Past Supreme Justice Elwyn Thomas Dies

The Hon. Elwyn Thomas, retired Chief Justice of the Florida Supreme Court and Past Supreme Justice of PAD, died February 28, 1971, after a long illness. Justice Thomas' judicial career was long and distinguished. He retired in January, 1969 after serving 31 years on the State's highest court including two terms as Chief Justice.

He received his B.A. and LL.B. degrees from Stetson University which in 1951 awarded him an honorary Doctor of Law Degree. In 1962 he received the University's Distinguished Citizen Award.

Justice Thomas was known as a stickler for judicial precision and decorum. His decisions were characterized by terse and incisive treatment of legal points.

Taking cognizance of the importance to Florida of tourism, he was one of the first to establish the principle that beauty, as well as health, safety and morals, may be considered in setting up zoning restrictions.

He served as first chairman of the Florida Judicial Council from 1953 to 1957. During his term the amendment to the Judiciary article establishing the new intermediate courts of appeal was adopted.

He became a member of the American Judicial Council in 1951 and served as Chairman of the Section on Judicial Administration of the American Bar Association from 1956 to 1957.

He received the Distinguished Award of the Florida Bar for his unique and outstanding contribution of lasting value to the people of Florida and to the nation in improving the administration of justice as the first chairman of the Judicial Council of Florida and as chairman of the Section of Judicial Administration of the American Bar Association.

An avid, dedicated and enthusiastic PAD from the date of his initiation until the date of his death, Justice Thomas will be greatly missed by the thousands of brothers who came to know and love him so well.

PAD's NEWEST CHAPTER — Shown above are Charter members and the installation team for the Raymond Watkins Chapter at North Carolina Central University.

New Chapter Installed at N.C. Central University

PAD's 123rd active chapter was installed April 24, 1971 at North Carolina Central University. The group of petitioners was composed of 48 law students and was headed by Archie Elliott, Charter Justice and President of the School's Student Bar Association.

Presiding at the installation ceremony was Supreme Justice Alex Hotchkiss of Lyndon, Kansas. He was assisted by Supreme Marshal of Brevard, North Carolina, and members of Timberlake Chapter at Wake Forest University School of Law.

The initiation and installation ceremonies took place in the Durham County Superior Courtroom.

The Name of Raymond Watkins was selected as the chapter's name in honor of the late Professor Raymond Watkins, a former professor of law at North Carolina Central University. Professor Watkins received his LL.B. and J.D. Degrees from John Marshall Law School in Chicago, Illinois. He served in the United States Army from 1921 until 1960 when he was promoted to Brigadier General.

Charter Chapter Officers are: Archie Elliott, Justice; John Taylor, Vice Justice; Mable Minor, Clerk; Charles McNeil, Treasurer; Roscoe Bryant, Marshal; Professor Daniel Sampson, Faculty Advisor; and Attorney Sammie Chess, Alumni Advisor.

Attendance at '70 Convention Leads to Nuptials

Brother Robert W. Schivera, Justice of Timberlake Chapter at Wake Forest University School of Law, probably got more out of the 1970 Convention than did anyone else in attendance. However, at the time he didn't really realize what he was getting.

One of the functions was the Barrister's Ball and local alumni and students furnished dates for those who desired them. Brother Schivera's date was Nena Cabrini and the two seemed to hit it off very well. The Reporter has just learned from Brother Schivera that on December 19th of this year he and Miss Cabrini will be united in marriage.

Brother Schivera also recently received the good news that he was the winner of one of the forty $500 PAD Scholarships.

Analysis of Freeze on Lawyer's Fees and Salaries from

Daniel J. Cantor and Company Management Consultants

Lawyers in private practice and in corporate organizations should take certain steps now in compliance with President Nixon's executive order of August 16, 1971, and in anticipation of further government actions. This is the opinion of Daniel J. Cantor, head of Daniel J. Cantor & Company of Philadelphia-San Francisco, consultants in economics and management practices to the legal profession.

Mr. Cantor believes that attorneys in private practice who use hourly rates as an important basis for billing should record those upper limits of hourly rates, or rate ranges, used during the 30 day period ending August 14, 1971. Similarly, those firms who have had verbal or written policies on fees, or internal fee schedules, should maintain a record of how this was done during the above period.

While salaries are frozen by the new presidential order, profits do not appear to be regulated except insofar as they are affected by controlled fees. Therefore, partners in a law firm, whether capital or non-capital members of the firm, do not seem to be regulated in their sharing of the net profits of the practice.

Salaried lawyers in corporations, associates' salaries and the salaries or wages paid to nonlawyers appear to be affected, even as to merit increases and promotions. However, Mr. Cantor notes that previous history with this type of control ultimately looked more kindly on those organizations who maintained a professionally acceptable salary administration plan. In his opinion, the upgrading of lawyer skills and maturity, and improved qualification of nonlawyers, cannot be ignored over too long a period in terms of compensation.

Mr. Cantor notes that it would appear that salaries can be determined for new jobs such as a paralegal, an office manager, lawyers at a given level, or a position with a new combination of functions.

In such cases, he advises that the responsibilities and relationships should be adequately described when a salary schedule is set for the new position. The salary should be determined on the basis of comparable jobs within the firm or, if no comparison exists, on the basis of comparable jobs in nearby firms.

Since one of the main purposes of the executive order is to stabilize the economy by providing services at a proper cost, it is in the national interest for each legal office to take this opportunity to review the effectiveness of its organization and the efficiency of its operations.

In Mr. Cantor's opinion, the law office should be prepared with a complete income distribution and salary program. Past experience has shown that organizations who are so prepared are in a more advantageous position to have their plans accepted if later permitted by interpretations of such executive orders, or future more definitive regulations if the present one is continued beyond its 90 day period.

Michael B. Harwin
Appointed Exec. Secretary

At its recent meeting the Supreme Executive Board appointed Michael B. Harwin as the new Executive Secretary of the Fraternity.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, Mike attended Rutgers University where he majored in political science and graduated with honors. He attended New York University School of Law and became a member of Rapallo Chapter, of which he served as Justice, and was the chapter's delegate to the 1970 Convention. Mike was Articles Editor of the Journal of International Law & Politics at N.Y.U.

While attending law school Brother Harwin was employed as a legal assistant to the Chief Counsel at New York City Commission for the United Nations, a law clerk for Attorney Theodore P. Halperin, a New York PAD, and as legal assistant to Chief Appellate Attorney at the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York.

Brother Harwin graduated from N.Y.U. in June, 1971 and took the New York Bar in July.

THE SUPREME EXECUTIVE BOARD MEETS IN ASHEVILLE

In August of this year the members of the Supreme Executive Board met in Asheville, North Carolina. In accordance with the direction of the 1970 Convention two students were invited to attend. Their impressions of the meeting follow:

Paul C. Hurdle, III
Second Year Law Student
Jefferson Chapter
University of Virginia

It is indeed an exciting prospect to attend, and, in a very real sense, participate in, a meeting of the Supreme Executive Board. Too often members of the Board are mere names to students at the local chapter level. In person, in spite of their diversity, one factor is immediately apparent to the student brother: these men are dedicated to and extremely active in furthering the purposes of the fraternity, not for amorphous national prestige, but for the benefit of each and every brother on the local level. Although some details of that meeting need not be mentioned, this analysis will not attempt to be a recantation of the minutes of our meeting in Asheville, North Carolina, during August 1971, but rather a general set of impressions from the point of view of a student of the operations of PAD International.

Supreme Justice Hotchkiss, Supreme Vice Justice Rae, Supreme Advocate Judice, Supreme Secretary Hutson, Supreme Treasurer Moore, Supreme Historian Maloney and Executive Director Weitkamp met at the Sheraton Inn in Asheville to spend our days in working sessions. Our host was Supreme Marshal Charles Taylor, who did an extraordinary job of making arrangements and showing everyone present the beauties and points of interest in his native Blue Ridge country. Our social contacts served to enhance the exchange of ideas in working sessions.

It is quite educational and impressive to observe the internal workings of the fraternity. The Board does not try to rule local chapters with an iron hand, but rather to operate for the benefit and growth of all chapters. For example, services for initiates, the life insurance program, scholarships, and the Endowment Fund loan program were all discussed at length with an eye toward the personal needs of students. The role of women in PAD was discussed. Students will be able to voice their opinions in a poll to be taken on possible merger with Phi Delta Delta, the women's legal fraternity. Possible expansion into Canada and Mexico was discussed as increasing service to international law schools and students. Brother Hutson moved for several committees of direct concern to students: a committee to study professional programming on the local chapter level and a committee to revise the Placement Advisory Manual. The site for the 1972 Convention was set in San Diego, and Board members were quite thorough in getting sentiment on all phases of convention planning.

Outstanding chapters were also selected. Timberlake took the Continuing Excellence Award, and in regular competition the winners were Rasco, Garland, and McCormick in first, second, and third places, respectively. There were many other thoroughly discussed issues and programs not of general interest to this brief article, but which impressed one with the dedication and intense preparation of Board members.

Our social activities were numerous and enjoyable. We saw the Thomas Wolfe home, the outdoor Cherokee Indian drama, Unto These Hills, the opera Il Trovatore at the Brevard Music Center, and Biltmore, the beautiful Vanderbilt estate. Also there were several enjoyable dinners, including a notable barbecue at Brother Taylor's mountaintop home.

In summary, I realized how fortunate I am to be a brother in Phi Alpha Delta and how ardently the Supreme Executive Board members are working for our benefit. Let us as brothers work just as hard for the fraternity on the local chapter level.

LUTHER T. MOORE

Justice, Ruffin Chapter,
University of North Carolina

In August I was invited to attend the Supreme Executive Board meeting which was held in Asheville, North Carolina. I eagerly accepted the invitation, but I was not quite sure what to expect when I arrived in Asheville on August 6.

Upon my arrival I was greeted warmly by the Board members and was made to feel "right at home" as we say in North Carolina. Although I was attending the meeting as an observer with no voting rights, I was asked to take an active part in the meeting and to give my views on the matters being considered. Each board member was very interested in hearing student ideas, and they frequently asked questions of myself and Paul Hurdle of Jefferson Chapter, the other student in attendance.

The Supreme Executive Board met for 3½ days and considered a lengthy agenda. Serious attention was given to each matter on the agenda with the purpose of seeking new ways and ideas as to how PAD can be improved so that it can serve its members better. I know that this sounds like an idealistic statement but nevertheless it is true. For example, I was impressed by the board's effort to secure additional funds for our student loan program. A great deal of time has been spent and will be spent to increase the funds available for loans to PADs who need some financial aid in order to finish law school.

The agenda covered a wide range of matters including financial reports, committee reports, plans for the 1972 Convention, and the PAD Directory. Much time was spent on ways to strengthen the programs of the fraternity, and a new committee was established to study the goals of the fraternity with emphasis on new professional programs and ideas.

The primary purpose of the Supreme Executive Board is to make decisions and plans concerning the operation of the fraternity when the Convention is not meeting. After the Convention has met, the Board is responsible for implementing the recommendations and decisions approved by the Convention. In order to keep the fraternity operating smoothly, the board usually meets twice a year in various places throughout the country.

I have several impressions of our board members which lead me to the conclusion that PAD has strong national leadership. First, our board members are very receptive to new ideas and are willing to recognize that changes need and often have to be made. This quality is especially important since the fraternity and its programs must be

Hospital Money Plan Benefits Increased

Benefits have been increased for the more than 1,400 members of Phi Alpha Delta participating in the hospital-money plan underwritten by CNA/insurance. Effective now through November 30, 1971, benefits are increased 10 per cent at no additional cost to participants.

In addition, the hospital-money plan now provides a double indemnity provision for hospitalization due to cancer and hospitalization under intensive care.

"The hospital-money plan provides cash when it is needed most," explained Fredrick Weitkamp, Executive Director. "Ordinary living expenses continue even if a person is hospitalized. And while other hospital insurance may pay for the usual costs of a hospital stay, the hospital-money plan provides cash to use as it's needed — for rent or house payments, for domestic help if a member's wife is hospitalized, for special services if one of the children suddenly requires hospitalization."

Most other insurance policies have a deductible portion. The hospital-money plan provides cash — $30 a day plus 10% added benefit for members, and $20 a day plus 10% added benefit for the insured member's wife and children — to help assure that the deductible and other expenses of a hospital stay will be met.

Cash is paid starting from the first day of hospitalization, up to 365 days. For a month-long stay, the insured would receive $990; he would receive $660 if his spouse or child were hospitalized for a month.

Phi Alpha Delta members under age 60 are eligible to apply. Once covered, insurance is renewable for life. Worldwide all-risk protection covers accident and sickness with 24-hour protection, on and off the job.

Applications may be obtained from Phi Alpha Delta, 10722 White Oak Ave., Granada Hills, California 91344.

Lawyer Incorporation Increasing

Twenty or more out of the states reporting have made it possible for lawyers to practice as professional corporations in the period 1969-70. And in only eight states are lawyers presently prohibited from forming corporations.

This information was collected for LAWYERS WORLD magazine by the consulting firm of Daniel J. Cantor & Company in May to July of this year. State bar associations and government agencies furnished the information.

As of the time of the study, California reported the largest number of incorporated law offices (256), followed by Michigan (187) and Florida (136). Although specific numbers are not available, it is known that Minnesota and Texas have substantial numbers of lawyer corporations.

Virtually all of the states have now passed an act of legislature permitting the professions to incorporate. In most of the states where lawyers cannot, at present, form such corporations, only an action of the supreme court is needed. (Courtesy of LAWYERS WORLD magazine).

PADs Head LSD-ABA

Jeffrey Wentworth, a charter member of Sam Rayburn chapter, Texas Tech University School of Law, was recently elected president of the American Bar Association Law Student Division. Wentworth, a third-year law student and immediate past president of the school's Student Bar Association, was elected to head the 15,000-member national organization at the July ABA convention in New York City.

Serving as Vice President will be brother Edward W. Babic, a charter member of Sammis Chapter at Southwestern School of Law.

A member of PAD since the fall of 1969, Wentworth has been an active worker in the Rayburn Chapter, having served on the local finance and speaker committees. He was honored as the chapter's "Outstanding Member for 1970-71" in May of this year.

A native of San Antonio, Texas, Wentworth had just completed a term as second vice-president of the national ABA student group when he was elected to the presidency. Prior to his nomination he had been slated to serve as the division's House of Delegates chairman for 1971-72. He resigned the post, however, to enter the president's race and was elected on the fifth balloting over a field of four other candidates to become the first Texan ever elected to the division's top post.

Approximately 200 law students from 88 schools across the nation attended the meeting.

As president, Wentworth will chair the executive committee, supervise the work of other officers, maintain contacts with other professional association members and act as the official representative of the group at a number of functions. He pointed out that the Law Student Division plays a four-part role in bridging the gap between classroom instruction and actual practice:

—Further participation by law students in the efforts of the American Bar Association in the formation and revision of standards of legal education;

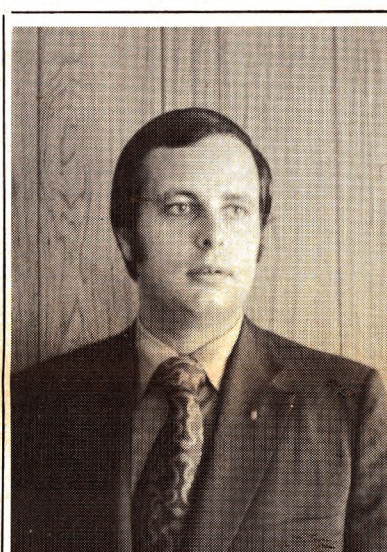

—Achieves awareness and promotes involvement of law students in the solutions of problems which confront today's society;

—Is involved with and participates fully in the direction and aims of the American Bar Association at all levels; and —Promotes professional responsibility.

A candidate for a doctor of law degree from the Texas Tech Law School in May 1972, Wentworth has already taken his state bar examination and because of a quirk in Texas law, he is hopeful of gaining a practicing attorney's license while still working on the last few hours required for attaining his law degree.

Wentworth plans to join a law firm in his hometown of San Antonio which specializes in trial matters.

EDWARD W. BABIC
Vice-President, LSD-ABA

While at Texas Tech, Wentworth has been selected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," founded and served as president of Law Bachelors and served as attorney general of the Tech Student Association in addition to his duties as past president of the Tech Law School's Student Bar Association.

kept up to date in order to serve its members better. Second, our board members are not afraid to disagree with each other. Our board is not a group of "yes men"; often there was sharp disagreement on issues, and each proposal was questioned carefully on its merits and on its ultimate consequences. In fact, my major criticism of the board was that they often spent too much time discussing issues and problems which I did not feel warranted, a great deal of discussions, i.e. they did some nitpicking. Third, our board members are highly competent attorneys and judges who are dedicated to the goals and ideals of Phi Alpha Delta.

By attending the Supreme Executive Board meeting I have become more aware of the potential of Phi Alpha Delta as an excellent vehicle to broaden one's legal education. PAD has a variety of programs available to its members which can prove beneficial to each student if one takes the time to participate actively. As a result, I urge each PAD member to participate fully in the activities of his or her chapter.

DELEGATES TO DISTRICT X CONCLAVE

New Awards Feature District X Conclave

On April 2 and 3, the brothers of District X gathered in Columbus, Ohio for the annual Conclave hosted this year by Hayes Chapter of Capital University. A reception was the highlight of Friday evening, hosted by the Columbus Alumni Chapter. Fifty-five PADS and friends from 8 active chapters and 3 alumni chapters enjoyed a relaxing and informal evening.

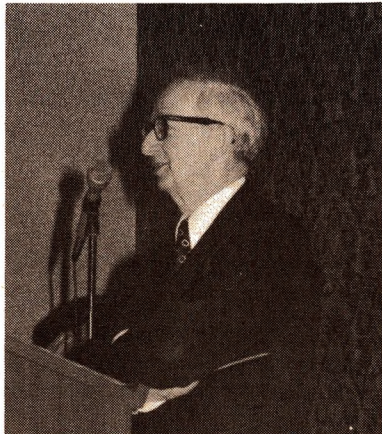

Early Saturday morning the Conclave officially came to life with the 9 a.m. call to order by the District Justice. Dean John McCormac of Capital University greeted the assembled brothers. Eugene Weiss, Hayes Chapter Justice and Larry Singer, Central Ohio Alumni Chapter Justice added their words of welcome.

Immediately the delegates got to the business of the day with the morning session being devoted to 4 chapter workshops.

1. Professional and Social Programs
2. Rushing and Initiation
3. Alumni Relations
4. Well Rounded Chapter

All eight active chapters and two alumni chapters participated in the programs. The Conclave was fortunate to have the presence of Associate Tribune Web Brewer; Hayes Chapter Faculty Adviser John Palmer; and District IX Justice Jim Bierce.

These brothers added immeasurably to the Conclave's success.

OHIO CHIEF JUSTICE C. William O'Neill addresses the District X Conclave on the topic "Ethics."

At 12:00 noon an informal luncheon was held around the indoor heated pool, with a few of the brothers partaking of the facilities.

Gathering after lunch the brothers were fortunate to hear the Hon. C. William O'Neill who spoke on "Ethics" and the problems attorneys face in the practice of law.

Then came the Supreme Vice Justice Sandy Rae who gave the "State of the Fraternity" and spoke on the benefits available from the International offices. A short business session followed with Adams Chapter being selected to host the 1972 Conclave and resolutions being adopted thanking the donors of the door prizes and giveaways and thanking the host chapter's Conclave Committee. Highlights of the football season were then shown.

In the evening the banquet was the site for the presentation of 4 new district awards. Adams Chapter received the Illiana Award, a new rotating trophy designating it as the Outstanding Chapter in the states of Illinois and Indiana in District X for 1970-71.

Hayes Chapter was selected as the Most Improved Chapter in the District for 1970-71 and received the rotating trophy cup.

Hamill Chapter received a plaque suitable for hanging in its school as a PAD trophy for having all its officers at the Conclave.

Eugene Weiss, Conclave Justice and Larry Singer, Columbus Alumni Justice were also honored and presented suitable awards for their conclave services. An Oratorical Contest was also held with Jim Utter, Justice of Hoffman Chapter winning 1st place; Bob Halpert, Adams, 2nd place; and Marion Redstone, Hamill, 3rd place.

Seven Governors are PADS

Governors of seven of our nations' fifty states are members of Phi Alpha Delta. They are: Louis B. Nunn of Kentucky, Richard B. Ogilvie of Illinois, David Hall of Oklahoma, Marvin Mandell of Maryland, George Wallace of Alabama, John A. Love of Colorado and Reubin Askew of Florida.

District V Meets in North Dakota

District V held its Annual Conclave April 2-3, 1971, in Grand Forks, North Dakota, with Corliss Chapter, University of North Dakota Law School serving as host. A unique CASINO NIGHT featuring games-of-Chance reminiscent of the Old West with play money serving as legal tender was the theme of the ice-breaker reception sponsored by the local chapter.

A "State of the National Fraternity" information session with Professor Frank Maloney, Supreme Historian, serving as the resource person, followed the welcome to the University of North Dakota campus by Dean Robert Rushing, College of Law and Myron Striker, Justice of Corliss Chapter.

The remainder of the morning session which was devoted to Chapter reports, became a swap-shop period as chapter delegates highlighted the past year's activities and outlined some especially successful programs each chapter was conducting.

Professor Larry Kraft, UND

Huber New Boston College Dean

Richard G. Huber has been appointed Dean of Boston College Law School. Brother Huber, a member of Hammond Chapter, succeeds

RICHARD G. HUBER

Brother Robert F. Drinan as Dean.

Huber, a professor of law at Boston College for the past 14 years, holds degrees from the U.S. Naval Academy, University of Iowa and Harvard University. He is a recognized authority in the fields of land use, zoning and environmental law. He is chairman of the subcommittee on zoning and subdivision control of the Boston Bar Association and is on the board of directors of the Citizen's Housing and Planning Association of Metropolitan Boston.

College of Law, who has done considerable research regarding criminal correctional methods and institutions, gave a pre-luncheon presentation on Problems of Corrections. The Saturday evening banquet speaker, Warden Robert Moseley, U.S. Maximum Security Penitentiary, Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, followed this same theme in an address and question period regarding his Current Observations on Correctional Institutions.

PROFESSOR FRANK MALONEY, Supreme Historian, presents to the District V Conclave his views on pollution control through stricter state and federal laws, during the panel discussion on Environmental Law during the 1971 District V Conclave held in Grand Forks, North Dakota.

Professor Frank Maloney, Dr. John Vennes, head of the Department of Microbiology, UND and William Seeley, Department of Environmental Affairs, Northern States Power Company, served as panelists during the afternoon session on Environmental Law. The need for pollution control was a well defined area of common agreement among the three panelists and audience participants, but the methods to employ, deciding who should do the controlling and setting of standards, and how the cost should be allocated were all items which elicited wide differences of opinion.

The business meeting concluded with the selection of Cole Chapter, Drake University College of Law as host chapter for the 1972 Conclave. Elected to posts of 1972 Conclave Officers were Walter Johnson, Cole Chapter, Justice; John O'Hanlon, More Chapter, Vice-Justice; L. District VIII Conclave a Snowy Success

An abundance of hospitality, friendship, and a particularly stimulating program, best describes the successful efforts of Ryan Chapter's (University of Wisconsin Law School, Madison) presentation of this year's District VIII Conclave. The Conclave Justice, James Czajkowski (pronounced similar to Tschaikowsky, the composer) arranged a Friday night welcoming pool-side cocktail party at the Holiday Inn. Though traveling was marred by snow and poor driving conditions, Conclave spirits were not. Pool-side "spirits" were furnished as compliments of the Chicago Alumni Chapter.

The Conclave was officially called to order early Saturday morning and the members were welcomed to Madison by Mayor William Dyke. Additionally, Dean Spencer Kimball of the University of Wisconsin Law School, extended a warm greeting and remarked that the Fraternity's involvement in the legal community was outstanding and that the program for the day was evidence of its commitment to the betterment of the profession.

The morning program involved experts of the Wisconsin area in a panel discussion on Environmental Protection. A searing discussion ensued on whether the present Pollution abatement laws were effectively in practice — and if not, why they were not. Members on the panel included representatives from the Law School faculty, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, the Attorney's General's Prodded by questions from the audience and co-panelists, a basic theme dominated — "we are working hard at it (pollution control); progress is being made, but it doesn't come easy." Interestingly, it was illustrated, that much of the inaction in abatement enforcement came not from the inadequacy of the enacted laws, but from: (1.) the understaffing of government agencies, (2.) the jurisdictional and bureaucratic quibblings of state agencies.

The poignant discussion was followed by a luncheon at which Supreme Treasurer, Donald Moore, reviewed the State of the Fraternity. He explained that the Fraternity was on "generally solid footing" and informed the brothers as to scholarship programs and insurance policies now available through the auspices of the National Office.

The afternoon was devoted to Workshops on building membership, alumni relations, social programs and professional projects. Through these workshops new ideas and programs were suggested, many of which the individual chapters decided to institute on their return.

At the close of the meeting, both Lincoln and Story Chapters (Chicago) volunteered to co-host next years conclave. When asked about his future program Justice J. Ward Cooper (Lincoln) said, "We have learned a lot from Ryan's presentation this year. They really did a great job. The accommodations were excellent and the program was exceptionally well done. We hope that because Chicago is centrally located, everyone who can possibly make it will come. We have exciting programs in store for those who do!"

The Conclave ended with a dinner reception at the Maple Bluff Country Club at which Clyde C. Cross, President of the Wisconsin Bar Association was guest speaker. Honored guests included Governor Patrick J. Lucey, the Justices of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, and Ryan Chapter Alumnus of the year, Hon. John W. Reynolds.

The participating Chapters were: Story (DePaul Law School), Lincoln (John Marshall Law School), Fuller (Northwestern Law School), Blackstone (Kent School of Law).
