Juvenile Justice Office News

Members of the Rockefeller Chapter at Albany Law School in Albany, New York have met with Eric Mondschein, Director of the Law, Youth & Citizenship Program (LYC) of the New York State Bar Association in order to coordinate a joint law-related education into the classrooms. The New York State Bar Association is sponsoring a banquet in conjunction with the training session for the law students and teachers on February 28, 1984. The Phi Alpha Delta Juvenile Justice Office is supplying the Resource Guides that will be used by the law students and the teachers.

Paul Austin, Justice of the Vaught Chapter at Oklahoma City University, has received permission from the local school district to begin a law-related education project in all of the local schools, including 4 high schools and 8 junior high schools. Approximately 20 chapter members will participate in the initial project and Justice Austin reports that members are very excited about getting the project underway.

Virginia Schmult, Co-Chairman of the Juvenile Justice Program at Washington & Lee University, has reported to the Juvenile Justice Office that Staples Chapter is continuing its successful LRE program in 1984. Presently, chapter members are visiting six area schools acting as LRE resource persons and conducting in-class mock trials. Additionally, they have area high school students come to the University to act as jurors for their trial practice classes.

Two new PAD alumni members have agreed to assist the Fraternity as Statewide LRE Coordinators, Anthony List for Pennsylvania and Sam Fowler for Tennessee.

Tony List is a practicing attorney in Media, Pennsylvania and served as a highly effective District Justice in 1968 to 1970. He has volunteered to assist PAD in its Constitutional Bicentennial program to be initiated in Media this year.

Samuel F. Fowler, Jr. was a member of Jefferson Chapter of PAD at the University of Virginia in the early 1950's who became a prominent practicing attorney in Knoxville. He had agreed to coordinate the Fraternity's Constitutional Bicentennial program in Knoxville that will get under way this year.

In the summer of 1981 Phi Alpha Delta's Board adopted a resolution stating that as the second largest organization in the legal profession, behind only the American Bar Association, it was fitting for the fraternity to volunteer to become associated with all other participating organizations in the planning and development of observances of the bicentennial celebration of the signing (September 17, 1787) and ratification (June 21, 1788) of the United States Constitution.

In 1982 Phi Alpha Delta submitted a proposal to the federal government and was the only legal organization to receive a pilot grant to plan a national program of celebration. The Phi Alpha Delta plan calls for the use of its full fraternity resources, including its student and alumni members along with other community leaders, to carry out an education program about the first amendment.

We feel a duty to contribute to the public's understanding of the constitution for two reasons: (1) the document is the foundation of our legal system, and (2) there is an appalling lack of understanding of the Constitution.

In December, 1979, a Gallup poll revealed that 76% of those polled did not know what the first amendment is or what it deals with. The breakdown of the poll was even more appalling. The national figure of 76% was worse when broken down into groups or individuals who may most need the protection of the first amendment. The following percentages of the population did not know of the contents of the Constitution or else their knowledge was inaccurate: 80% of high school students, 85% of non-whites, 89% of those below the $10,000.00 annual income level, 81% of women, and 80% of those over the age of 50.

Preparation for the 1987 celebration will need some of your time. Help Phi Alpha Delta make the 1980's a decade of constitutional literacy. With 1984 already here, the United States Constitution is a great strength of the free world. It can be an even greater strength if the majority of Americans know what it is and what it means.

District III Mini DLC

San Diego was the site for District III's first "mini-District Leadership Conference" in January, 1984.

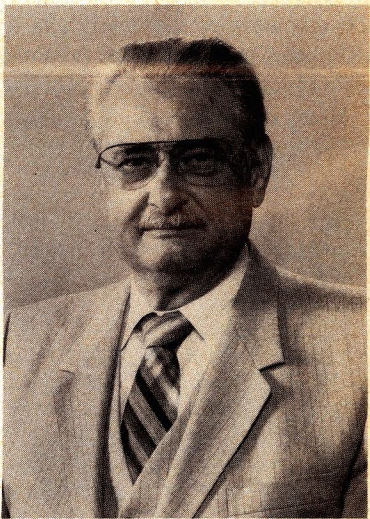

The idea came from a San Diego P.A.D. who was distressed that the distance to the Los Angeles D.L.C. last October severely limited the number of San Diego students who could attend.

The mini-D.L.C. was a scaled-down version of the original, designed to meet the specific needs of the two chapters, Beaumont at Cal Western and McCormick at University of San Diego. Topics covered included Rushing and Programming, Fundraising, Elections, Awards, and Alumni Relations, to name a few.

In addition, several alumni contributed special presentations: Joseph E. Deems, International Marshal on "The Key Person Approach in P.A.D."; Matthew "Sandy" Rae, Jr., past Supreme Justice, on "Networking within P.A.D."; John F. Weitkamp, Coordinator of District Operations and Marshal of the L.A. Alumni, on "Using Chapter Manuals and P.A.D. Resources"; and Ward Skinner, Regional Pre-Law Director, on "Pre-Law Chapters."

The mini-D.L.C. was highly successful with an attendance of 25. It was followed by a joint chapter BBQ in La Jolla, carried off in the best P.A.D. tradition!

Also in attendance were Shelley Weinstein, Associate Tribune; Alexandra K. Mells, District Justice; and

From this viewpoint one of the functions of legal education is to change the thinking and acting of the student from the lay to the professional level. One of the features of this change is increased emphasis on the responsibilities of the lawyer. In the process of legal education both student and instructor have functions to perform.
