PUBLIC RELATIONS and The Individual Lawyer

By JUDGE FREDERICK G. HAMLEY

Reprinted from the October, 1957, issue of The Journal of the American Judicature Society

(Brother Hamley is a judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit. He is a former Chief Justice of the Washington Supreme Court and a member of Dunbar Chapter at the University of Washington.)

As compared to a century or fifty years ago, lawyers and their bar associations today enjoy good public relations. The integrity and competency of lawyers, individually and as a group, are better appreciated today than ever before.

This present good feeling for the ancient profession has made itself felt in many directions. There is ever-increasing reliance upon the lawyer for assistance in all affairs touching any phase of law. There is acceptance and recognition of lawyers as leaders in every field of community and public life. Most important—there is solid public respect for courts of law and the judicial system.

But none of us lawyers and judges is so naive as to suppose that our present good state of public relations just "happened"—or that such relations cannot and should not be further improved—or that we may now rest on our oars and content ourselves with reaping the monetary rewards of public acceptance.

The fact is that such standing as our profession has today in the public eye is the direct fruitage of long years of dedicated effort by man y individual lawyers and their associations. The fact is that there still is a strong undercurrent of public dissatisfaction which must be recognized and can be effectively dealt with. The fact is that, should we relax in a spirit of contentment with what has been achieved, public esteem will surely wane.

Dean Roscoe Pound has graphically portrayed the public standing of American lawyers from colonial times to the present day. When the colonies were first formed, there was a very definite attempt to get along without lawyers altogether. In an effort to accomplish this, laws were enacted forbidding the charging of legal fees, or fixing very low fees. Other laws strictly limited the number who could engage in the practice of law, or specified conditions of admission which necessarily produced that result. Still others established alternative methods of obtaining justice which wholly circumvented judicial process—as by the Pennsylvania system of conciliation by "common peace-makers." Many of these enactments contained most uncomplimentary recitals concerning lawyers and their profession.

These early attempts to abort the American legal profession were unsuccessful. In its place came the other extreme. The practice of law was opened up to untrained and irresponsible pettifoggers. Gradually, however, there came about an era in which the profession was represented by persons admitted to practice on a basis of competence and good character.

Pound was able to report that, "by the time of the Revolution, the legal profession in most of the colonies had become well established in public estimation, well educated, and well qualified by study of law." In some colonies, effective bar organizations were already in existence, and the old prejudice against lawyers had all but worn away. Twenty-five of the fifty-six signers of the Declaration of Independence, and thirty-one of the fifty-five members of the Constitutional Convention were lawyers.

From the American Revolution to the 1830's, which Pound calls the formative era for American law and legal institutions, the fortunes of the legal profession in this country were constantly ascending. It was a time for great judges—John Marshall, Joseph Story—and for great lawyers—William Pinckney, William Wirt, Jeremiah Mason, Daniel Webster, Rufus Choate.

Then, about the mid-1830's, the pendulum again began to swing the other way. Between 1836 and 1870, there was a near breakdown of organization, education, and professional training.

But with the development of the present-day type of bar association in the 1870's, there was a revival in the profession, which has continued to this day. The organization of the American Bar Association, in 1878, gave impetus to this movement. The development of integrated state bar associations, beginning with North Dakota in 1921, added stability and substance. The reorganization of the American Bar Association, in 1936, to create a House of Delegates, added new force and vigor. The tremendous increase in local bar associations and the expansion of their activities brought needed grass-roots support.

The fact that our profession has grown in stature at the same time that effective bar associations have been spawned and activated is no coincidence. Led by unselfish men of vision and energy, these organizations have been ferreting out and correcting the major causes of public dissatisfaction with our profession. This dissatisfaction, in so far as it has merit and is therefore subject to correction, pertains to the dishonesty and incompetency of some lawyers, and the inadequacies and delays in the judicial system itself.

These organizations have also been taking effective steps to overcome a misunderstanding on the part of the public, which has prejudiced our profession in the past. This misunderstanding arises partly from the fact that the practice of law involves, as in the case of no other profession, a clash of personal interests. Each litigant usually feels that justice is on his side. So, in each case, there is likely to be one litigant who feels strongly that justice has miscarried.

Misunderstanding also arises from the fact that lawyers

1958 Convention To Be Held in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The 1958 convention of Phi Alpha Delta has been scheduled by the Supreme Executive Board for Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Dates of the convention will be Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 3, 4 and 5.

The headquarters hotel will be the very beautiful Penn-Sheraton, formerly the William Penn. The hotel overlooks Mellon Square, which is famed throughout the United States for its design and aesthetic appeal.

Details on the convention will be published in the February issue of The Reporter, but all members are urged to save these dates and attend what promises to be one of the most outstanding conventions the fraternity has ever held.

Message From The Supreme Justice

Without a doubt, the mainsprings of our great fraternity are those twelve men whom we designated to serve as District Justices. Upon them falls the task of maintaining direct contact with active and alumni chapters within their respective geographical districts. Each of our District Justices has performed his job well during the past year and the current year gives promise of even more visitations and contacts by them.

HON. ELWYN THOMAS

All these men who serve in this capacity do so without any monetary remuneration whatsoever. Each devotes countless hours, days, nights and week-ends to the execution of the duties of his office. The purpose of this newsletter is to acquaint you with these men who are performing so splendidly a yeoman's task.

In District I, comprised of the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, George T. Nickell, of Seattle, Washington, labors as District Justice. Brother Nickell has served as District Justice for many years and has molded the PADs in his area into a strong unit. Brother Nickell is in the private practice of law in Seattle and is a former partner of the immediate past Governor of the State of Washington, Arthur B. Langlie, who is also a PAD. Brother Nickell visits all of his chapters at least annually and his current plans include visitations again to all chapters.

Nevada and that portion of California lying north of the Tehachapi Mountains is governed by John R. Griffin, who is Justice of District II. John is a partner in the well known law firm of Gaylord and Gaylord. Visitations have already been made to two of Brother Griffin's chapters and others are scheduled for the remaining chapters.

One of the most devoted and beloved District Justices in the entire fraternity is Henry C. ("Hank") Rohr, of Los Angeles, California. Hank is in the active practice of law and is well known by almost every one of the more than 1300 PADs in the Los Angeles area. Included in Hank's District III are Arizona and Southern California. Most of the Southern California chapters have already received a visitation from Brother Rohr this year and he plans a call on the University of Arizona chapter early in 1958.

District IV includes the states of New Mexico, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. Presiding here is C. Nelson Day, the chief trial deputy of the United States Attorney's office in Salt Lake City, Utah. Brother Day works closely with the University of Utah chapter and visits the other chapters in his District when he occasionally journeys to Denver, Colorado to try federal cases. In addition to chapter visitations, Brother Day plans to attend the initiation by Hughes Chapter of Frank H. Hall, Colorado Supreme Court Justice, and the initiation, in the near future, of Governor Stephen L. R. McNichols of Colorado by Gunter Chapter.

One of the sturdiest workers in the vineyard is T. Julian Skinner, of Alabama. Julian is a Past President of the Junior Bar Conference of the American Bar Association, a Past President of the Alabama Bar Association, and a former member of the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association. So he is abundantly equipped to render great service to an organization such as P.A.D. Throughout the past year he has made a stupendous contribution of time and talent to the fraternity and his plans for the current year demonstrate that his interest and energy are unflagging.

A man with an enormous job is Robert J. Gorman, for he has an extremely large district containing eleven chapters. The states in his bailiwick are Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, and Wisconsin. Many of the members will remember reading not too long ago, in the Saturday Evening Post, about a modest, unassuming Chicago attorney who became convinced of the innocence of a convicted prisoner named Roy Eaton. This attorney went to work spending many thousands of dollars of his money and countless hours of his time in an effort to free this prisoner. He succeeded. That was Bob! Six of Bob's chapters are in Chicago and he visits each of them several times during the year. The remainder of the chapters are outside of the Chicago area and Bob manages, somehow, despite his extremely busy schedule, to complete the tour each year and then, often revisits.

Seven states are under the jurisdiction of H. Jay Gunnels, Jr., Justice of District VII. These states are Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota. Jay has this year made visitations to chapters at St. Louis University, the University of Missouri and the University of Kansas City. Others are scheduled to be made before spring. Brother Gunnels is a sparkplug of the Greater Kansas City Alumni Chapter and is Justice of the Chapter. He practices law successfully in Kansas City.

A large district with a lot of wide open territory is District VIII, which covers Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas. Presiding here is Joseph W. Geary, Jr., an attorney actively practicing in Dallas, Texas. Brother Geary is Past Justice of the Dallas Alumni Chapter. His itinerary for the current school year indicates that all chapters in the District will be visited or contacted by him before March first.

The man who directs the activities in District IX, which embraces the States of Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania is James L. ("Jimmy") Broz, Jr., an attorney for the City of Cleveland. Jimmy will long be remembered by many PADs as the very genial host and entrepreneur extraordinary of the 1956 National Convention in Cleveland. At the time Jimmy was representing, quite expertly, the Cleveland Alumni Chapter. Jimmy is also a member of our National Board of Tribunes.

A former national officer is Justice of District X. Charles Tom Henderson served several terms on the Supreme Executive Board and is extremely well acquainted with all facets of the fraternity's operation. For many years he has been the Assistant Attorney General of Florida in charge of statute revisions. His District includes Georgia and Florida.

Lewis W. Morse, Law Librarian at Cornell University, is Justice

Founder Martin B. Schuster Dies

Martin Blaise Schuster, a founder and charter member of the fraternity, died last September 25, 1957, at Joliet, Illinois.

MARTIN B. SCHUSTER

Brother Schuster was the secretary pro tem at the organizational meeting of PAD, in South Haven, Michigan, on July 27, 1902.

He graduated from the University of Chicago School of Law in 1904 and was subsequently admitted to the Illinois Bar. He was an active and well known attorney and real estate developer and also served for a time as City Treasurer of Joliet.

He was active in the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks, having maintained membership for some 57 years in that organization. He served as Exalted Ruler from 1914 to 1915 of Joliet Lodge No. 296.

Five PADs Clerks to Supreme Court Justices

Five PADs are currently serving as clerks to Justices of the United States Supreme Court. They are Donald M. Cahen (U. of Calif.), Clerk to Chief Justice Earl Warren; Dallin H. Oaks (U. of Chicago), Clerk to Chief Justice Earl Warren; Kenneth W. Dam (U. of Chicago), Clerk to Justice Charles E. Whittaker; William D. Powell, Jr. (SMU), Clerk to Justice Tom C. Clark, and Jon O. Newman (Yale U.), Clerk to Chief Justice Earl Warren.

of District XI, which contains the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, New York and Eastern Pennsylvania. Although Brother Morse is one of our newer District Justices he has already demonstrated his determination to match his colleagues in devotion to the fraternity and his determination to have his district rank with the best.

We are fortunate to have a very energetic and hard-working man presiding over District XII. He is Donald R. Moore, an attorney with the Federal Trade Commission. Don presides over the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia. Don visits the chapters in District XII at least once a year; most of them twice; many of them thrice. The effect of his visitations is clearly evidenced by the excellent condition of his chapters. He is the personification of ubiquity.

Each of us in Phi Alpha Delta truly owes a debt of gratitude to these twelve fine men for the inspiring part they play in advancing the fraternity's work.

Fraternally,
Elwyn Thomas
Supreme Justice

PADs Play Prominent Part in National Moot Court Competition

As has become almost tradition over the years, members of Phi Alpha Delta played an extremely prominent part in the annual moot court competition recently concluded in New York.

No members of the winning team were PADs this year, as the University of Pennsylvania, which won the national competition, does not have any law fraternities. However, the team from the Washington & Lee University School of Law won the Harrison Tweed Bowl for submitting the legal brief in the final rounds of the competition and two of the three members of this team are PADs. They are Charles S. Gay and Norman C. Baetger.

Four teams which participated in the competition were made up entirely of PADs. These teams were as follows: Kansas City University School of Law (Shelby Highsmith and Stephen B. Millich); Loyola University School of Law in Chicago (Thomas R. Moran, Howard E. Hanie, Jr. and David P. Schippers); University of Michigan School of Law (Eugene L. Hartwig and Eugene J. Wanger); University of Texas School of Law (Jim K. Choate, Frank R. Douglass and Lawrence J. Pearce).

Other PADs who participated in the competition were: Stephen McGill (Creighton University), John D. McKee (Miami University), Lawrence C. Porter (Miami University), Arnold D. Pugin (Oklahoma University), Thomas J. Keenan (Oklahoma University), George G. Vest, IV (Virginia University), and Joseph J. Farrin (Washington University).

Chicago Alumni Organize Younger Members Committee

The Chicago Alumni Chapter has recently organized a Younger Members' Committee, the purpose of which is to maintain closer relations with the active chapters, to encourage participation in alumni activities by younger members upon graduation, and to contribute to the practical legal education of its members through monthly lectures by prominent members of the bench and bar at luncheon meetings.

The first luncheon was held Tuesday, November 19, at Henrici's Restaurant in Chicago. The featured speaker was Philip H. Corboy, one of the most outstanding personal injury lawyers in Cook County. His subject was "The Preparation of the Personal Injury Case from the Time of Injury Until the Commencement of Trial." His topic included among other things effective investigation of the circumstances of the injury, preservation of evidence, effective use of both oral and written depositions, conferences with witnesses, and the evaluation of the case.

The large turnout evidenced the keen interest which younger members of the Chicago Alumni Chapter have in such a group. Chairman of the Younger Members' Committee is Charles V. Falkenberg, Jr. (Northwestern).

J. HARRY LaBRUM

Brig. Gen. J. Harry LaBrum Honored Upon Retirement

Brigadier General J. Harry LaBrum (U.S.A.R.) was honored last September 14 by a garrison review on the occasion of his retirement.

LaBrum, a member of Taft Chapter at Georgetown University, is a Past Supreme Justice of the fraternity, having held the fraternity's highest office for eight years (1938-46). He entered military service in June of 1942. Since that time, both on active duty and as a member of the United States Army Reserve, he has made many significant contributions to our national security.

Some of his assignments have included cost analysis and contract renegotiation tasks with the Signal Corps Procurement District of Philadelphia. Later he served as legal officer of both the Signal Corps Eastern Signal Service and the Signal Corps Legal Office, which was located in Philadelphia. For over twelve years he has willingly served as an informal consultant to the various Chief Signal Officers of the Army on supply and legal matters.

LaBrum's honors are many and varied. Some of them are as follows: Chairman, Section of Insurance Law, American Bar Association (1946-47); Fellow American Bar Foundation; President (1957-58), Federation of Insurance Counsel; American College of Trial Lawyers; President Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia (1952-54); Army Commendation Ribbon; Award of Legion of Merit; Order of the Crown of Italy, and President, Philadelphia Council of the Boy Scouts of America (1956-57).

He is one of the senior partners of the law firm of LaBrum and Doak, in Philadelphia and he is a member of the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and American Bar Associations and the Inter-American Bar Association, the International Association of Insurance Counsel, and the Association of Insurance Attorneys.

PAD Law Dean Has "Top" Law Faculty

Dean David E. Snodgrass, of Hastings College of Law in San Francisco, has what many have termed the top law faculty in the country. The unique part about Snodgrass' faculty is that the minimum age requirement is 65.

In the last decade, Brother Snodgrass has concentrated on assembling some of the country's most prominent and seasoned law teachers. He has recently won national recognition in magazines such as Newsweek, for his unique accomplishment. The law profession has been noted for seeking out the brilliant young men as instructors. However, Snodgrass' theory has been proven by the top lawyers the school has turned out.

Roscoe Pound, former Harvard law dean, has written Snodgrass, "Indeed, on the whole, I am inclined to think you have the strongest law faculty in the country."

Snodgrass himself has been Dean of the law school since 1940. He is only 62 and the other administrative officers of the law school are not under the mandatory minimum age rule. He is a member of Temple Chapter of PAD at Hastings.

Hastings is actually part of the University of California, but unlike the University's other schools, including Boalt Hall, its law school in Berkeley, Hastings is not governed by the University's mandatory retirement at the age of 67.

Three of the ten men on the Hastings faculty are PADs. They are William E. Britton (U. of Illinois), formerly of the University of Illinois; Harold Gregg Pickering (U. of Wisconsin), retired New York trial lawyer, and Lawrence Vold (U. of Nebraska), formerly of the University of Nebraska.

In addition to the PADs, the current roster of the "65 Club" includes: Merton L. Ferson, former Dean of the University of Cincinnati Law School; Everett Fraser, former Law Dean at the University of Minnesota; James T. McBaine, former Law Dean of the University of Missouri; George G. Bogert, former Law Dean at Cornell University; Judson Adams Crane, former Law Dean of the University of Pittsburgh; Albert Brooks Cox, retired attorney and Army Colonel; and George W. Gobel, also from the University of Illinois.

Snodgrass has also assured the acquisition in 1958 of another PAD, Albert J. Harno, 68, now retired Dean of the University of Illinois of Law. Dean Harno is presently acting Dean at the UCLA School of Law.

Judge Jackson Announces D.C. Alumni Steering Committee Appointments

The Honorable Joseph R. Jackson (Georgetown U.), Judge, U.S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, and Chairman, D.C. Alumni Chapter Steering Committee, recently announced the appointment of the following members to his committee for the Chapter Year 1957-1958: Bolitha J. Laws (Georgetown U.), Chief Judge, U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia; James P. McGranery (Temple U.), formerly Attorney General of the United States and currently in the private practice of law in the District of Columbia; J. Warren Madden (U. of Chicago), Judge, U. S. Court of Claims; and Bolon B. Turner (George Washington U.), Judge, Tax Court of the U.S.

OUTSTANDING SPEAKERS HIGHLIGHT COLUMBIA U. CHAPTER PROGRAM

Robert W. Livingston Chapter at Columbia University is this year continuing its enlightening and enjoyable speakers' program, as well as its athletic and social programs. Its program of service to the law school has also continued as the chapter once again made a contribution to the Columbia Law School Fund and conducted orientation tours of the Law Library for first year students.

William A. Rusher, publisher of the National Review, was the chapter's first speaker of the year. His topic was "Books I Would Like to Write," dealing with subjects such as communism in government, the Executive Branch and its operations, and related topics. Mr. Rusher's experience as a former counsel for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee provided him with the background to be most interesting and informative.

Another of the chapter's more interesting speakers was Professor Samuel T. Donovan, visiting scholar at Columbia from Australia who holds the only chair in Commercial Law in that country. His remarks on the differences and similarities between our legal education and practice and that of Australia's was extremely interesting.

New Members Initiated

On December 19, Livingston Chapter held its initiation banquet, at which time 21 new members were initiated. Present at the dinner were former District Justice Charles Digangi (NYU) and Brothers Joseph Kennedy (NYU), Tyler Roundy (NYU), all of the New York City Alumni Chapter, and Brother Vin Hayes, a graduate student of the law school. Professor Monrad G. Paulsen (U. of Chicago), the chapter's highly esteemed faculty advisor, was guest of honor and principal speaker of the evening. He spoke on the Changing Civil Liberties and the Effects of Scientific Development on our Constitutional Protections Against Unreasonable Search and Seizure and Self Incrimination. His remarks provided a great deal of food for thought.

Conclave Plans Set

Livingston Chapter has been accorded the honor of being host to the District XI Conclave during 1958. Conclave dates which have been set are February 14 and 15. All members of the chapter are busy planning for this event and hope to make it both a financial and social success. Aside from the usual business sessions, the chapter has obtained tickets to a new Broadway show which will be available to all attending the Conclave. A cocktail party and banquet with a distinguished guest speaker will round out the social part of the week-end. All brothers from out of town who are planning to attend are requested to contact the chapter so that hotel and other accommodations can be arranged as needed.

Livingston Chapter has also maintained touch football and basketball teams in the school's intra-mural athletic program. Cocktail parties and afternoon and evening beer parties have also been held regularly.

Chapter activities this year have been guided by Justice Robert J. Chadwick and Vice Justice Wallace Bock.

California PAD's Gather At State Bar Convention

Maintaining a tradition of active participation in California State Bar activities, more than 130 Brothers in Phi Alpha Delta from throughout the state, their wives and guests, gathered at the Terrace Room of the Mark Thomas Inn in Monterey, California, on Thursday evening, October 3, 1957, for the annual statewide PAD Reception.

Registration Desk

The Reception marked the climax of a week of State Bar Convention activities, co-ordinated as has been the custom for many years through the PAD Registration and Information Desk at Convention Headquarters at the Monterey State Fair Grounds. The PAD Desk, operated by Matthew S. (Sandy) Rae, (Duke U.), Third Vice-Justice of the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter, and his wife Janet, registered 97 members of PAD from throughout the State who were in attendance at the Convention. Each registrant received ribbons of purple and gold, attached to his convention identification badge, as a special PAD feature to display the fraternity's colors upon the Convention floor.

Many prominent PAD's, as well as a number of prominent non-member guests of the fraternity, attended the Reception, which preceded the annual Morrison Lecture on Thursday evening. Notable among the non-member guests were California Attorney General Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, and San Francisco Assemblyman Caspar W. Weinberger, an avowed candidate for the office of State Attorney General at next year's election. Also present to greet his many friends in PAD was Dean William L. Prosser of the University of California, former national president of Phi Delta Phi.

Other Prominent Personalities

Among the many prominent PAD's from all parts of California in attendance were Judge Albert Lee Stephens (U. of So. Cal.), Presiding Judge of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals; Judge Walter L. Pope (U. of Chicago), U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals; Los Angeles Superior Court Judges Leon T. David (Stanford), Aubrey N. Irwin (U. of So. Calif.), Bayard Rhone (Colorado U.), Beach Vasey (U. of So. Calif.), and Joseph W. Vickers (Stanford); Los Angeles Municipal Court Judge Clark E. Stephens (U. of So. Calif.); United States Attorney Laughlin E. Waters (U. of So. Calif.); and Los Angeles Superior Court Commissioner C. Clinton Clad (U. of So. Calif.). Representing the Supreme Executive Board during the week was Past Supreme Justice Douglas L. Edmonds (U. of So. Calif.).

Plans for the reception and the week's activities were under the sponsorship of the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter and its Justice, Albert Lee Stephens, Jr. (U. of So. Calif.), working in cooperation with John R. Griffin (Hastings), Justice of District 2. The Los Angeles Alumni Chapter underwrote the financing of the Reception, and Chapter Third Vice-Justice Sandy Rae was in charge of the Convention Committee.

Harlan Chapter Leads Oklahoma University Activities

John Marshall Harlan Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta was founded at the University of Oklahoma in 1916 and at the present time has an active membership of seventy men which far exceeds the other two legal fraternities combined. The officers at the present time are Arnold Fagin, Justice; David Erwin, Vice-Justice; Dan Gibbens, Clerk; William Williamson, Treasurer; John Raley, Marshall; and John M. Imel, Sergeant-at-Arms. Harlan Chapter is very fortunate to have as its Chapter Advisor Pro. Eugene O. Kuntz who takes a very active interest in all phases of the chapter activities.

Not only does Harlan Chapter have quantity but also quality which is best illustrated by the various group activities and PAD members who are leaders in the School of Law.

Lending Library

As a group the Chapter sponsors and manages a lending library for the students in memory of Graham B. Johnson, Jr., a prominent member of Harlan Chapter who was killed in 1951. This library lends casebooks and textbooks to all students through the aid of Mr. and Mrs. Graham B. Johnson, Sr., and the generous contributions of books by the students. Last year Bob Anderson performed a very capable job of managing the library. His successor this year is Claude Woody.

A new project was undertaken in the last several years to furnish in the reading room of the law library books of wide ranges, not otherwise available to the students, that are considered in some way to be related to the law but otherwise termed light reading. The funds for the support of this project come from the chapter. The project is now under the supervision of Bill Pyle.

Rushing

Another group activity was the chapter's rush program last year. The rush chairman, David Erwin, was given the full support of the membership plus the additional support of the newly reactivated Alumni Chapter in Oklahoma City. Don Lane, the President and many other members of this alumni chapter were in attendance. The membership and rushees as well were very fortunate in having the opportunity to hear the Honorable Alfred P. Murrah (U. of Okla.), Judge of the United States Courts of Appeals, as he spoke to the group. Judge Murrah takes a very active interest in the affairs of Harlan Chapter and is one of its most distinguished alumni. He served several years as Justice of District VIII. A very enlightening and inspiring talk was given by DeVier Pierson. The results of last year's rushing were most successful as Harlan Chapter pledged forty-seven of the sixty-seven eligible. At the present time the rushing program is in full swing again under the leadership of Frank Jaques.

Harlan Chapter is also far from lacking in social events. There is a party for the new initiates every year and last year this party was held in the Beacon Club in Oklahoma City. A stag dinner was held in conjunction with the Oklahoma Alumni Chapter last spring honoring the members of OU's National Champion Moot Court team. Each spring Harlan Chapter sponsors a gold tournament for its members and on occasion holds picnics or other outings. Each semester also includes several luncheons for the membership, not only for the purpose of transacting business or entertaining guests, but also furnishes a better opportunity for the membership to get together.

Alumni Reactivated

Within the past year the Alumni Club in Oklahoma City was reactivated. They work closely with Harlan Chapter in many things and there are many joint social events. The Alumni Chapter also holds monthly meetings in the form of luncheons. DeVier Pierson has recently been elected Justice of the Alumni Chapter for the coming year.

Honors Achieved

Individual members of Harlan Chapter have obtained many honors in the last year which are deserving of mention:

Four members of the 2d year class were selected to prepare a brief and present oral argument before the Supreme Court of Oklahoma sitting in Norman on Law Day last spring. Three of the four selected were members of PAD. They were Bob Anderson, Arnold Fagin, and Tom Kenan.

Last year Oklahoma's Moot Court team won the National Championship and Harlan Chapter as well as the school and the state were proud of their efforts. The Chapter was especially proud of DeVier Pierson, a member of this team. DeVier was also second in the nation in individual advocacy.

The Regional Eliminations for this year's National Moot Court competition were held on the University of Oklahoma campus. PAD is again ably represented on the OU team with Arnold Fagin and Tom Kenan as two of its three members. Bob Anderson was picked as alternate. Great things are expected of this team in New York later this year. Arnold Fagin was chosen as the outstanding individual advocate in the regional contest.

The present 3d year class of officers are all members of PAD and are as follows. Arnold Fagin, President; Bob Anderson, Vice-President; Charles Green, Secretary; and Frank Jaques, Treasurer.

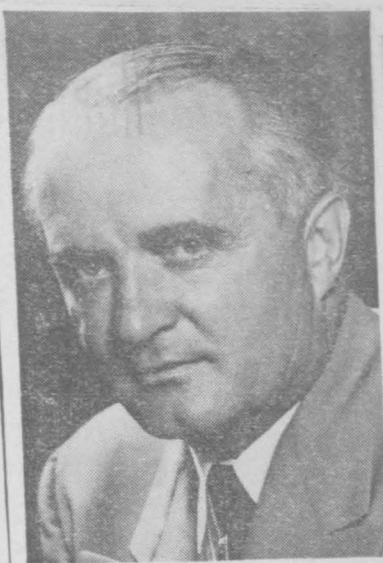

The present 2d year class of officers are also all members of PAD and are as follows: Claude Woody, President; Bob Cooper, Vice-President; Jack Lively, Secretary; and Dan Gibbens, Treasurer.

The student body is governed by a group known as the Board of Governors. Last year the Chairman was Ted Davis with Bill Harris as Vice-Chairman and Bob Anderson as Treasurer. This year Bob Anderson is Vice-Chairman and Arnold Fagin is Treasurer. Bob Anderson served as the Chairman during the last summer session.

Editors of the Oklahoma Law Review presently are David Erwin, Arnold Fagin, Frank Jaques, Tom Kenan, and Tom Stroud. Last year the Editor-in-Chief of the Law Review was Bill Harris. The first semester of last year the other officers were: Mickey Hubbard, Note Editor; Ted Davis, Article and Book Reviews; DeVier Pierson, Managing Editor; and Don Wilson, Case Editor. The second semester Jim Davis was Managing Editor and Ted Davis, Case Editor.

The representative of the School of Law to the Student Senate is PAD John Raley. Last year the position was filled by Bob Anderson.

The class of 1957 had many outstanding men who received honors upon graduation. Of the five men named to membership in the Order of the Coif, four were PAD's. They were Arch Gilbert, Bill Harris, DeVier Pierson, and E. Hardy Summers. Law Review Certificates were presented to Arch Gilbert, Don Wilson, Jim Comfort, Jim Davis, Ted Davis, Bill Harris, Mickey Hubbard, John Johnson, DeVier Pierson, and E. Hardy Summers. Arch Gilbert also received many additional awards including the Nathan Scarritt Prize, given to the senior with the highest grade average for the three years.

HERMAN WELKER

Former Senator Herman Welker Dies

A former Senator from Idaho, Herman Welker, died at the age of 50 only recently. The political figure had practiced law in Los Angeles until 1943.

While he practiced law in Los Angeles between 1938 and 1943, Welker handled legal affairs of such film notables as Bing Crosby and the late Wallace Beery.

After one six year term in the Senate, he was defeated only last year.

He was born in Cambridge, Idaho, and received his law degree from the University of Idaho where he became a member of Kent Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta.

He was District Attorney of Weiser, Idaho, when Wallace Beery persuaded him to come to Hollywood to represent the star in contract negotiations.

In 1948 he was elected to the Idaho State Senate from Payette County. In 1950 he moved up to the United States Senate in a campaign marked by support from Crooner Crosby, owner of a ranch in Idaho. He also served as a part time baseball scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates, which was partly owned by Crosby.

Since his last political defeat, Welker had practiced law in Boise, Idaho, but collapsed twice while in the capitol last year.

Hoffman Chapter Initiates Former Pro Football Star

On October 5, 1957, in a special initiation held at the Hamilton County Court House in Cincinnati, Ohio, Hoffman Chapter at Chase College of Law initiated former pro football star, George Ratterman. Ratterman is a 1956 graduate of the Chase College of Law. He has gained considerable fame in the field of athletics before turning his attention to the legal profession.

Although he was best known as a football star at Notre Dame, he also participated in baseball, basketball and tennis, and thus became a 12 letter man. After graduation from Notre Dame, he began a career in professional football which saw him playing for the Buffalo Bills and New York Yankees and the Cleveland Browns.

Currently he is Vice President of Pension and Group Consultants, Inc., which is located in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Law Film Shown

On October 7, 1957, Hoffman Chapter's Professional Program Committee showed a colored movie to the chapter and faculty. The movie "Living Under the Law," was both interesting and educational. The committee is planning to show a series of these movies, which deal with various aspects of the law, during the remainder of the school year.

Hoffman Chapter's annual smoker was held October 18 at the Hotel Sinton. Highlight of this event was an address by William S. Hopkins (U. of Cin-

George Morris Fay Dies

On November 17, 1957, George Morris Fay (Taft Chapter), former United States Attorney for the District of Columbia, died from cancer in Washington, D.C., at the age of 48.

Brother Fay was appointed United States Attorney for the District of Columbia by former President and brother PAD Harry S. Truman in November, 1946, and served in the capacity of the District of Columbia's top prosecutor from that time until 1951.

In 1948, Brother Fay headed an unprecedented grand jury investigation into gambling activities in the District of Columbia, culminating in the conviction of a number of well known gamblers. Much of the investigative work was carried out directly by Brother Fay's staff. In recognition of his outstanding performance of duty, he was renominated for a second four-year term by President Truman in 1951 but resigned to form the law firm of Fay and Anderson in partnership with H. Loy Anderson, President of the Metropolitan Mortgage Company and a former local director of the Federal Housing Authority.

He continued in private practice until his death with the exception of a brief period in early 1956 when he served as General Counsel of the Senate Special Lobbying Investigation Committee.

Attended Georgetown

A Pennsylvanian, Brother Fay had worked his way through Georgetown University and its law school during the depression by laying railroad track in the summers and operating a telephone switchboard at college. While attending the Georgetown Law School, he was initiated into the Taft Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta.

In 1942 Brother Fay was appointed executive secretary to Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark (Taney Chapter), then Attorney General. During World War II, as a Navy Lieutenant, Brother Fay was a special counsel to the House Naval Affairs Committee and the Navy's Board of Contract Appeals. Later he became the Navy's liaison officer with the Congressional committee investigating the Pearl Harbor attack.

Following World War II he returned to the Attorney General's Office and worked with William O. Dwyer, later to become mayor of New York City, in the prosecution of war fraud cases. It was from this post that he was nominated for the position of United States Attorney for the District of Columbia.

Surviving Brother Fay are his wife, the former Dorothy Donovan; five children, Mrs. Richard Varney, Camp Lejeune, N.C., and Mary Lynn, Joan, William, and Gerald, all at home; his mother, Mrs. William M. Fay, Kingston, Pa.; three sisters, Mrs. Marshall Jordan, Maywood, N.J.; Mrs. Warren Heeg, Forest Hills, N.Y., and Mrs. John J. Dempsey, Plymouth, Pa., and two brothers, Joseph, Kingston, Pa., and William, Kenwood, Md.

Brother Fay has been active in the affairs and activities of the Washington, D.C., Alumni Chapter, Phi Alpha Delta, over a period of years. In the fulfillment of his duties, both in public and private life, and in all fraternal activities, he exhibited a high dedication to the principles of justice which will serve as a continuing source of inspiration to his brothers in PAD. His loss will be keenly felt by all who were privileged to know him.

Brother Hopkins is the outstanding criminal lawyer in Cincinnati. In his 35 years of practice he has served as defense counsel in over 200 murder trials.

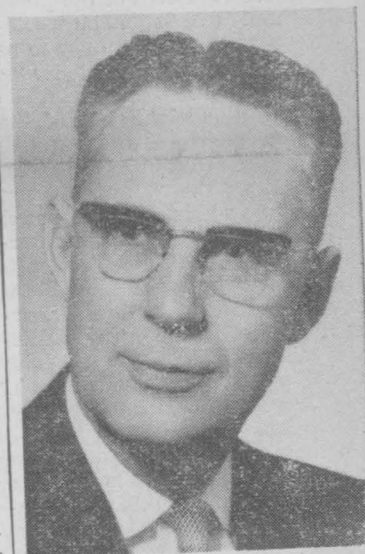

FRED M. STANDLEY

New Atty. Gen. for New Mexico Is PAD

The new Attorney General for the State of New Mexico is Fred M. Standley, a PAD from Sutherland Chapter at the University of Utah.

Brother Standley moved to Clovis, New Mexico, upon graduation from law school and practiced for two years. Later he accepted an appointment as Assistant Attorney General and remained as such for four years, the last two of which he was Chief Assistant Attorney General.

Prior to law school he attended West Texas State College and was a member of the United States Air Force from 1942 to 1945, serving as a bombardier with the 8th Air Force. He completed his high school education at Classen High School, in Oklahoma City.

HON. ROBERT T. HUNTER

Hunter Appointed To Washington Supreme Court

Robert T. Hunter, of Ephrata, Washington, was appointed to the Supreme Court of the state of Washington, by PAD Governor Albert D. Rosellini, Tuesday, the 8th day of October, 1957.

Judge Hunter is a graduate of the University of Washington Law School and became a member of Dunbar Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta in the year 1930. Brother Hunter was in the law practice for eleven years in Grand Coulee, and in 1946 was appointed to the Superior Court bench at Ephrata, Washington, for the Judicial District of Grant and Douglas Counties, where he served for a period of eleven years prior to his appointment to the high court. He is a past president of the Superior Court Judges Association of the State of Washington, and was for seven years a member of the State Judicial Council, as a representative of that Association.

In private life, Hunter served for three years as a Grand Officer of the Odd Fellows Lodge, now being a Past Grand Master of that organization for the state of Washington and Alaska. He is also a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Ephrata and belongs to the fraternal Orders of the Elks and the Moose.

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION SECTION

(This section is prepared by the American Bar Association especially for The Reporter.)

ABA Mid-Year and Southern Regional Meetings to Attract Record Crowds

What is expected to be the largest gathering of lawyers in the history of the Southeast will be held in Atlanta, Ga., next month when the American Bar Association holds its Mid-Year and Southern Regional meetings concurrently in that city Feb. 19-25. The dual programs will be filled with important professional events and top personages in the field of law, education, and government.

There will be seminars and panel discussions on no fewer than 23 subjects of current interest to the practicing lawyer. Well over 60 speakers and panel participants will take part in the various regional meeting programs.

Starting with the nine-state Southern Regional meeting Feb. 19-22, and continuing with a crowded Mid-Year meeting calendar embracing sessions of the ABA Board of Governors, the National Conference of Bar Presidents and The Fellows of the American Bar Foundations, the series of events will wind up Feb. 24-25 with sessions of the House of Delegates.

Among other things, the House is scheduled to receive the widely-debated report of the American Bar Foundation recommending revision of the text of Judicial Canon 35, but retention of its present ban against news or television cameras and radio microphones in court rooms during trials.

Indications are a special hearing will be held before the House on the Canon 35 report, with representatives of the press, radio and television industries being given an opportunity to be heard before any final House action is taken.

One of the highlights of the Southern Regional meeting will be the presentation of a special program on the "Law of Outer Space." Speakers on that panel will be Thomas E. Dewey, chairman of the ABA's new Committee on International Law Planning; Dr. Ernest Stuhlinger, research chief of the Army Ballistic Missiles Agency, and John Cobb, professor of international air law at McGill University, Montreal.

Other key regional speakers and panel participants will be John Davis Lodge, U.S. Ambassador to Spain and former governor of Connecticut; David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America; Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealand's ambassador to the U.S. and President of the United Nations Assembly; Justice Tom C. Clark of the U.S. Supreme Court and Victor R. Hansen, chief of the anti-trust division of the Justice Department.

Besides the seminar on space law there will be workshops on the economics of law practice, methods of financing small businesses, use of the blackboard during trials, trial of a tax fraud case, income tax problems of small businesses, bankruptcy proceedings, labor relations law and many others. In all, 24 of the Association's sections and committees are sponsoring special programs during the regional meetings. All lawyers in the states of Georgia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee have been invited.

After the Southern Regional meeting at the Dinkler Plaza the scene will shift to the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, headquarters for the Mid-Year sessions. The Board of Governors will meet there Feb. 21 and 22; the National Conference of Bar Presidents Feb. 22 and 23 and The Fellows of the American Bar Foundation on Feb. 23 and 24.

Also meeting in Atlanta during this period will be the National Association of Women Lawyers, at the Henry Grady hotel, Feb. 21 to 23; the National Conference of Bar Secretaries; the Board of Directors of the American Bar Foundation, and the American Judicial Society.

Public Relations

ordinarily hold themselves out to represent litigants on either side of a controversy, and lawyers fraternize socially while representing adverse interests. To many a layman, this looks like insincerity, to say the least.

Once we recognize these major causes of dissatisfaction and misunderstanding, we may, as individuals, and through our bar associations, adopt a course of action designed to remove them or lessen their detrimental effect. This is just what has been going on, especially during the last twenty years.

But, as I have said before, retention of the gains already made and the overcoming of such discordant public reaction as may persist require constant thought and work.

The responsibility of the individual lawyer in this undertaking is a heavy one. He has it within his power to add to or detract from not only his personal standing as a lawyer, but the standing of the legal profession as a whole. Howard L. Barkdull, in his annual address as president of the American Bar Association, in 1952, put it this way:

"I submit that in the long run the most effective way for the profession of the law to improve its relations with the public and to bring about a more favorable attitude toward the lawyer on the part of the people is by deserving such an opinion on the basis of conduct and performance."

A Lawyer's Responsibilities

There is no mystery as to the kind of conduct and performance on the part of lawyers, as individuals, which will maintain and strengthen public relations.

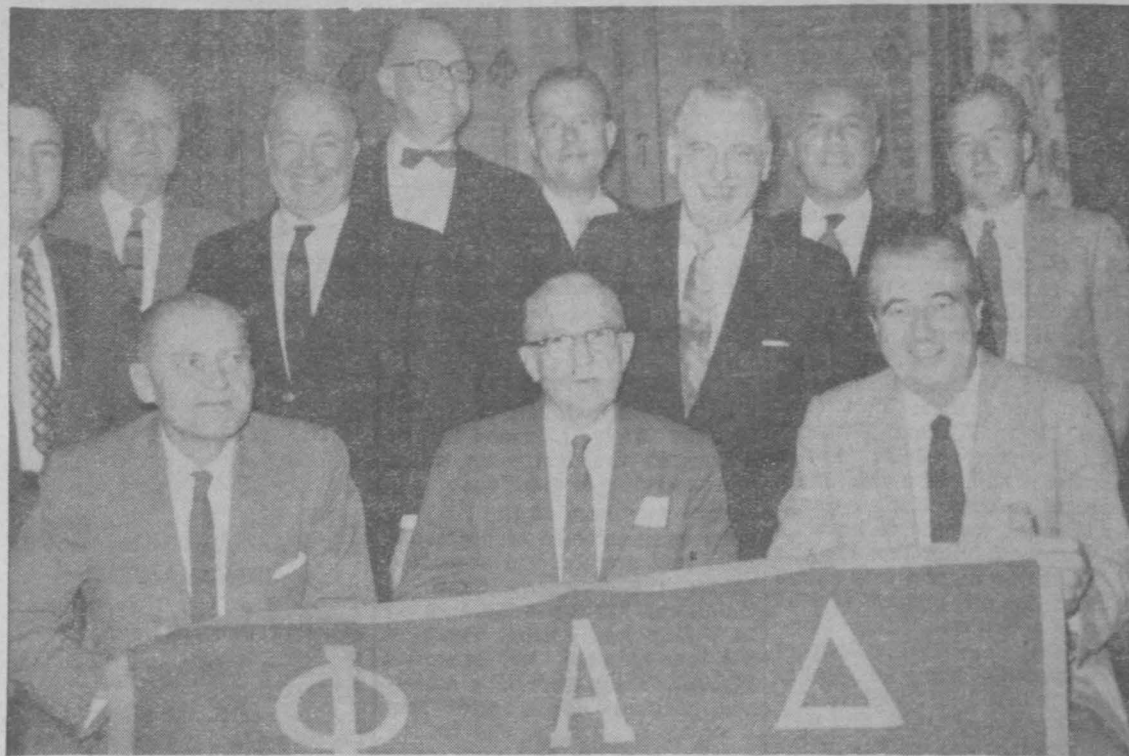

First, there must be constant and exacting adherence to the high ethical standards of our profession. The built-in conscience and sense of decency with which every man comes equipped ordinarily provide all that is needed in the way of standards of right professional conduct. For the doubtful or unusual case, the forty-seven canons of professional ethics, first formulated in 1908, provide detailed guides which should be regarded as controlling.

Maintenance of high ethical standards, however, require more than individual adherence to the accepted code. It calls for the exercise of a lawyer's moral force in obtaining adherence by others. It calls for the willing cooperation and assistance of all lawyers in effectuating the established disciplinary procedures of the bar and courts. The true attitude must be, "Who sullies the profession, sullies me."

Second, it is the responsibility of each lawyer to attain and maintain a high degree of competence and skill as a legal technician and craftsman. In our complicated civilization of today, this calls for a constant and purposeful effort by each lawyer to keep himself abreast of current legal thinking and writing, and significant changes and developments in both legislative and court-made laws.

Modern Tools

There are modern tools and facilities available to all attorneys for carrying on this post-admission legal education. Some of the most effective of these are the legal institutes on general and special subjects, sponsored by bar associations; seminars, open to lawyers, conducted by law schools; section and committee work, carried on by bar associations, in which any lawyer can find a place relevant to his professional interests; reading materials, including special texts, law school periodicals, bar association journals, and special studies, such as New Hollywood (1930), William O'Shea (1934), Standing, Robert F. Monaghan (1955), William J. Nealon (1931), Philip Brennan (1937), Paul Manning (1948), Robert Mackey (1956), Stanley R. Pulaski (1954), Anthony A. DiGrazia (1952), and Bernard Snyder (1957).

York University's annual survey of the law.

A third responsibility which the individual lawyer must accept is to render legal service without expectation of compensation in those instances where justice cannot otherwise be attained. Few of us can measure up to George Wharton Pepper's record of devoting five-eighths of his total output in time and effort to legal services for which there was no possibility of compensation. But perhaps we do, or should, at least come up to the standard disclosed by a recent survey conducted in the state of Oklahoma. The average lawyer in Oklahoma, according to this 1953 survey, spends 46.7 hours per week in legal services, and 5.9 hours, or 13 per cent of the average work week, in legal work for which he knows he will not be compensated.

A fourth responsibility of the lawyer is to make an individual contribution in time and effort towards the improvement of the administration of justice. As President Theodore Roosevelt put it: "Every man owes some of time to the upholding of the profession to which he belongs."

The drive to improve judicial administration in this country received its initial impetus from something which happened just a little over fifty years ago. I refer to that remarkable address made at the 1906 meeting of the American Bar Association by a young Nebraska lawyer, then known to few, but now recognized and respected by lawyers and judges everywhere.

Roscoe Pounds' 1906 address was entitled: "The Causes of Popular Dissatisfaction with the Administration of Justice." As Dean Wigmore put in his introduction to the address, on the occasion of its reprinting in the February, 1937, issue of the Journal of the American Jurisprudence Society, it was "the spark that kindled the white flame of high endeavor now (that is, in 1937) spreading through the entire legal profession and radiating the spirit of resolute progress in the administration of justice." Nor has the influence of Pound's address abated since Wigmore wrote. As late as 1949, in his introduction to the work on the Minimum Standards of Judicial Administration, the late Chief Justice Vanderbilt of New Jersey said that Pound's 1906 paper "should be required reading once a year for every judge, lawyer, law professor, and student on the day he returns from his summer vacation and faces his work anew."

One way in which a lawyer can contribute to the improvement of the administration of justice is to take an active interest in one of the many organizations which are now engaged in this great enterprise. Among these is the American Bar Association, with its seventeen sections open to any lawyer who applies. Then there are such related national organizations as the American Judicature Society, the American Law Institute, and the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

Perhaps as important as, or more important than, any of these are the local bar associations such as the Bar Association of San Francisco. Local organizations, serving close to the lawyer and to the courthouse door, are in a position to identify problems as they arise. They can foster new procedures and techniques which need to be practiced on the local level before being proposed for general acceptance. They afford an opportunity for service to lawyers who may find it impracticable to accept responsibilities in a national organization. Above all, they provide indispensable grass-roots support for the great nation-wide projects sponsored by the national organizations.

A fifth responsibility of the individual lawyer in upholding the dignity and prestige of the profession is to seek and accept positions of leadership in the educational, cultural, patriotic, charitable, and political life of the community. The lawyer can and should be the directing or stimulating force in most of the worthy group activities of our people. This opportunity is his because he is, as F.D.G. Ribble has said, the technician of democracy, the specialist in man's relation to man. To the extent that lawyers accept this responsibility, the stature of the entire profession is enhanced.

D. C. ALUMNI HEAR TIMBERG

On Monday, November 4, 1957, Sigmund Timberg, a prominent Washington, D.C., anti-trust attorney, addressed approximately sixty-five members and guests of the Washington, D.C., Alumni Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta at a luncheon meeting held at the Touchdown Club, on the subject of the du Pont-General Motors Case, which held that acquisition of stock of a customer corporation may be in violation of the antitrust laws.

Mr. Timberg referred to the decision as a bombshell or "corporate sputnik" in antitrust and corporate circles, stating that the decision had reached back to hold invalid a forty-year old transaction and applied Section 7 of the Clayton Act for the first time to a "vertical" stock acquisition, i.e., the acquisition of stock in one concern by another concern which is the market for its products. The speaker discussed the case in some detail and indicated various problems presented by the Government's proposal that the du Pont group divest itself of General Motors stock.

Prominent PAD's in attendance included among others Robert E. Freer, (U. of Cincinnati) former Commissioner, Federal Trade Commission; Donald Dawson, (Geo. Washington U.) former Administrative Assistant to President Harry S. Truman; and Carville D. Benson, (Emory U.) Assistant Dean, Geo. Washington University Law School.
