AUGUST, 1977

Mr. Justice Tom C. Clark Dies

Phi Alpha Delta lost its "ambassador of goodwill" on June 13 when death claimed retired Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark at the age of 77.

An enthusiastic supporter of the Fraternity ever since he became an honorary member in 1945 while he was Attorney General of the United States, Justice Clark had served two terms as Supreme Vice Justice (1964-68) and was one of the first members of the Distinguished Service Chapter, election to which is a rare honor in recognition of "unusual and outstanding service" to the Fraternity. In his extensive travels, he had endeared himself to active and alumni chapters in scores of cities throughout the country. Seldom was he in a city having a PAD Chapter without attending a function or otherwise visiting its members or officers.

Numerous members treasure one or more of his warm and gracious hand-written notes — notes of congratulation, notes of sympathy, notes of reassurance, signed simply "T.C.C."

For more than a decade he had been involved in PAD Day at the Supreme Court, when fraternity members from throughout the country go to Washington for a special group admission to the Bar of the Supreme Court. He frequently made the motion for admission and participated in the pre-admission breakfast reception, as well as the luncheon that followed.

Justice Clark was the keynote speaker at three international conventions and also participated in several district conclaves and a variety of individual chapter functions. His contribution to his law fraternity was aptly summarized in a plaque presented to him at the 1976 Convention in Kansas City which described him as PAD's ambassador of goodwill.

When a memorial service was held in Washington on June 22, the Fraternity was represented by International Treasurer Dalphine MacMillan, Past International Justice Robert E. Redding, Past International Second Vice Justice Donald R. Moore, Past Associate Tribune William B. Robertson and, from the National Capital Area Alumni Chapter, Justice Daphne S. Miller, Immediate Past Justice Frank Cacciapaglia, and Ralph Olson. They heard Justice Clark eulogized by his son, former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, and by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, a fellow PAD.

Attended by some 500 friends, including all of the present Justices of the Supreme Court, as well as three former Justices, the memorial service at the National Presbyterian Church was designed, in the words of Ramsey Clark, "to celebrate the life of a good man" — one whom he finally described as "the best man I have ever known."

The life that was celebrated was that of a man who rose through the ranks as a career Justice Department lawyer to become Attorney General, sat on the Supreme Court for eighteen years, and then, in retirement, carved out a new career as a missionary for reform of the American legal system while continuing to sit as a Federal Judge.

One of the hardest-working jurists in the long history of the American judiciary, Justice Clark was carrying out the work that he loved when death came. He was in New York to sit on the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Ever since he retired from the Supreme Court in 1967, he had continued his judicial duties. He was the only person in the Nation's history to sit as a judge in all eleven circuits of the Federal judicial system. Some of the time it was as a trial judge in a United States District Court, some of the time it was as an appellate judge.

It was typical of Tom Clark that, although still vigorous and still enjoying his work as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, he stepped down without complaint from the bench when his son Ramsey became Attorney General in 1967. He wanted to avert any appearance of conflict of interest in Government cases.

His "retirement" was short-lived. In 1968 he became the first Director of the Federal Judicial Center, which was established to improve the administration of justice and to train judges to do a better job. Not only in this post, but also after he retired from it, he traveled widely to work with lawyers and judges in behalf of this cause — a mission that had been foreshadowed by similar work while he was still on the Supreme Court.

Praise of Tom Clark came from leaders of the Bench and of the Bar, from the press, and from countless individuals whose lives had been enriched by contact with this man of great and gentle strength.

Justice Clark had won increasing respect as a jurist who had grown in stature while on the bench. He was also recognized as one who performed a valuable function as an ambassador to the Bar and to the non-legal world, as well as a conciliator on the Court itself. And, although he continued to serve as a judge after his retirement, his most noteworthy contribution was in this field of breathing life into the legend engraved over the Supreme Court building: "Equal Justice Under Law."

Describing Justice Clark as "unique" in the annals of the Judiciary, Chief Justice Burger declared that "No one in the past thirty years has contributed more to the improvement of justice than Tom Clark." Attorney General Griffin Bell, another PAD, described Justice Clark's endeavors in this field as "without equal."

Justice Clark was largely instrumental in developing and expanding

RAPPING WITH

"The main thing in life is not to be afraid to be human."

Why do people belong to professional organizations such as Phi Alpha Delta? Is it for business contacts, for social reasons, to improve our professional standing, because we want to be able to say with some degree of pride that we're personally involved in "doing good?"

While all these things may superficially enter into the why of membership, I'm firmly convinced the real reason is somewhat more basic.

In our country today, there exists a real human need to help others.

I believe it comes from the intellectual and emotional belief that we have a greater heritage than any other civilization in the history of the world. It is from this realization that much of our patriotism, loyalty and dedication flows. In addition, I think we have a strong feeling that we owe to the generations following us an obligation to improve and enrich their heritage.

In a complex society, it is difficult for us as individuals to do the things that we believe will be of benefit and have a real impact on our profession or communities. Thus, because of our common goal, we join together, pool our time, money and effort, and the result is that we, as a group, can "make things happen."

Some time ago, men came to realize that life should be something more than food, clothing and shelter. It is encouraging that now some men believe that life should also be more than achieving wealth, fame or power.

Perhaps one hundred years hence, when the definitive history of our time is written, the historians can say that our era was not the beginning of the end of man, but rather the end of man's beginning — that is, the time we began to realize that people are more important than things.

Nevada Alumni Chapter is Chartered

PAD's new Nevada State Alumni Chapter was formally installed on May 20, 1977, at a breakfast meeting held in conjunction with the Nevada State Bar Association Convention at the Hyatt Resort Hotel in Incline Village, Nevada.

On hand was Past Supreme Justice Matthew S. "Sandy" Rae, joined by his wife Janet, who flew in from Los Angeles to present the charter and deliver appropriate remarks.

Brother William L. "Bill" Richards (Taney), Chief Legal Advisor to the Supreme Court of Nevada in Carson City, brought the brothers the greetings of Chief Justice Cameron Batjer of the Nevada Supreme Court, who is also a PAD brother. Also present at the breakfast was the Honorable Addelair D. Guy (Webster), Judge of the Eighth Judicial District Court, Department 11, in Las Vegas.

Among other distinguished PAD brothers making an appearance at the festivities were Loyal Robert Hibbs (Hammond), who is the newly elected President of the Nevada State Bar Association, and Maurice J. Sullivan (Hughes), Executive Secretary of the Nevada State Bar.

Jerry J. Kaufman (Beaumont) of Las Vegas was elected first Justice of PAD's newest alumni chapter. Other officers include Vice Justice Jerome M. Polaha (Jay) of Reno, Secretary Paul L. Larsen (Sutherland) of Las Vegas, and Treasurer John Wanderer (Black) of Las Vegas.

The Nevada State Chapter is PAD's 73rd chartered alumni chapter.

Magruder banquet

Magruder Chapter at the University of Illinois in Champaign held its annual spring banquet on March 22, 1977, at the Round Bar Restaurant. Close to 50 persons were in attendance to cap off the chapter's successful year in rushing and professional programs.

Beaumont events

Spring rush has proven successful for Beaumont Chapter at California Western School of Law in San Diego. The chapter recently co-sponsored a faculty-student kegger to promote rush, and it was attended by more than 200 people. In addition, the chapter's annual blood drive netted a record 41 pints of donated blood. This year's success has prompted an expansion of the program into a biannual event one day each school term.

A round table discussion of probable cause was held April 19, 1977. Six members of law enforcement agencies, including the United States Attorney, U.S. Marshal, Secret Service, San Diego Police Department, Border Patrol, and California Highway Patrol, participated in a lively discussion with students.

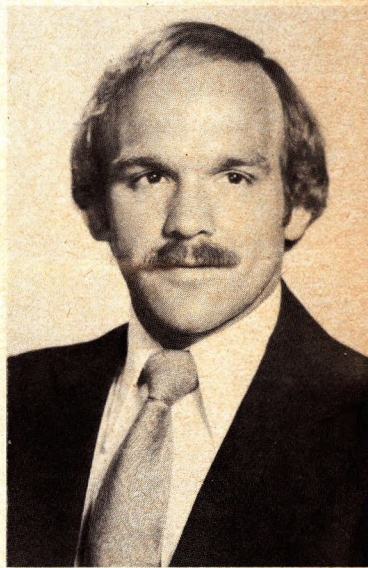

In addition, the chapter has received a new bulletin board and negotiations are under way with the school administration to have it permanently hung. The sign includes the name of the Fraternity in bold letters, in additions are under way with the school administration to have it permanently hung. The sign includes the name of the Fraternity in bold letters, in addition to the Fraternity Crest and chapter name. The art is colorful and eye-catching.

Initiation ceremonies were held on April 22nd, bringing the total chapter membership to the 114 mark. All in all, it has been a successful year for the chapter and PAD.

Benton is involved

With the election of PADs to five of eight Student Bar Association offices, the Thomas Hart Benton chapter again asserts its prominence and leadership at the University of Missouri — Kansas City School of Law. Elected were: President, Martin Montemore; Vice President, James Arneson; Third Year Representative, Edward Kinberg; Second Year Representatives, Wayne Detring, Kathy Jenkins. Appointed Treasurer was John B. Gillis.

At the reactivation ceremonies, a total of 13 new PAD members were sworn in.

The new Keener officers are led by Marc Pearl, Justice; Tim McCreary, Vice Justice; Constance Singleton, Clerk; Allan Diamond, Treasurer; and Jim Strawinski, Marshal.

FBI Chief addresses O'Niell

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley, addressed the Loyola Law School student body in New Orleans on December 8, 1976, on behalf of the O'Niell Chapter of PAD. Brother Kelley spoke to an audience of about 300 students, faculty, PAD members, and alumni, for approximately 20 minutes, after which he fielded questions for some 30 minutes.

crime and terrorism of which he said, "I applaud those who so zealously carry forward the banner of individual rights, but I think it is unfortunate that some of them find it necessary to characterize law enforcement as a monster threatening to devour human dignities and liberties."

He said, "We should not under any occasion, be investigating a matter that is political in nature. You have the right of political expression" . . . and that the FBI has "meticulous regard" for the citizens right to privacy and "their sacred right of legitimate dissent." He added that it is sometimes "difficult to achieve" a balance between crimefighting and the individual's rights, but the right to privacy will not be violated by his agency.

Responding to a question about FBI files on some political activists, Kelley said many files in recent years have been closed, but cannot be destroyed until Congress passes legislation permitting such a move.

To another question, Kelley responded that presently the FBI is looking primarily to the fields of law and accounting for new agents, and with a new emphasis on women agents. He said the Bureau encourages applications from law students while they are in their second year. Starting salary is about $17,000, he said.

Following the completion of his address, O'Niell Chapter held a cocktail reception in his honor in the Donna Center of Loyola University. Only PAD members and alumni were invited to attend.

152nd Charter Goes To Notre Dame

On May 14, 1977, the Colonel William J. Hoynes Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, International at Notre Dame Law School was installed as PAD's 152nd active chapter. The ceremonies were conducted by International Second Vice Justice Frank McCown. Assisting Brother McCown were District IX Justice John P. Curielli, Chicago Alumnus Charles Falkenberg, Chicago Alumnus Al Chiappe, Story Chapter Justice Tom Condon, and Lincoln Chapter Justice Robert Schemel. PAD is the first law fraternity to establish a chapter at Notre Dame.

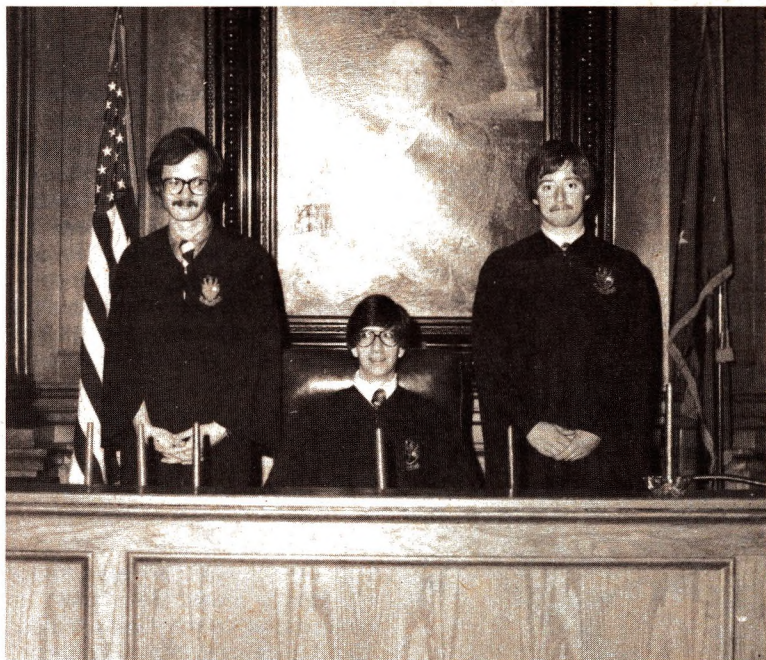

The ceremony was held in the St. Joseph Circuit Courtroom of the Honorable J. Montgomery in South Bend, with a reception following at the well known Morris Inn on the Notre Dame campus. The charter officers for Hoynes Chapter are: Justice Paul J. Giacomo, Jr.; Vice Justice Richard F. Cahill, Clerk

Thomas Herd; and Treasurer, Douglas R. Weimer. The remaining charter members of the chapter include David R. Brugel, Fredrick M. Carlin, James E. O'Connor, Carl Pacini, Debra Rainell Rains, John Chalder, James W. Smyth, Jr., Daniel J. Snyder, Lawrence R. Vonder Haar, and Walter J. Zukowski.

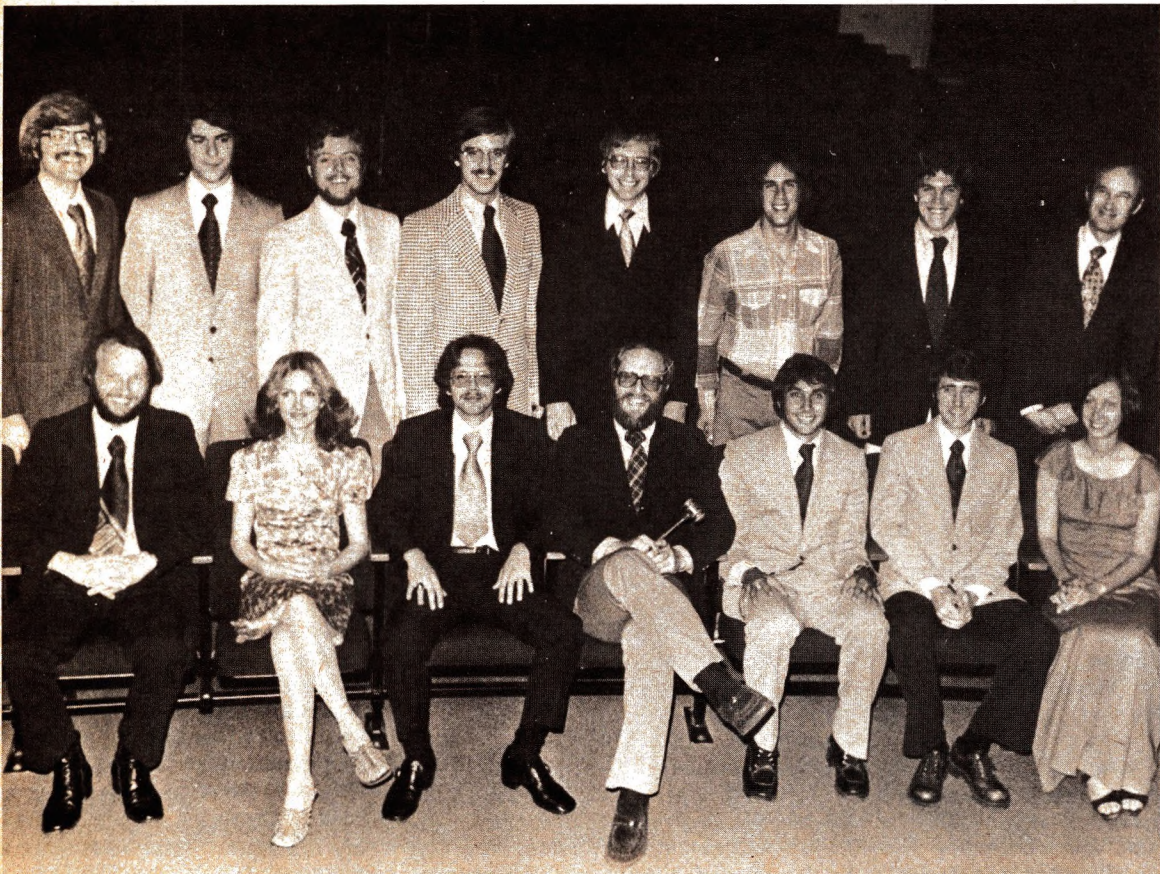

Hoynes Chapter is planning another initiation this Fall among its other activities.

Notre Dame, one of the most well known and oldest universities in the United States, established its own law school in 1868. Col. William J. Hoynes, after whom the chapter is named, was appointed the first dean in 1883. He continued to serve as dean until 1919, and it was largely through his efforts that the school was brought to a position of national prominence.

PAD is most happy to welcome aboard our 152nd chapter at the home of the fighting Irish.

HON. JOSEPH W. HATCHETT

HON. FREDRICK B. KARL

Two PADs Appointed To Fla. Supreme Ct.

Terrell Chapter at Florida State University is pleased to announce that the two newest members of the Florida Supreme Court are PADs.

Frederick B. Karl is an alumnus of Brewer Chapter at Stetson University where he received his LL.B degree in December of 1949. Brother Justice Karl was elected to the Florida Supreme Court in September of 1976.

Justice Karl's background in public service has been extensive. He has served as a state representative from Volusia County from 1956 to 1964 and as State Senator from District 14 from 1968 to 1972; in addition to serving as counsel to the House Select Committee on Judicial Impeachment in 1975.

Further, he is a recipient of the Florida Education Association School Bell Award which is presented to individuals outside of the education profession making the greatest contribution to education in the state of Florida. His colleagues in the State Legislature showed their high esteem for him by voting him as one of the top three members of both legislative bodies; also he was voted the most outstanding first term member of the Senate and the most effective member in committee of the Senate in addition to the most effective debate in the Senate.

Joseph W. Hatchett, an honorary initiate of Terrell Chapter at Florida State University, also won election to the Florida Supreme Court this last September. Justice Hatchett had previously been appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court by Governor Rubin Askew.

Before serving as a Justice of the Supreme Court, Brother Justice Hatchett served as United States Magistrate for the Middle District of Florida, which includes 33 counties from Jacksonville to Ft. Myers. From 1967 until 1971, he served as First Assistant U.S. Attorney for the Middle District of Florida.

As First Assistant U.S. Attorney, Justice Hatchett represented the United States Government in hundreds of criminal prosecutions and civil cases in jury and non-jury trials in both trial and appellate courts. He also directed investigations in hundreds of cases by the FBI, Secret Service, Postal Service, Drug Enforcement Administration and the Immigration and Naturalization Service and conducted grand jury investigations.

He received his law degree from Howard University in Washington, D.C. in 1959. After graduation, he engaged in private practice before entering public service.

In 1974, Justice Hatchett was one of five Americans chosen by the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court and Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts to travel to England to study the pretrial procedures used in English courts.

While Justice Hatchett was appointed to the Supreme Court of Florida on July 8, 1975, he was faced with the statewide election for his office on September 7, 1976. His victory marked an historic first — the first Black to win a statewide election in the South.

43 PADs serve as law school deans

According to the most recent listing of schools, as compiled and published by the Association of American Law Schools, 53 PADs are presently serving as Deans of law schools which are on the approved list of the American Bar Association or equivalent accrediting agency in Canada. Those presently serving as Deans are: Stanley A. Samad, University of Akron; Thomas W. Christopher, University of Alabama; Joseph M. Angus S. McSwain, Jr., Baylor University; Richard G. Huber, Boston College Law School; Austin T. Stickells, Boston University; Marvin J. Anderson, University of California; Hyman Cohen, Cleveland State University; Courtland H. Marshall Chapter at U of Chicago reactivates

One of PAD's five original founding chapters of 75 years ago was reactivated on May 20, 1977. John Marshall Chapter was chartered on November 20, 1902, at the University of Chicago School of Law; it is once again active, thanks to the efforts of Ruth Wilcox (Magruder) and 10 other University of Chicago students who successfully reorganized the chapter last semester.

Wilcox, an initiate of PAD's Benjamin D. Magruder Chapter at the University of Illinois, came to the University of Chicago as a second year exchange student. It was under her leadership and through her cooperative efforts with Pad's International Executive Staff that the new brothers were recruited and the historical Marshall Chapter was brought to life once again.

Presiding as Installing Officer for the Chicago ceremonies was the Honorable James M. Bierce, Associate Tribune on PAD's International Tribunal, the Supreme judicial body of the Fraternity. Assisting John Peter Curielli, Ruth Wilcox, Marshall Chapter alumnus Richard Hanson, Jerry Gardbers-Vice Justice of the Chicago Alumni Chapter, Al Chiappe-Advocate and Executive Secretary of the Chicago Alumni Chapter, and Joann Wassem-Justice of Webster chapter at Loyola University of Chicago.

The evening initiation ceremonies were held in the Moot Courtroom of the University of Chicago Law School and were followed by a reception at the Windermere Hotel in Hyde Park. A total of 30 members, spouses, and guests were in attendance.

The new Marshall Chapter officers are A. Eric Arnold, Justice; Thomas W. Albrecht, Vice Justice; Joanne M. Schreiner, Clerk; Debra Robinson, Treasurer; and John R. Wilcox, Marshal.

Other newly-initiated members of the reactivation group are Karyl M. Arnold, Samuel Curtis Batsell, Robert Coyne, Donald W. Quander, and Robert Harrington Riley.

Livingston is reactivated at Columbia U

On April 15, 1977, Robert Livingston Chapter of PAD was reactivated at Columbia University, New York City, New York.

Livingston Chapter was originally chartered on May 31, 1916, as the 38th active chapter of PAD's current number of 152 chapters.

The ceremony marking the reactivation commenced at 6:30 p.m. in the Columbia University Moot Court Room, with International Marshal Larry Crigler presiding.

The program continued with the initiation of 11 new members into Phi Alpha Delta: Barbara Brown, Miroslav Fajt, Joseph Magnano, Lynn Forester, Sharon Handler, Alexander Platt, Melanie Lawson, Henry Massey, Stuart Meistrich, Enida Rosa, and Etheleen Shipp.

The reactivation team, consisting of International Marshal Larry Crigler, District XV Justice Rick Pearson, Wormser Chapter Justice Mitch Landron, Wormser Chapter Justice-elect Vince Amato, Kennedy Chapter Past Justice Larry Stern, and Kennedy Chapter Alumni Advisor Bill Irion, then installed the new officers: Justice, Stuart Meistrich; Vice Justice, Hank Massey; Clerk, Joe Magnano; Treasurer, Al Platt; and Marshal, Barbara Brown.

The entire group then adjourned to the Case Lounge of the Law School for a cocktail party and reception in honor of the new initiates and officers of Robert Livingston Chapter.

Francis A. Allen Is President of Ass'n. of Amer. Law Schools

Professor Francis A. Allen of the University of Michigan is current President of the Association of American Law Schools. Professor Allen is a member of PAD, having been initiated into the Campbell Chapter of the Fraternity at the University of Michigan.

The Association presently has 131 member schools. Along with the American Bar Association, it is recognized as one of the national accrediting agencies for law by the Council of Pro-secondary Accreditation.

SHOWN ABOVE IS THE FEBRUARY 1977 INITIATION CLASS of Waite Chapter at the University of Dayton School of Law.

Waite sponsors legal aid to elderly

Waite Chapter's Legal Assistance to the Elderly Program provides greatly needed legal services to Dayton, Ohio's senior citizens and provides invaluable experience to the chapter's members. Using first, second and third year students, the objective of the program is to determine whether or not the elderly client has a legal problem which requires the attention of a practicing attorney. This service is very important since many senior citizens, particularly elderly widows, are unfamiliar with legal and business matters, cannot afford even an initial consultation fee for an attorney or do not know how to select an attorney and therefore do nothing.

The procedure used by Waite Chapter is as follows: a law student visits a senior citizen's housing complex or nutritional center twice a month for two hours; the clients are interviewed at this time, but no advice is given; before the next visit the interviewer researches his client's problem to determine what remedies are available and whether a licensed attorney will be required. If an attorney's assistance is necessary, the client is referred to either their own attorney, the legal aid office or the local bar association. But, if as in most cases, the problem is more of a business nature or is an administrative law problem for which an attorney is not required, the student handles the case himself.

Furthermore, operational expenses for such a program are minimal. Waite Chapter's program has been able to operate on a $50 a year budget, with travel expenses being borne by the individual student.

This program can be operated as a separate committee within your chapter; it will greatly increase active participation and is an excellent community relations project.

Texas Tech chapter has banner year

PAD members took a clean sweep of the Student Body Association elected officers at Texas Tech University School of Law, with Rayburn Chapter Treasurer Robert Lybrand being elected as SBA President, Chapter Vice Justice Tom Carr was elected as SBA Treasurer, and Chapter member John Kerr was elected as Vice President of the Student Bar.

Rush was also very successful this year. Rayburn Chapter membership, at the beginning of the year, was approximately 40 which placed it third in comparison to the other legal fraternities on campus in terms of total membership. Chapter Justice Eric Hill and Vice Justice Tom Carr helped with the other chapter members in initiating an extensive rushing program which initiated 8 persons in the Fall and ultimately a class of 66 initiates in the Spring, making Rayburn Chapter the largest legal fraternity as Texas Tech University.

The chapter has also initiated a loan fund for PAD members with additional monies being added in the future. Also, the chapter sponsors the school's tennis tournament and presents the Outstanding Professor award.

Rayburn Chapter's speakers' program on drugs has proven to be the chapter's most significant project. The program was initiated several years ago and presents the members with opportunities to speak to various schools and civic groups. An explanation on the drug laws of the state of Texas is given and questions are answered on the legal profession in general. This year, the program was given to more than 1,000 persons in small groups. Since the program's inception, it has reached more than 50,000 persons, either directly or over radio or television. Further, the chapter is listed with the state of Texas as an informational service and is the only legal fraternity with such a program in the state.

Egan Initiates Three Honoraries

The John P. Egan Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity International initiated Judge William F. Cercone, Superior Court of Pennsylvania, Attorney General Robert P. Kane and State Senator Jeanette F. Reibman as Honorary Members at their annual Spring Banquet held on March 31st. These initiates were recognized for their exemplification of the ideals of the fraternity to foster integrity and professional competence.

Judge Cercone has served in the District Attorney's office of Allegheny County and has held a position on the federal level as Special Deputy Attorney General. Judge Cercone was presented the merit award from the Academy of Trial Lawyers and sat as judge in the Court of Common Pleas until his present position as judge to the Pennsylvania Superior Court.

Judge Cercone during his acceptance speech expressed his concern towards society's attitude that today's social problems be resolved through the judicial system. There is a growing tendency to have the court step into legislative matters because of the demand for expediency in settling legal issues. This places a burden on the single judge who is faced with deciding on issues which in the past were within the purview of the Legislature. Our ever-developing world causes an important interplay between the policy of stare decisis and our changing society. Judge Cercone feels we must carefully evaluate these changes in order to preserve the separation of powers.

Attorney General Robert Kane has been actively involved in human relations work and has had extensive involvement in the Democratic party. Mr. Kane has served as Administrative Assistant to Congressman Nieman Craley, Jr. and was appointed Secretary of Revenue in 1971. He now serves under the Shapp Administration as Attorney General.

Attorney General Kane emphasized the role of the criminal justice system in Pennsylvania. The popular approach to the problem seems to be one of pumping money into penal institutions believing such action provides a workable solution to crime. We are treating the effect while we evade the problem. Mr. Kane pointed out the man-power and funding available within the Justice Department only supplies an external and after-the-fact approach to curing crime. An important step is to breed an internal upholding and belief in the law within our schools and other social institutions. Each individual must acquire his own respect for the law.

Janette Reibman has had both federal and state experience in various areas. Senator Reibman has served as attorney for the U.S. War Department and the U.S. War Production Board during World War II. She has actively participated in several capacities in the field of education and was instrumental in developing and advancing the PHEAA program. She has also served on an advisory committee on Working Conditions for Women and Children and recently ran in the 1976 primary election for the U.S. Senate.

Senator Reibman was the first female to be distinguished with honorary membership in Egan Chapter. She observed that PAD was the first fraternity to admit women and commented that such action recognizes the growing percentage of highly motivated and qualified women. The Senator stressed that legal training has taken on new aspects of public service rather than restricting itself to preparing the law student to be "judicially trained." There was agreement with Judge Cercone that the law must grow to be responsive to society and this should be done through proper functioning of the Legislature.

JUDGE JOEL MEDD (Corliss Chapter), youngest judge in the state of North Carolina, addresses members of Corliss Chapter at the University of North Carolina Moot Courtroom on April 19, 1977.

PINCKNEY CHAPTER OFFICERS congratulate new initiates during ceremonies conducted at the University of South Carolina Moot Courtroom on April 19, 1977.

Tom Clark Dies

ing continuing legal education for judges as well as for lawyers. He was one of the founders and moving spirits in a college for trial judges established by the American Bar Association. He performed yeoman service as the Chairman of an American Bar Association study of lax discipline and shady conduct among lawyers.

In the past two decades, there was seldom any new program to reform the Bench or the Bar which had not been started or moved ahead by Tom Clark. His devotion to duty and to hard work was legendary.

To bar association work and to Fraternity activities, he brought an imaginative and innovative approach. In his keynote address to the PAD International Convention last year, he called for a restructuring of legal education to emphasize clinical training. And, on the very day of his death, he had put the finishing touches on a paper authored by him and Past Supreme Justice Redding outlining a PAD project to promote the development of the clinical concept in law school.

Tall and genial and soft-spoken, with a ready smile above the bow tie that was his trademark, he was described by one writer as the "traveling salesman of justice." He was one of the most popular figures in American law.

Whether Tom Clark was a great lawyer or a great jurist may be debatable, but that he was a great man — one of the best men many of us have ever known — is unquestioned.

So it was that Chief Justice Burger eulogized Tom Clark as a man "of brilliant humanity," known to be a ready listener for "any person having a problem," a man who taught us all how to "seem unhurried" amid "fabulous activity."

And so it was also that son Ramsey found in his father a man who "functioned joyously all the days of his life" — a man who "realized that the true joy of life is being exhausted in a cause you yourself deem mighty" — a man who was guided by the counsel of Saint Paul that "love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore, in love is a fulfillment of the law."

The life of Tom Clark challenges Shakespeare's observation that the good men do is oft interred with their bones. An improved judiciary, a better functioning legal system will be a lasting monument to Tom Clark. And his memory will be ever green in the hearts of those who knew and loved him as one who did justice, loved mercy, and walked humbly with his God.

In his keynote address at the International Convention Convention of Phi Alpha Delta in 1976, Justice Tom C. Clark told of a beloved doctor in the little town of Lexington, Virginia, where the Justice had attended Virginia Military Institute. The doctor's office was on the second floor of an old building, reached by an outside stairway. It was marked by a weather-beaten sign: "Doctor Reid White — Office Upstairs," with an arrow pointing upward.

When the good doctor died, the sign disappeared, only to reappear on his grave as a fitting epitaph — "Office Upstairs."

So might be marked the grave of Tom C. Clark, lawyer and judge — "Office Upstairs" . . . an arrow pointing upward. And echoing from some church the old hymn (sung at his memorial service) "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," with its optimistic opening, "Somewhere the sun is shining . . ."

Through the ages men have dreamed of and struggled toward the concept that nothing on earth is more sacred than human personality — that there is in the human soul a place which is inviolate, where no government or man may enter. But not until it became a part of our Declaration of Independence did this great concept of inalienable rights take on reality. Here for 171 years it has thundered forth its message to freedom-loving peoples everywhere.

The recognition and declaration that there are God-given rights — so inalienable — instill in man constant faith and hope, provide him with a Court of Appeals that is never closed — a law beyond the law — beyond the jurists — beyond the law makers. There is a higher law than mere man-made law.

Another New Benefit for Members of PAD

A special car leasing plan designed to offer substantial savings to members.

PAD's International Executive Board has just completed arrangements with Hertz Car Leasing for a program to save dues-paying members money, to keep your capital free and to help you fight inflation.

What is the plan? Through your fraternity, Hertz is offering any new car on a closed-end lease program at a remarkably low rate.

What is a closed-end lease? At the end of the leasing period, you return the car. And that's it. Hertz will dispose of it with no risk, on the used car market for you. A closed-end lease is available without maintenance or with full maintenance. Under the non-maintenance plan, you pay for repairs. Under the full-maintenance plan, Hertz pays for all major repairs and minor ones too. Insurance is extra under both plans. Why lease? Why not buy? Several good reasons.

(1) Leasing frees your capital to work for you. (2) Leasing simplifies record keeping. (3) Leasing reduces the impact of inflation since monthly payments are made with current dollars. Why lease under the PAD-sponsored plan? In addition to the significant cost savings, Hertz is one of the most experienced renting and leasing companies. They can supply any car through 1200 dealers nationwide. They provide a nationwide network of service centers making service readily available.
