans belonged to the legal profession. Despite this rise in proportion of lawyers, a shortage in qualified younger men is apparent.

The Supreme Executive Board thoroughly reviewed the insurance programs of the fraternity. After a complete discussion and after advice from the administrators of the plan, it was concluded that the premium rate on the PAD Life Insurance Plan would be reduced in the younger age groups.

It was further resolved to offer a 20% additional amount of group life insurance to persons presently covered under the HONORABLE SPIRO T. AGNEW, Governor of the State of Maryland, and Mrs. Agnew, pose with Robert E. Redding, Supreme Justice and Mrs. Redding following the Governor's initiation as an honorary member of Darrow Chapter.

Maryland Governor Agnew Becomes Honorary Member

The historic senate chamber of the Maryland State House in Annapolis, Maryland, presented an appropriate backdrop for the honorary initiation of Spiro T. Agnew, Governor of the State of Maryland, as a member of Darrow Chapter at the University of Maryland.

The chamber was filled to overflowing with brothers from four of the five active chapters in the Washington, D.C. area and distinguished alumni brothers who had journeyed from areas throughout the state of Maryland and surrounding states for the event.

The ceremony began with introductory remarks by William Mitchell, Justice of Darrow Chapter at the University of Maryland. Brother Mitchell took this opportunity to briefly relate Darrow Chapter's history and its current activities.

Following the welcoming remarks Brother Don Moore, Associate Tribune and Hearing Officer for the Federal Trade Commission related Governor Agnew's accomplishments to those in attendance.

Governor Agnew was inaugurated last January as Maryland's 55th governor, being the 5th Republican to be elected governor in the state's history. Becoming governor at 48 years of age gave him the distinction of being one of the youngest ever to hold such a position. In addition, he is the first American of Greek descent to become a chief executive of any state in the United States. Since taking office his administration has compiled a solid record of legislative progress. The program has included a fiscal reform program, an open housing law, which was the first on a statewide basis

SUPREME BOARD MEETS IN LOS ANGELES

The Supreme Executive Board of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity met in Los Angeles on September 16, 17 and 18, 1967 and spent 39 hours in session discussing over 100 items of fraternity business.

Those present at the meeting included Robert E. Redding, Supreme Justice; Henry C. Rohr, Supreme Advocate; Hon. Alex Hotchkiss, Supreme Secretary; Matthew S. Rae, Supreme Treasurer; Hon. C. Raymond Judice, Supreme Historian; Don Hutson, Supreme Marshal; and Dr. Elden S. Magaw, Chairman of the Supreme Advisory Board. Justice Tom C. Clark, Supreme Vice Justice, was absent because of ill health.

Sitting with the Board were Executive Secretary Fredrick J. Weitkamp, Herbert F. Smith and Special Assistants to the Supreme Justice Frank McCown and Jerry Kaufman.

PAD INITIATES SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

The Supreme Executive Board, at its recent meeting in Los Angeles, California, resolved to grant fifteen $500 scholarships to be awarded to law students working in their last year toward an LL.B. or J.D. Degree.

The scholarships are not limited geographically but are available for national distribution depending upon individual need.

Applications for these scholarships during the 1967-68 school year may be obtained immediately from the Executive Secretary.

The application includes personal data including name, date of birth, fraternity chapter, law school, year in law school, number of semester or quarter hours completed, expected date of graduation, school and permanent home address; scholastic data including overall grade point average in law school and transcript of school grades; fraternity activities including date joined the fraternity, fraternity activities participated in and offices held; law school leadership activities including activities and offices held in the law school government, law review and moot court and university-wide activities, organizations and offices; financial data including marital status, number and ages of children and other dependents, employment of applicant and spouse, income of applicant, parents' income, other scholarships, a list of assets, creditors and student loans; and other data including comments by the applicant.

The application must be certified by the Chapter Faculty Advisor that he has nominated the applicant for a scholarship from among those submitting applications at his law school. He will take into consideration scholastic excellence, service to the fraternity, leadership in the law school and financial need of the applicant.

The Chapter Faculty Advisor will be further requested to verify the grade point average and that the applicant is carrying a full load under the meaning of that term in the applicant's law school.

Because of the apparent financial need throughout the nation, the Supreme Executive Board resolved to implement this program immediately. Therefore, applications may be obtained by writing to Fredrick J. Weitkamp, Executive Secretary, 10722 White Oak Avenue, Granada Hills, California 91344.

ABA News

Earl F. Morris, president of the American Bar Association, today called agitation a frequent factor in producing riots. He urged enforcement of present laws and, if necessary, enactment of new ones to control "the traveling insurrectionist."

Morris, speaking in his home city at a Convocation of the College of Medicine of Ohio State University, described the traveling insurrectionist as a "man with no known address, who moves from city to city, subsidized by undeclared funds, shouting for revolution, inciting people to burn and loot and kill; a death-dealing gadfly of destruction." The Columbus lawyer said Maryland was pursuing the proper course in seeking to prosecute agitators despite general feeling that it is "difficult to obtain a conviction on a charge of incitement to riot."

Morris said riots are more profound than common crimes in their consequences to the country "because they go to the heart of democratic theory and practice."

"In tolerating, and at times even seeming to encourage, certain forms of civil disobedience throughout our history and most notably in recent years, we have wittingly walked a necessarily fine line between individual liberty and anarchy. We have trod this path because freedom of the individual to do and say what he feels is right has been paramount."

"But mob violence has succeeded peaceful demonstration, and murderous turmoil has replaced calm negotiation. Much of the progress that has been made, and the civil rights that have been affirmed — in voting, education, employment and in access to public accommodations — is being negated by mindless, thoughtless criminal action that has substituted anarchy for law and insurrection for order."

Morris, who became the 91st president of ABA in August, said reasons for "the wave of insurrection" include "many of the conditions that breed all crime: crowded cities, restless youth, parental apathy." Beneath the surface the causes include "unemployment, poverty, inadequate housing, and all the fuming, mounting frustration that these circumstances create."

With these conditions, agitators either "in a quiet, private way" or "screaming" on a street corner, can provide "the spark that turns respectable people into insurgents." He added that "many of the people who ultimately riot are not poverty-stricken, are not unemployed, do not live in slums."

Morris said riots have given a new dimension to the crime problem which he called the "No I domestic problem in the U.S." Even before the outbreak of riots, he said, many considered "crime in the traditional sense — murder, rape, assault, burglary and larceny" as the nation's top-priority problem. The ABA president called for a massive public effort to curb lawlessness, "a disease gnawing at the innards of American society."

Saying there are "no easy answers," he called for: elimination of the underlying causes of crime, such as poverty, commercial exploitation and racial discrimination; for the improvement of law enforcement agencies, their techniques and police-community relations; creation of citizens' organizations dedicated to the prevention of crime in all major cities; enactment of legislation to control firearms and juvenile delinquency as well as the Safe Streets and Crime Control Act; and development of "a new respect for law and order in this country."

Morris said it wasn't only the confirmed criminal, the juvenile delinquent, and the inciter of riots who needed to develop respect for law.

"It is all of us," Morris said.

Message From The Supreme Justice

First, I extend my fraternal and cordial greetings to all my Brothers — active and alumni — and trust that all of you had a very enjoyable and relaxing summer. As we enter the 1967-68 school year, I look forward to another year of substantial progress in Phi Alpha Delta and welcome your continued cooperation and support.

Elsewhere in this issue, you will read about the very fine PAD reception held at the American Bar Association Convention in Honolulu during the summer. In addition to the alumni who attended, our guests included a large number of the American Law Student Association delegates who were also in convention assembled.

I would like to report to you a highly productive Supreme Executive Board meeting on September 16-18. During the three day work session, the Board took action on more than 100 matters in 39 hours of deliberation. Ultimately, the motion to adjourn was enthusiastically approved and the gavel fell on a meeting of spirited yet effective discussion and action interspersed with fraternal good feeling amid a continual atmosphere of firm resolve to advance the Fraternity's declaration of purpose. The highlights of the Board meeting included the following constructive actions:

1. Approval of a nation-wide scholarship program, effective immediately, for the award of fifteen $500 scholarships this year on an outright grant basis. This program will be financed without invading any of the Endowment Fund's principal and will enable us to continue the availability of interest-free student loans. The Fraternity is deeply indebted to the special scholarship committee members consisting of students John Klein and Stanley Kohn, Dean Frank Maloney, Associate Tribune Kenneth Segal, and Supreme Treasurer Sandy Rae, Chairman.

2. An annual nationwide effective speaking contest will be launched this year as a supplement to our existing program to advance the art of advocacy by our student members.

3. The "PAD Inns of Court" program, undertaken as a pilot project in Washington, D.C., last year, was approved as a national program, to be instituted this year in the cities of Chicago, Houston, Kansas City, Los Angeles, New York, and Philadelphia.

4. PAD will take the lead in trying to create a new professional law inter-fraternity conference, to be convened preceding the biennial meeting of the Professional Inter-Fraternity Conference next March. It is hoped that this effort, to be carried forward by all law fraternity members of the PIC, will lead to the establishment of a "Code of Honor" applicable to law students throughout the nation.

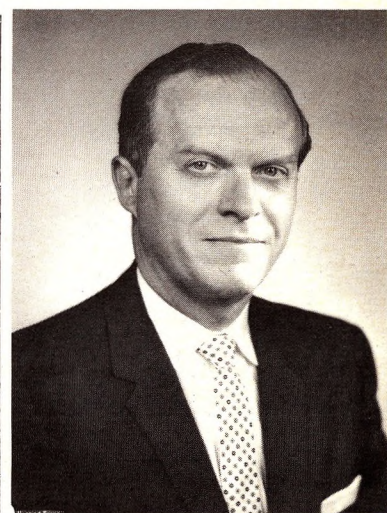

5. Several constructive actions were taken to enhance our PAD insurance program, including making a 20% increase in life insurance available and establishing a hospital money plan.

6. Many constructive actions were voted to expand our alumni program, as to which substantial progress was made last year.

7. The Reporter will announce the planned creation of an "Elder Statesman Club," with Past Supreme Justice J. Harry LaBrum as Chairman. This informal alliance of our many brothers in their senior years should help stimulate their renewed interest in Phi Alpha Delta and a stronger sense of participation in our many activities.

8. Considerable progress was reported in the development of a contemplated "PAD Plan" for alumni purchase of law office needs. It was decided, however, to give this ambitious program further study, with comments to be invited from the Supreme Advisory Board and all District Justices.

9. Three hours of discussion and important action hail the more effective and efficient handling of annual conclave planning and execution, an area which claimed the attention of a special Conclave Committee consisting of Supreme Treasurer Sandy Rae, District Justice Bob Van Horn, Executive Secretary Fred Weitkamp, and Associate Tribune Don Moore, Chairman. This Committee produced an excellent report which formed the basis for salutary action at the Supreme Executive Board meeting.

10. The meeting agenda included discussion of the need for formulating both short-term and long-term goals and objectives in Fraternity management. In the weeks ahead, further developmental efforts to adopt five-year and ten-year basic goals will continue.

11. It was previously decided to distribute the PAD Tool Kit among the alumni and faculty advisors to the active chapters. Because of the many requests received during the past year, the Supreme Executive Board decided to carry out its plan for such distribution to the alumni advisors, but to make the other additional copy available for the joint use of the faculty advisor and the active chapter justice.

12. Many actions were voted to strengthen the organizational structure of PAD, including convention activities. In response to the recommendations of many convention delegates, the appointment of chapter delegates to all convention outstanding committees (not including the Nominations Committee) prior to convening the convention will be made next year on an experimental basis.

13. In view of the fact that alumni chapter delegates will, for the first time, attend the 1968 Convention cost-free, the requisite eligibility rules were reviewed and reaffirmed, soon to be announced.

14. Detailed plans were approved for the 1968 Convention including a new fiscal control, namely, the submission for Supreme Executive Board approval by the Supreme Treasurer and Executive Secretary of a detailed convention budget by May 1, 1968.

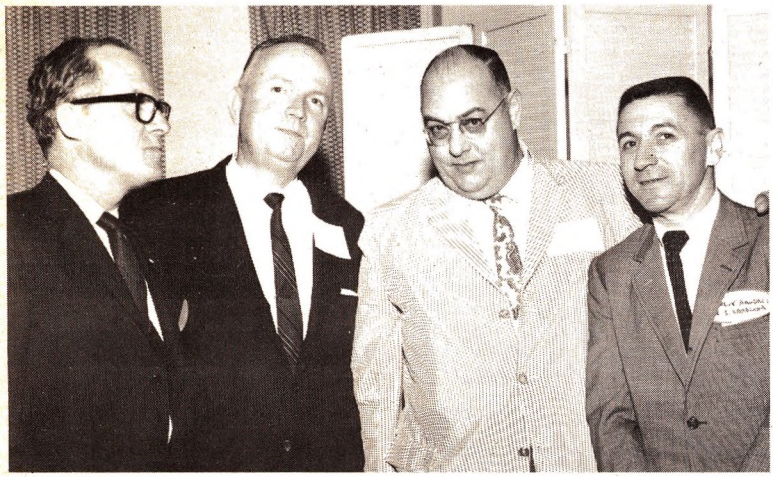

15. All PAD's will be pleased to know that the 1970 Convention will be held at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans on September 2-5, 1970.

16. There was extensive discussion of the status of active and alumni chapters in all districts, with particular attention to be given to the strengthening of active chapters during the fall visitations by Special Assistants to the Supreme Justice Jerry Kaufman and Frank McCown. Their visitations will also include efforts to re-activate five PAD active chapters and to explore the possible expansion of PAD at 17 law schools.

Justice Clark Receives American Legion's Distinguished Service Medal

Following are the remarks by Attorney General Ramsey Clark in accepting the Distinguished Service Medal for his father, Brother Justice Tom C. Clark, at the recent American Legion National Convention in Boston, Massachusetts.

"It is pardonable, I hope, for a son to be proud of his father. If not I am guilty of the unpardonable. June 12 was the last day of the past session of the Supreme Court and the final occasion on which my father will grace that great bench. Chief Justice Warren delivered a most laudatory statement of his contributions to the Court and to justice. In a brief response, Dad noted that if his father had been present we would have chuckled, perhaps laughed at what was there said — and not without a ring of skepticism; but, if his mother had been present, she would have smiled deeply — and believed every word of it.

"My son, Tom C. Clark II and I were there. We smiled deeply — and believed every word of it.

"Having been so blessed, I would venture the thought that few things more fortunate can come to a man than to have a truly great father.

"He is with us today in spirit though in body he is in Washington recuperating from an illness he has now overcome. He is deeply honored by this conference of your Distinguished Service Medal. He is a Legion member of three decades — proud of his association with you and of your good works. He is, I should note, a life member of the Department of Justice Post. Justice Clark is grateful and extends through me his appreciation. Our whole family thanks you.

"In an address in 1964, Justice Clark said:

"... what we call justice but reflects the moral fibre of the people, their character, their courage, their perceptiveness, their faith. That is because no system of justice can endure that is not based upon supremacy of the law. And the supremacy of law in turn depends upon its commanding a wide consensus among the people. In the end only that provides security in a free society."

"Today the consensus is not wide enough. Lacking in the hearts of too many Americans is that respect for the rights of others which is the foundation of the rule of law. Abraham Lincoln said that if ever our nation should fall it would be from within. Lawlessness from within can destroy a nation which no force from without could ever overthrow.

"The American Legion, its members, and the millions who have served their country in time of war have assured to all of our people their opportunity for fulfillment if they, left to themselves, have only the capacity for justice. What greater tragedy can history hold than the loss of such an opportunity? What greater weakness can society show?

"If this chance is lost, then those brave men who fought for our freedom in the wars against foreign enemies fought in vain as surely as if those wars had been lost.

"For this reason the American Legion has a major stake in the war on crime and the elimination of domestic violence. Your help is needed.

"The trend toward lawlessness — rising crime and rioting — will not be easily arrested. Reversal will come even harder. But that it can and must be reversed is manifest. We have no higher priority. Crime is the antithesis of all our belief and hope.

"Required is the comprehensive effort of government, business, labor, churches, schools, of individuals and of our great associations and voluntary organizations. Each must do its part. None can place on the others the entire responsibility. We are talking about the character of our country. We must work to-

PAD Named Distinguished Professor

Brother Dix Noel, an honorary member of McReynolds Chapter at the George C. Tylor Law Center of the University of Tennessee, College of Law, was recently named a University of Tennessee Alumni Distinguished Professor for his distinguished teaching, research and public service as a professor of law at the University of Tennessee since 1946, and his outstanding contributions to the field of products liability, nuisance and defamation. Besides his teaching and writing he is the faculty advisor to the Tennessee Law Review and has been chairman of the Torts Round Table of the Association of American Law Schools.

Brother Noel received his LLB degree from Harvard Law School in 1930.

He has published over thirty articles which have appeared in various law reviews and professional journals.

PAD LOSES LOYAL BROTHER

Brother Judge Michael L. Igoe, an alumnus member of Taft Chapter since 1908, recently passed away at the age of 82, after serving 26 years as a Federal District Court Judge in Chicago, Illinois.

At the time of his retirement, Brother Igoe was the oldest Federal District Judge on the bench. Even following his retirement he heard cases on a part time basis until the Fall of 1966.

Prior to being elevated to the Federal District Court, Brother Igoe was the minority spokesman in the Illinois State Legislature. Brother Igoe was first elected to the Illinois State Legislature when he was 26 years old. He served in the Legislature a total of 16 years during the period of 1912 to 1930.

He was a delegate to the Democratic Convention in 1924, 1928, and 1932 and in 1930 he was made Democratic National Committee Man for Illinois.

In 1934 Brother Igoe was elected to the United States House of Representatives, but resigned the post to become United States Attorney.

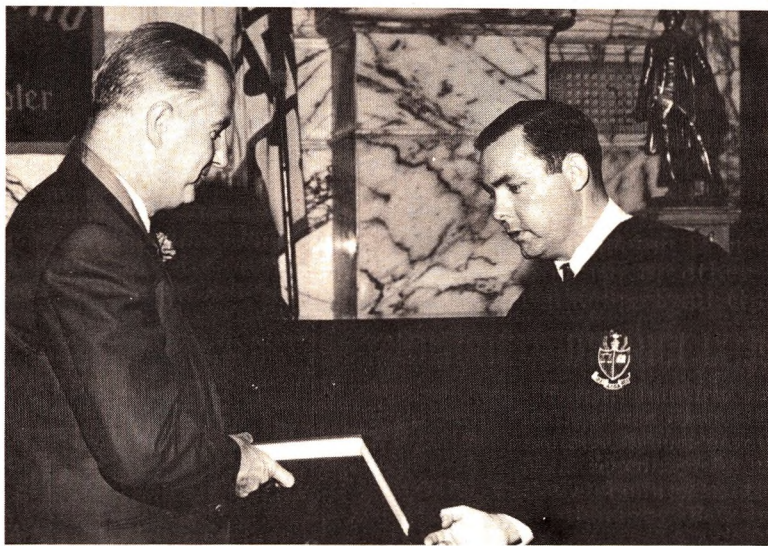

Bettering an active political career, the Judge was appointed to the Federal District Court in 1939.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth, and his son, Michael L., Jr.

gether. America has a building job to do.

"First we must bring excellence to our system of criminal justice. This will be a difficult and costly endeavor. It involves research, training, higher pay, more coordination and planning among agencies and jurisdictions. It calls for more resources, better applied. It requires — as does every accomplishment of democracy — the effort of local, state and federal government and the support of the people. It is an endeavor deserving of the attention and support of the people. It is an endeavor deserving of the attention and support of the American Legion. Your Posts can help support their local police and improve local courts and prisons. You can help create public demand for excellence which will bring it to being. You can support a strong, well trained National Guard to prevent domestic violence.

more important than among our youth. Here, the Legion has long provided leadership. Your Boys State and Boys Nation programs, Junior League Baseball, support for the Boy Scouts of America, your high school oratorical contests and other programs have shown what imagination, initiative and hard work can accomplish. Redouble these efforts. Think anew and act anew to help our youth. Because it is in the hearts of young Americans — our future, our most precious resource — and our most lawless citizens — that the war on crime will be won — or lost."

south of the old Mason-Dixon Line.

Brother Agnew assumed the governorship after having served as county executive of Baltimore County for 4 years, an elected office that is equivalent to being mayor of a city of half a million people.

Brother Agnew is a native of Baltimore City. He obtained his Bachelor at Laws Degree from the University of Baltimore where he was to ultimately receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

The honorary initiation of Governor Agnew was conducted by Robert E. Redding, Supreme Justice. Supreme Justice Redding described the principles to which Phi Alpha Delta subscribes.

Brother Dan Halpin, District XIII Justice then presented Governor Agnew with a book containing 50 letters from Governors, United States Senators, United States Congressmen, Members of the United States Judiciary, City Mayors, and State Court Judges welcoming Governor Agnew as a member of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity.

Brother Halpin quoted excerpts from some of the many letters received including:

The letter from Brother Tom C. Clark, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, retired who said, "I have taken considerable interest in the fraternity and find that it renders a great service to the undergraduate as well as to the practicing attorney. You bring into the fraternity a wide experience that will be of great benefit to us."

Judge Carter, Chief Judge of the United States District Court for the Southern District of California said, "I regret that I cannot be present on October 7 in the Maryland State Senate Chamber when you will be initiated into Phi Alpha Delta as an honorary member of the fraternity, welcome."

Judge Paul Rao, Chief Judge of the United States Customs Court said, "Congratulations upon your initiation as an honorary member in PAD. It's an organization of which I have been a member for many years and I commend it to you highly."

Judge Warren E. Burger, United States Court of Appeals said, "The fraternity is in the forefront of programs to improve the administration of justice and your presence as a member will aid this long range objective."

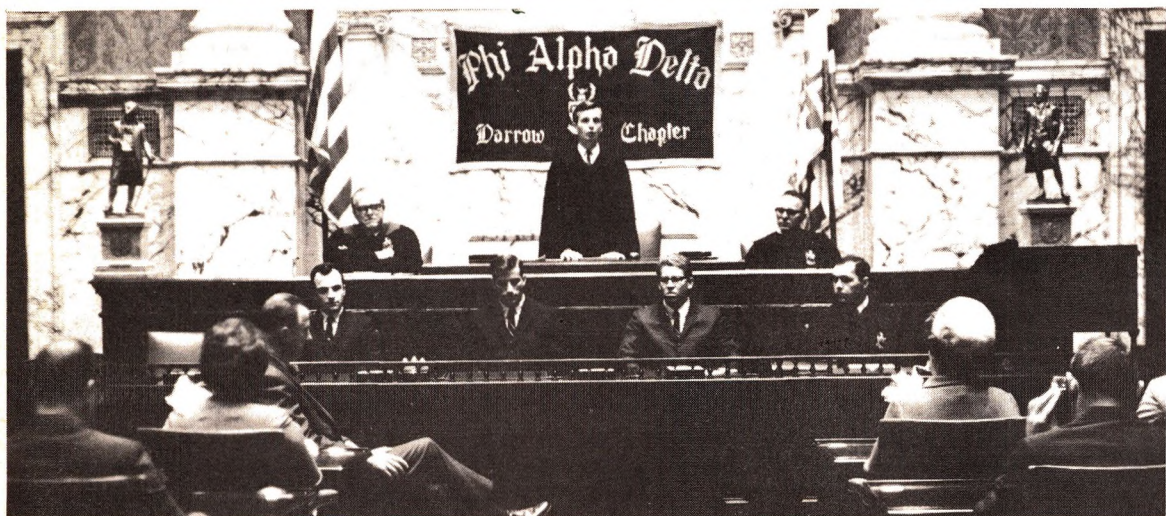

United States Senator Frank Carlson from Kansas said, "Congratulations to you for this honor and for the wonderful job you are doing serving the State of Maryland."

United States Senator Allen Bible of Nevada said, "These objectives and ideals of our fraternity will be strengthened by your presence on our rolls and your contribution to its progress."

Governor Agnew was then introduced to those in attendance and said,

"My good friend Supreme Justice Redding, District Justice Halpin, Tribune Moore, Justice Mitchell of the Darrow Chapter, my brothers of the Fraternity, and the friends of PAD, Phi Alpha Delta here assembled. Its pretty difficult to sit with any degree of equanimity and listen while your vitruis which you consider to be somewhat light in weight are categorically displayed before a very somber audience, and I sympathize to some extent with those of you who have undergone the same ritual, and I would judge the only time it's really comfortable would be when you're either insensible or probably on that last eulogy when the minister is recounting for the benefit of those assembled what you did good during your lifetime. But I do very much appreciate the kind words of Don Moore and the feelings of the Fraternity members who collaborated in the decision that probably I would eventually work out to be more of an asset than a liability to Phi Alpha Delta.

"I have hoped that after some years of public service I may be, my efforts may be channeled into a productive area so that possibly the years to come may produce something a little better than those that have gone so far. But I am most honored to become a member of this large law fraternity, and particularly to become a member during the tenure of Bob Redding as Supreme Justice. Bob Redding has been my friend for several years, and has worked with me in governmental affairs. I don't say political affairs, because I don't think anyone could ever get Justice Redding to work in a purely political atmosphere. He is a servant of government not of a political party, and he did a magnificent job in helping us to evolve a fiscal reform program, and in working with our administration since I've been elected, in the areas of Transportation. I think Bob Redding's greatest attribute as far as I'm concerned, is that he brings along with a sharp mind a sensitive one. There are many very incisive, dedicated, well educated people in the world today, but there are few that are able to utilize the traditional methods of persuasiveness, and sensitivity to the rejection that usually follows any great departure or innovation in thinking. I think Bob is one of those rare individuals who is persuasive as well as logical, and there is a great difference as most of you know.

Finch Addresses L.A. Alumni

Brother Robert H. Finch, an alumnus member of Ross Chapter at the University of Southern California, and Lt. Governor of the State of California, addressed the over 200 brothers in attendance at the annual Judges Night festivities sponsored by the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter.

Those in attendance on the evening of October 10 enjoyed a warm cocktail reception from 6:00-7:30 followed by a delicious steak dinner at the Mona Lisa Restaurant.

ROSS CHAPTER ACTIVITIES

Ross Chapter at the University of Southern California began the year with a cocktail party on September 1, 1967 to which all of the first year students were invited.

This event was followed by a swimming party on September 9, 1967 and the rush program was climaxed by a steak fry at the home of Judge Albert Lee Stephens, Jr. The steak fry was a tremendous success thanks to the participation of the Honorable Goodwin Knight, former governor of the State of California, Fred Hall, former governor of Kansas, Charles Beardsley, former President of the California State Bar Association, and Robert E. Redding, Supreme Justice of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity.

Brother Redding took time out from a meeting of the National Executive Board in Los Angeles to speak to those in attendance at the steak fry.

Ross Chapter has plans for a number of speaker luncheons, alumni events, and parties to complete the social calendar of the year.

Ross Chapter has plans for a scholastic assistance program for PAD pledges has begun with the aid of PAD brothers on the USC Law Review.

Fraternity is doing, that I heard recounted by the Chapter members who have spoken is of most importance not only to the legal profession, but to the country today. And I say this as I look around and note the activities of other professional groups who are drifting from the pure professionalism, that we would hope they would espouse into a characteristic militancy and an, 'I want stature,' that does their profession little good. I think the law profession so far has resisted this temptation to bargain collectively. I think collective bargaining is a great thing for people who are not of the professions, who find it necessary to band together to protect themselves from incursions into their rights by people who have vastly superior forces to muster against them. I can't say I believe this is true of the professions, by the very weight and importance of their place in society, it would seem to me that they need not organize into a group to present their weight as a unified bludgeon against the public. I think the law profession proves beyond any doubt, and I think it's only because of organizations like Phi Alpha Delta, that keep the professional viewpoint ever foremost among lawyers, that we have not succumbed to some extent a natural desire to improve our image by utilizing the greatest weight we can muster for our profession. It seems that the law profession is often maligned, and I think that our public relations has not been of the best in the past. This Fraternity's work, and its work not only with law students, but with the Bar Associations; those of us in government, will contribute vastly to public understanding of what a lawyer is supposed to do; what a teacher of law is expected to teach; and what a student is expected to take from his formal education in the law school. These times are troubled and we face much civil unrest, much lawlessness masquerading under the guise of civil disobedience, which to me is just a fancy way of avoiding indicates that the law is being broken. On the other hand it's not fair or circumspect for us to simply say that law and order is to be preserved without a close examination and a scrutiny of what there is that is causing the unrest. We

Justice Baldo Kristovich interrupted the light-hearted camaraderie to introduce the other officers of the Alumni Chapter seated at the head table. They were: Phillip M. Battaglia, Jr., First Vice Justice; John A. Arguelles, Judge of the Municipal Court, Second Vice Justice; Edward L. Masry, Third Vice Justice; Clarke E. Stephens, Judge of the California District Court of Appeals, Clerk; and Wayne Veatch, Marshal. Brother Laughlin E. Waters, Treasurer, could not attend.

Representing the Supreme Executive Board were Henry C. Rohr, Supreme Advocate, and Matthew S. Rae, Supreme Treasurer.

More than 15 judges were in attendance and were recognized in the traditionally warm, brotherly way by Judge Arthur K. Marshall. Among those in attendance were C. Newell Carns, Retired; James DiGiuseppe, Los Angeles Municipal Court; Lawrence E. Drumm, Los Angeles Municipal Court; George Francis, Los Angeles Superior Court; Allen Miller, Los Angeles Superior Court; Harold W. Schweitzer, Los Angeles Superior Court; Albert Lee Stephens, Jr., United States District Court; Joseph W. Vickers, Retired; Herbert V. Walker, Los Angeles Superior Court; Charles H. Woodmansee, Presiding Judge of the Los Angeles Municipal Court; Joseph Marchetti, Retired; Rafael H. Galceran, Los Angeles Municipal Court; and Commissioner Joseph DiGiuseppe.

Following the introduction of officers and judges, Lt. Governor Robert Finch addressed those in attendance on "New Dimensions of Involvement."

He pointed out that new problems are arising as a result of the establishment of three megapolitan areas; one, traversing the area from Massachusetts to Virginia, one from Wisconsin to Pennsylvania and one from San Francisco to San Diego.

The problems that are arising as a result of these megapolitan areas include the need for tremendous quantities of natural resources, problems of transportation, law enforcement and poverty.

Mass media, Brother Finch pointed out, is bringing all people together. The poor now know the advantages of the rich and the rich can no longer ignore the situation of the poor.

Brother Finch said that in light of the foregoing problems it is necessary that government turn its attention to priority. He queried as to whether the expenditures being made to develop an SST airplane, which will carry passengers from coast to coast in approximately 2½ hours, is more important than alleviating the problem of a man living in Watts who must take 2½ hours to get to work on public transportation.

He also queried as to whether the money being spent to put a man on the moon once is better spent there than exploring the natural resources available in the Pacific Ocean.

Brother Finch pointed to education as being the area where progress must be made in bringing curriculum up to date with modern society and to alleviate mass unemployment. As he pointed out, children by the time they reach kindergarten age have logged three to four thousand hours of television and radio. They have seen everything from a full scale war to the death of a President. This, he said, prepares children to face learning at a stage beyond Jack and Jill.

Lt. Governor Finch told those in attendance that the foregoing problems can best be handled by state and local governments as well as non-governmental organizations such as churches and the bar association.

Valparaiso Hosts Dist. VIII Conclave

The 1967 Annual Conclave of District VIII was held at Wellman's Holiday Inn in Valparaiso, Indiana, on April 8, 1967. The Conclave was hosted by the Halleck Chapter of Valparaiso University Law School, Valparaiso, Indiana.

The Conclave began on Friday evening with registration followed by a reception held at the local Elks Club.

The Conclave was officially called to order at 9:00 a.m. Saturday morning by James McCabe, Justice of the Halleck Chapter. Following the call to order a formal welcome to Valparaiso University School of Law was extended by Brother Louis F. Bartelt, Dean of Valparaiso Law School.

Nine of the District's eleven chapters were represented and reported on their various Chapter activities during the past year. Some of the recurring topics were: the success of rush, Chapter finance, social events, such as cocktail parties, dinner dances and theater parties. Some of the service activities provided to the students and law schools were: disbursement of materials on how to write legal papers to the first year students, lectures and guided tours of the library for first year classes. Reports were given on the success of panel discussion in various fields of the law and in particular the success of the symposium on the practical aspect of doing business abroad sponsored, by the Story Chapter of DePaul University. Several of the Chapters reported on the success of the use of a formal and ritualistic national initiation. This type of initiation was well accepted by the delegates and will become the accepted method of initiation for Chapters not now using it.

LaFollette Chapter of Marquette University was selected as host for the 1968 Annual Conclave.

Following the Conclave luncheon, Charles V. Falkenberg, Jr., District VIII Justice, introduced Hon. C. Raymond Judice, Supreme Historian, who delivered a stimulating and thought provoking address on the duties of the lawyer in our society, especially the duty to defend and support legal institutions when they come under attack.

In conjunction with the Conclave the PAD wives sponsored a luncheon and fashion show for all the attending delegates' wives.

The afternoon program of the Conclave was a seminar on pensions and profit sharing. The seminar panel was outstanding and consisted of the following men:

Moderator, Hal L. Nutt, C.L.U., Director Life Insurance Marketing Institute, Purdue University. Mr. Nutt is nationally renowned for moderating life insurance seminars.

Speakers: Mr. Oliver Wendell Lanning, Associate General Counsel Lincoln National Life Insurance Company. Topic: Self-Employed Pension Plans and Pension Plans in General.

Mr. K. B. Wilson, Associate General Counsel Insurance, American United Life Insurance Company. Topic: Separate Account-Variable Annuity Programs.

Falkenberg, Jr., District VIII Justice; Trudie McCabe, Justice of Halleck Chapter at Valparaiso University School of Law; Norman Korfist, Vice Justice of Halleck Chapter; Anne Korfist; and C. Raymond Judice, Supreme Historian.

Mr. Eugene Hicks, C.L.U., Connecticut General Life Insurance Company. Topic: Profit-Sharing Plans.

The seminar was attended by local attorneys and insurance men as well as delegates and local law students.

Saturday's events were culminated by a dinner-dance at the Lembke Motor Inn in Valparaiso. During the dinner portion of the evening the Halleck Chapter, as host, presented Charles V. Falkenberg, Jr., District Justice, and Hon. C. Raymond Judice, Supreme Historian, gifts in token of Halleck Chapter's appreciation for their help and guidance given throughout the Conclave.

The Halleck Chapter would like to give special recognition to their Brothers who headed the committees for the Conclave:

James McCabe, chairman of Conclave; Irving Ochenschlager and Richard Trichel, finance co-chairmen; Paul Hennecke and Kenneth Marks, registration co-chairmen; Mark Holton and Robert Bcsin, social co-chairmen.

In a brief summation the Conclave was very successful in all respects. The Chapter Reports and Workshops were not only informative but also creative. Service to the student, the Law School, and the profession was fulfilled through the informative seminar. Finally the Brothers of District VIII were enabled to gather to discuss their Fraternity with their Brothers and to share with them fellowship and brotherhood.

must get to the root causes of these explosions, and while it's a very simple and concise thing to do, to merely indicate that those who break the law will be punished. This will not stop a continuation of law breaking. Law breaking will only be stopped by the continued education of the individual, until he realizes, is competent to realize, through the power of his own mind, of his obligation to his community. This is what this Fraternity, I assume, is all about, it's certainly what government is all about, it's what human relations are all about. I think that

Following his speech a luncheon was held in his honor at which Hull Chapter's PAD Faculty and PAD Alumni were guests and was further honored by a tea which was attended by students and faculty of Cumberland Law School.

Supreme Justice Named Chairman of State Committee

Redding, Supreme Justice of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, was recently named Chairman of the Maryland State Committee to study distribution of the gasoline tax revenues and State highway financing. Governor Spiro T. Agnew appointed the committee in accordance with a joint resolution passed during the 1967 session of the Maryland State Legislature.

I will enjoy and profit by my association with this distinguished legal fraternity. I am honored and flattered by the messages that were read, and I'm particularly touched by the thoughtfulness of the Fraternity in providing me with this beautiful laminated evidence of my membership, and the beautifully bound record of the testimonials of those who have bothered to welcome me into this group. Thank you very much."

Following the initiation ceremonies a reception was held.

THE SPRING INITIATION OF THE PLEDGES TO JOHN L. SULLIVAN CHAPTER at St. Louis University took on deeper meaning by being held in the "Old Courthouse," the scene of the Dred Scott trial. District I Conclave Held in Seattle

The Chapter Brothers of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity located in District I recently completed their annual conclave in Seattle, Wash., on the University of Washington campus.

Chapters represented at the conclave included Kent Chapter at the University of Idaho, Williams Chapter from the University of Oregon, and Dunbar Chapter from the University of Washington.

Those in attendance at the conclave met informally for breakfast on Sept. 29 at the University Towers Hotel. Following breakfast the conclave officially convened on the campus of the University of Washington with District Justice Joe Zimmerman, Jr., presiding, and Brother Henry C. Rohr, Supreme Advocate, and Brother Matthew S. Sandy Rae, Supreme Treasurer, being present.

Topics discussed during the morning session included professional activities; rushing, pledging and indoctrination; and chapter organization and finance.

Following lunch, the delegates and brothers enjoyed an outstanding address by Dr. Giovanni Costigan of the History Department at the University of Washington. Dr. Costigan spoke on the historic significance of England in the evolution of the common law system as we know it and of the obligation incumbent on the legal profession because it is in this tradition.

Topics concerning the legal profession were discussed by a panel consisting of Dennis Feigenbaum, alumni advisor of Dunbar Chapter at the University of Washington; Henry C. Rohr, Supreme Advocate; Matthew S. Sandy Rae, Supreme Treasurer; Joe Zimmerman, District I Justice; Mike Hansen of the Securities and Exchange Commission, and Anthony Wartnik, practicing attorney in Seattle.

The panel discussed the trial lawyer, operation of the law office, and alternatives to private practice.

The Conclave business session reconvened at 3:00 p.m. to consider the report of the by-laws committee. Following the business session, the brothers adjourned to the law school for an exemplification of the ritual including the initiation of the Dunbar Chapter Pledge Class.

The spirits of brotherhood flowed freely at the Edgewater Inn, on the Seattle waterfront, following the business session, where the delegates and brothers enjoyed a social hour preceding the Conclave banquet.

District Attorney General Shriver told those in attendance that "the federal government has vastly superior investigative resources, but relies to a large extent on local resources." He pointed out that there are on the average 30 crimes a day in Nashville and triple that amount on weekends and stated that this vastly overloads the police enforcement.

U.S. Attorney Merritt said the determination of who would handle certain criminal cases is too often determined by custom and the personalities dealing with each other. He said that another problem is that federal authorities are often afraid to give information to the local people because of leaks to the press, which can be prejudicial to the successful prosecution of the case.

Mr. Neal said that good local law enforcement is a matter of dollars and cents and more money must be spent to get a higher quality of man into police work and to provide better training.

Low Appointed to Bench

Brother Harry Low, an alumnus of Field Chapter, at Boalt Hall, was recently elevated to the San Francisco Municipal Court from the Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

Following graduation from Boalt Hall, Brother Low joined the Attorney General's office and quickly gained notoriety for his outstanding work with the tax section. While there he also played an important role in coordinating the collection activities of state taxing agencies, and served for several years as Chairman of this special inter-departmental group set up for that purpose.

His other activities include: Chairman of Youth for Service in Chinatown; Secretary of the Board of Youth for Service, and Vice President of the Multi-Cultural Council; and he is active in plans for establishment of a multi-cultural project to give children additional understanding of the rich and diverse cultures of the city in which they live. 17. From a fiscal standpoint, the Fraternity enjoyed a good year in 1966-67, and a national budget was approved for the coming fiscal year to finance a growing program. Progress was also made toward the goal established at the Kansas City Convention in 1966 of having sufficient cash reserves at the beginning of a fiscal year to fund a full future-year operation. At the beginning of the fiscal year recently concluded, the non-reserve cash on hand equalled 41% of the total cash expenditures during the year, whereas the total cash then available equalled 88% of such expenditures.

The foregoing highlights indicate that PAD continues to progress in its role of service to the law student, the law school, and the legal profession. Let all PAD's everywhere share in this role during the weeks and months ahead.

Fraternally,
Robert E. Redding
Supreme Justice

Legal Profession In 1970

The proportion of all lawyers engaged in private practice is a declining segment of the total profession. The most rapidly increasing segment is lawyers who are being employed for salary by corporations and government, and more recently by poverty program related community agencies.

Within the private practice segment, the day of the predominance of sole practitioners appears numbered, but there will remain a place for the solo lawyer. The past decade has seen a decline in the actual number of lawyers practicing alone. During the past three years, their numbers have held even.

The number of lawyers practicing as partners or associates of firms is rising rapidly. Almost 100,000 lawyers are now in the firm type of practice. Their number increased by over 13% in the last three years, continuing a trend which has been apparent for over a decade.

There are a number of factors contributing to the changes taking place in the organization of private practice. The same economic forces which create fewer but larger business corporations favor the larger form of legal organization with its greater resources and more specialized legal talent. At the same time, organizations of specialized attorneys will grow stronger as they get increased use through referral and reputation. The information explosion alone will overwhelm those who "try to keep up with everything". Increasing awareness among lawyers of the personal security and higher income generally available in the organized form of practice also add substantially to the trend to law partnerships.

While the many surveys of lawyers conducted by bar associations in recent years bring evidence that size is the most consistent factor correlating positively with higher income, our own consulting work in assisting firms who are enlarging or merging indicates that size alone will not bring improvement in legal performance or economic return. Economic success derives from the ability to manage the volume of work and the organization and system that make for effective and profitable client service.

The call for lawyers in the 1970's will not only be stronger for legal work in private and corporate practice and in government, but there will also be more demand for lawyer-trained persons in positions of executive nature.

This will force a continued upgrading of the lawyer's economic judgment and administrative competence, the quality of his assistants, and the judicious selection of modern record keeping and research methods.

Higher costs for supporting personnel and higher income requirements for attorneys will demand improved cost systems in the private law offices.

The interchange of legal personnel between private, corporate and government law departments will bring a better understanding throughout the country of the nature of opinions that each may have. Lawyers will be better understood by many lawyer-trained top executives. The need for specialists in national and international law will be even greater as the knowledge required for pinpointed advice and legal service grows ever more complex.

More use will be made of salary and income studies for lawyers. These studies will tend to aid the career patterns for persons in occupations of similar stature and assist the senior group in their desire to provide a better motivated staff in an era of shortage of qualified legal personnel.

Lawyers are becoming better educated and will require ever higher skills to face successfully the greater complexities of practice in the 1970's. As an example, the State Bar of Georgia has just recently advocated higher educational standards for admission in that state. National law schools now generally require a four year degree prior to admission. And increasing numbers of lawyers are seeking advanced legal educations and are participating in the rapidly expanding continuing legal education programs.

William J. Corbett, an alumnus member of Wormser Chapter at Fordham University Law School, was recently sworn in as Assistant District Attorney of Nassau County, New York. He is also Public Relations Chairman of the Nassau County Bar Association.

The 1970's hold promise for the legal profession to serve a wider clientele, and for better organization, improved skills and higher income for those lawyers who can properly prepare to meet the needs of a more sophisticated society.

1968 Convention

Plans for the 1968 Biennial National Convention of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity in Washington, D.C. were reviewed. The convention preparation is well in hand and from what can be anticipated at this date, it appears that the convention will be one of the most outstanding in the fraternity's history.

Expansion

The Supreme Executive Board carefully examined the petition of the Little Rock Division of the University of Arkansas for a chapter of Phi Alpha Delta to be known as Joseph T. Robinson Chapter.

The petition was approved subject to receipt of a written investigation report recommending approval, which is on the way.

1970 National Convention

Preliminary plans are being made to hold the 1970 National Convention of PAD in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Alumni Delegates to 1968 Convention

The alumni delegates from each of the alumni chapters to the 1968 National Convention will receive their travel and hotel expenses. In order to qualify for this credit, the following requirements were set by the Supreme Executive Board:

1. The annual alumni chapter tax of $15.00 per year must be paid for two fiscal years subsequent to the 1966 convention.
2. Each alumni chapter must hold at least two meetings during the period August 1, 1967 through July 31, 1968, with an attendance of at least ten persons at each meeting.
3. Each alumni chapter must have duly elected officers.

Elder Statesmen's Club

The Supreme Executive Board considered the subject of a "Past 65 Club" and after discussion approved of the principal and named J. Harry LaBrum, past Supreme Justice, as Chairman.

Alumni Service Committee

The report of the Alumni Service Committee was considered by the Supreme Executive Board. The Board resolved to institute forthwith a most outstanding member award to be made by each alumnus chapter during each fiscal year of the fraternity. Also a certificate of appreciation is now available to alumni chapters as well as active chapters.

A professor exchange program whereby Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity would sponsor the exchange of law professors between countries was taken under consideration and a committee appointed to make a preliminary report on the need and feasibility of such a program.

Likewise a committee was established to consider the feasibility of undertaking a student exchange program similar to the faculty exchange program.

Conclave Committee

The Conclave Committee Report was presented to the Supreme Executive Board. The report recommended that the policy of holding annual District Conclaves continue and in addition, the formation of a chapter officers seminar on a District level.

The Supreme Executive Board affirmed the policy of holding annual District Conclaves and resolved to initiate a chapter officers seminar on a trial basis in one District during the current fiscal year.

In reference to District Conclaves, the Supreme Executive Board decreed that the preparation of the budget, program, hotel arrangements and banquet arrangements must be initiated by and approved by the District Justice and that no commitment which requires the expenditure of funds can be made without the prior approval of the District Justice. This action was taken to avoid deficits in District budgeting which has occurred in the past.

Further in conjunction with the District Conclaves, the Supreme Executive Board resolved to propose an amendment to Section 5 of Chapter VIII of the National By-Laws to read as follows: "Sec. 5. Conclave Officers—District By-Laws shall provide for the election or the appointment of a conclave justice, conclave vice-justice, conclave clerk, conclave treasurer and conclave marshal, and such other conclave officers as may be desired. Such officers shall be chosen from the members of the active chapters in the District and shall perform such duties as may be assigned to them by the District Justice."

The foregoing proposed amendment will be submitted by the Executive Secretary to all chapters for a mail ballot, in accordance with subsection b and c of Section 1 of Chapter VIII of the National By-Laws.

Realizing the value of the presence of the faculty and alumni advisors of each of the active chapters to District Conclaves the Supreme Executive Board resolved to pay their expenses for the fiscal year 1967-1968.

The following resolutions were adopted concerning the conclave format:

1. A one day conclave program to be held on Saturday.
2. A reception to be held on Friday evening preceding the conclave.
3. A banquet without dance on Saturday evening of the conclave.

In an attempt to encourage additional attendance at District Conclaves, the Board established a policy of allocating transportation expenses from the Discretionary Conclave Fund on the following basis: 10c per mile per chapter for round trip from the location of the active chapter to the site of the conclave, such, however, not to exceed the lowest round trip air fare. Finally, the Supreme Executive Board urges all Districts to adopt a registration fee in an amount equal to the actual meal cost for each registrant.

Convention Committees

Standing convention committees were determined by the Board to be: audit and finance, rules, credentials, constitution and national by-laws, resolutions, nominations and publications.

The Executive Secretary was directed to pre-appoint delegates to the standing committees with the exception of the nominating committee, then resolved that each active chapter would be represented on at least one standing committee.

Speech Contest

The principle of an oratorical contest to be held on a District-wide basis was endorsed by the Supreme Executive Board.

Scholarship Committee

After many years, Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity now provides scholarships on a nationwide basis.

This became a reality at the recent Supreme Executive Board meeting when a scholarship grant program was passed providing for the award of fifteen $500 scholarships on a nationwide basis.

The scholarship program was resolved to begin immediately. Applications are available from the Executive Office and are to be presented to the Chapter Faculty Advisors by December 1, 1967.

Pursuant to the program, the faculty advisor is to choose one applicant from his chapter to be presented to the Supreme Tribunal by December 15, 1967.

Fifteen winners will be chosen by the Supreme Tribunal by January 10, 1968 and notified by January 15, 1968.

The scholarship will be delivered to the faculty advisor for delivery to the law school dean for presentation to the recipient upon his enrollment for the next succeeding school term.

In the event the winner does not so enroll but certifies his intention to return to school the award will be returned to the Executive Office to be held for later enrollment within a reasonable period to be determined by the Supreme Tribunal and not to exceed three years.

Purchase and Discount Plan

The general purpose of the purchase and discount plan is to afford members of the fraternity an opportunity to purchase office supplies, equipment and law books at a discount.

After a thorough discussion of the proposed plan, the Supreme Executive Board resolved to obtain the opinion from the District Justices, Supreme Tribunal and members of the Supreme Advisory Board regarding its advisability.

Interfraternity Law Conference

The Supreme Executive Board resolved to take the lead in forming Interfraternity Law Conference to be composed of the major law fraternities.

Law Student Honor Code

Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity has also undertaken the lead in establishing a form of standard honor code for law students.

Reporter

The Supreme Executive Board directed that a fifth issue of The Reporter be printed each year to be known as the Alumni Issue and to be printed during the summer.

Supreme Tribunal and Advisory Opinions

The Supreme Tribunal was requested to present an advisory opinion on whether an active chapter could impose a minimum grade standard higher than a law school's rating of good standing as a requirement for membership.

The opinion of the Supreme Tribunal that an active chapter could not impose such a requirement was adopted by the Supreme Executive Board.

The Supreme Advisory Board was also asked to present an opinion as to whether an active chapter could confer honorary membership upon one who is already a member of the fraternity. The Supreme Executive Board adopted the Supreme Tribunal's opinion that such an honorary membership could not be granted.

PAD Tool Kit

Distribution of the publication commonly as the PAD Tool Kit was discussed and it was felt that this guide should be distributed to each active chapter and to all alumni chapter advisors.

Honorary Initiations

The Supreme Tribunal approved petitions for honorary membership for George H. Carswell, Norman C. Hendry, Tillman Pearson, Sam Spector, Charles A. Carroll, Charles R. Scott, Ted Cabot, Claude R. Kirk, Jr. and Congressman Wilbur D. Mills.

Alumni Chapter Notice Mailing Policy

In order to be of the utmost service to alumni chapters it was resolved that only charges to be made for the preparation and mailing of special notices from alumni chapters shall be the actual cost of postage for the first six mailings made by any alumni chapter during each fiscal year. Thereafter, actual postage plus 1c per envelope mailed will be the charge.

In order to facilitate the handling of alumni chapter notices they must be in the hands of the Executive Office at least five full work days prior to the time the notice is to be placed in the mail.

Inns of Court Program

The PAD Inns of Court Program experienced such overwhelming success in the Washington, D. C. area that the Supreme Executive Board determined to undertake to expand the program nationally.

There being no further business the meeting of the Supreme Executive Board adjourned at 6:00 p.m. on Monday, September 18, 1967.

PAD HISTORICAL DATA STILL NEEDED

The response to the request of Brothers C. Raymond Judice and Charles DiGangi for historical information in the May issue of The Reporter was gratifying. However, much historical information is still needed in order to compile the history of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity from its inception in 1897 as the "Law Student League."

The following information is of particular importance:

1. Photographs and biographies of the founders of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity who were: Mark H. Bell, H. W. Bloomington, C. L. Daly, Asahel W. Gage, James R. Garrett, E. G. Henkle, Roland M. Hollock, H. F. Holste, Elias Mayer, Paul C. Meier, Sidney Meyer, Fred L. Nees, Shelly B. Neltone, J. M. Prentiss, M. B. Schuster, E. N. Sherburne, F. T. Sutton, Alfred Thompkins, George B. Watson.
2. Information concerning Lambda Epsilon including:
 - A. The founding in 1898
 - B. The cause for its dissolution
 - C. Records and minutes of Lambda Epsilon
3. Records and Convention minutes of the founding convention of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity.
4. Photographs and biographies of each of the Supreme Justices including Past Supreme Justices Dwight H. Green, William S. Culbertson, Allan T. Gilbert, John J. Nangle, Rex Hardy, George E. Fink, Frank L. Fawcett, August A. Rendigs, Jr., George L. Stewart, Edgar A. Janas, James P. Aylward, Edward J. Hess, Thomas P. Octiban, Paul C. Meier, Waldemar C. Wehe, William C. Healion, and Roland M. Hollock. Photographs taken at or near the time that they held office would be especially appreciated.
5. Photographs and biographies of all Chapter namesakes.

In the event that you have any information at all concerning the history of the fraternity in reference to the above items or concerning any other matter which you feel to be of value, please complete and forward the following form.
