THE INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE

It's Worth The Effort . . .

. . . when you drive for four hours down the Interstate just to initiate twenty-four new PADs . . .
. . . and have a chance to spend an hour over coffee with five chapter officers . . .
. . . and you are able to renew a PAD friendship with a delegate to the Miami Beach Convention . . .
. . . you meet a PAD friend you haven't seen since the 1976 Biennial Convention . . .
. . . and receive a late night phone call from a PAD alumnus asking, "What can I do for PAD?" . . .
. . . to be able to listen to PAD "war stories" from a former District Justice that served the Fraternity in the 1950s . . .
. . . attending a pretrial conference in Chambers and finding the Judge's PAD membership certificate hanging on his wall . . .
. . . seeing a strange face behind the PAD lapel pin on the jacket of another passenger on your plane . . .
. . . on finding a group of students with their Chapter banner waiting to meet you at the airport . . .
. . . installing new Chapter officers, then being able to watch them initiate new members with perfect attention to the Fraternity Ritual . . .
. . . to stop in traffic behind a Cadillac with a PAD decal on its rear bumper . . .
. . . reading an article about a Prelaw Chapter program in an out-of-town newspaper . . .
. . . receiving a note of congratulations on election as International Justice from your college undergraduate roommate, whom you haven't seen in thirty years . . .
. . . having a law school Dean praise the impact of the PAD Chapter on campus activities . . . and he's a PDP . . .
. . . receiving a long distance phone call from an old friend who says he saw your picture on the front of his son's copy of THE REPORTER . . .
. . . when a parent phones and asks you to use your influence in helping his daughter become a member of PAD . . .
. . . flying back home late on a Sunday night, trudging through the airport parking lot trying to find your car, and then driving home in the rain after a visit to a District Conference . . .
. . . being able to shake the hand of the newest member of the Fraternity . . .
. . . and knowing the satisfaction of having done something meaningful for Phi Alpha Delta!
