It's Not About The Numbers

As we come to the end of the 2006-2007 school year, we find that both our pre-law and law school chapters have held very successful rushes. So much so that P.A.D. now has over 9,000 new members, bringing our total of pre-law members to 9,153 and our law student membership to 13,043.

The P.A.D. Strategic Plan sets forth many goals to be achieved over a 10 year period the measurement of which, for the most part, is numbers because they are easy to quantify and to track. One of those goals is to increase our law school chapter rushing to 5,000 new members per year. This goal was achieved this year on April 23rd just 4 years into the Strategic Plan when 74 new law student members were reported by various chapters to the Executive Office as having been initiated into our Fraternity and their chapters. Our total number of new law school members for this fiscal year is now 5,156.

Because we are goal oriented, some members believe that we are only concerned about the "numbers". Nothing could be further from the truth. What these "numbers" translate into are new P.A.D. sisters and brothers who are very precious to us because they are the life's blood of our Fraternity. While in undergraduate school and law school, they are the foundation for our pre-law and law school chapters. They provide the diversity which is so important in P.A.D. They comprise the chapter membership base from which all organization and programming is rooted and from which inactive chapters become active chapters. They provide the leadership which drives each of our chapters. And, as a general rule, as membership increases so does the chapter's programming, which benefits not only our members, but their law schools and their surrounding communities. Stronger chapters provide a better fraternal experience for our members, something that each member carries with them for a lifetime. And, lastly, they are our future alumni and leaders driving us ever forward to fulfill the P.A.D. Declaration of Purpose: "The purpose of this Fraternity shall be to form a strong bond uniting students and teachers of the law with members of the Bench and Bar in a fraternal fellowship designed to advance the ideals of liberty and equal justice under law; to stimulate excellence in scholarship; to inspire the virtues of compassion"

Past International Justice Frank J. McCown Passes

On Wednesday, May 16, 2007, our Fraternity suffered a tremendous loss with the passing of the Hon. Frank J. McCown.

Frank's service to P.A.D. was long and extensive. He attended Ohio State University College of Law where he was Justice of our William McKinley Chapter. From 1967 to 1970, he served as an Assistant to the Supreme Justice and traveled throughout the United States and Canada. From 1970 to 1972, he served as District X Justice and oversaw fraternity operations in 3 states.

At the 1972 Convention, he chaired the Merger Committee which oversaw the merger of Phi Delta Delta Women's Legal Fraternity with Phi Alpha Delta. He was elected to the Executive Board in 1972 as the Supreme Treasurer. Two years later, he was elected Supreme Advocate and then International Second Vice Justice. In 1978 at the Cleveland Convention, Frank was elected International Justice. It was a busy two years and everyone worked – because Frank worked harder than everyone else. He truly led by example – a lesson many of us learned from him. During his tenure as International Justice, the Pre-Law Program was developed and was presented for adoption to the 1980 Convention in Hot Spring Arkansas – the Convention over which our brother presided.

His service to P.A.D. did not end with his term as International Justice. His interest in the fledgling Pre-Law Chapter Program increased over time and Brother McCown served as our Pre-Law Director. It was due in major part to his outstanding efforts and contributions that the program grew substantially during this time.

After he stepped down as Pre-Law Director, Brother Frank served as Region D Coordinator for two years overseeing law school and district activities for one fifth of the Fraternity.

On August 9, 1986 at the Awards Banquet of our Baltimore Convention, our brother received the highest honor that a P.A.D. member can receive, when he was inducted into the Distinguished Service Chapter – the 15th member so recognized.

Our brother attended 19 P.A.D. Conventions, with the Dallas 2006 Convention as his last. Most recently, Frank had been serving as a Director of the P.A.D. Public Service Center.

Frank truly loved Phi Alpha Delta. He made it a part of his daily life and he invested much of himself in our Fraternity – and it shows. He also invested much of himself in our members and those of us who were fortunate enough to spend time with him gained much from that association. His legacy will be lasting, not only in all that he accomplished for our Fraternity, but also through his son, Brigham, who is also a brother in P.A.D., twice a District Justice with a bright future before him.

Those of us who attended Frank's funeral services were reminded of his other loves and involvements – the civil war and its battles, reenactments and historical preservation - the annual Memorial Parade of which he was an organizer – his home town of Ironton – his travels - and, most importantly, his family.

Our brother led a full life on his own terms. And while we will mourn his passing, we will revel in all that he shared with us during his journey through life – now and forever.

You will be missed, brother.

CONVENTION 2008 COVER SHOT

and courage; to foster integrity and professional competence; to promote the welfare of its members; and to encourage their moral, intellectual, and cultural advancement; so that each member may enjoy a lifetime of honorable professional and public service."

So it's not about the numbers, my sisters and brothers, but it most certainly IS about what those numbers represent – our members.

Warmest fraternal regards,

John

No es Acerca de los Números

Según nos acercamos al final del año académico 2006 – 2007 descubrimos que ambos programas el pre-jurídico y los capítulos de las facultades de derecho han sostenido un periodo de reclutamiento exitoso. Tanto que ahora P.A.D. tiene cerca de 9,000 nuevos miembros, llevando la membresía pre-jurídica a 9,153 y a nuestra membresía de estudiantes de derecho a 13,043.

El Plan Estratégico de P.A.D. estableció muchas metas a ser alcanzadas en un periodo de 10 años, la medida de los cuales eran en su mayoría números, por que son fáciles de cuantificar y de rastrear. Una de esas metas es aumentar el reclutamiento de nuestros capítulos de escuelas de derecho a 5,000 nuevos miembros por año. Esa meta fue alcanzada este año el 23 de abril, dentro de los primeros 4 años del Plan Estratégico cuando 74 nuevos estudiantes reportados por varios capítulos a la Oficina Ejecutiva como iniciados en sus Capítulos y nuestra Fraternidad. El número total de nuevos miembros estudiantes de derecho para este año fiscal es de 5,156.

Debido a que estamos orientados hacia las metas, algunos miembros piensan que solo nos interesamos en los “números”. Nada puede estar más alejado de la realidad. Estos “números” se traducen en nuevos Hermanos y Hermanas de P.A.D. que son valiosos para nosotros por que ellos son la sangre que da vida a nuestra Fraternidad. Mientras estudian el bachillerato o la Escuela de Derecho, ellos son las bases de nuestros Capítulos pre-jurídicos y de la Escuela de Derecho. Ellos proveen la diversidad que es tan importante en P.A.D. Ellos conforman la membresía capitular base de la cual toda organización y programa arranca y de la cual se activan los capítulos inactivos. Ellos proveen el liderato que guía cada uno de nuestros capítulos. Y, como regla general, según la membresía crece también lo hace las actividades de los capítulos, que beneficia no solo a nuestros miembros, sino también a sus Escuelas de Derecho y a las comunidades que las rodea. Hoffman Chapter has a Great Time Helping Good Causes

Over this past year, Hoffman Chapter held a number of fun and successful philanthropic events. In addition to participating in the traditional types of charity events, such as 5k runs and helping at a soup kitchen, our chapter has a tradition of hosting some more unusual charity events. We have found that when we host more unusual charity fundraisers it is easier to get more chapter members active in the events. During this past academic year, our chapter has used these interesting types of events to raise more than $4,000 for a wide variety of charities.

One of the easiest ways that we have found to raise money for charity is to host a “Party for a Purpose” at a local watering hole. The idea is simple, throw a party and donate the cover charge to a worthy cause. Our chapter has found that many establishments are willing to provide the refreshments at their suppliers cost to receive some free publicity from the event and possibly a tax write-off depending on the charity you choose to donate the proceeds to.

Perhaps the “coolest” event we participated in this year was the Polar Bear Plunge to benefit Special Olympics. A few of our brave members raised money by jumping into a pool of near freezing water in the depths of winter. This year’s event was even cooler than normal thanks to a sudden winter storm that greeted our participants with wind chills hovering near -15°F throughout the event.

Our chapter’s biggest, and perhaps most unusual, annual charity event is St. Baldrick’s. Each year our chapter raises money for the St. Baldrick’s foundation by recruiting members to shave their heads if their friends and family donate enough money to meet their fundraising goal. This year our seven willing volunteers raised over $3000 to help fund childhood cancer research.

Brewer Chapter Fights Back Against Domestic Violence

By, Megan Lattz

The Brewer Chapter and Stetson University College of Law helped make someone's dark night safe this year. Working in conjunction with CASA (Community Action Stops Abuse) of St. Petersburg, Brewer Chapter members fulfilled their commitment to serve the student, the school, the profession and the community throughout the 2006-2007 school year.

CASA's vision is a "community without violence so that home is a safe place." Its mission is to "raise voices against violence through advocacy, empowerment, and social change." CASA seeks to fulfill this mission by providing shelter, transitional housing, and group and individual support to victims of domestic violence.

The Brewer Chapter kicked off its commitment to CASA at our annual Welcome Back BBQ on September 14, 2006. Each fall semester, this social brings together Brewer Chapter members and other law students for a chance to meet and greet while enjoying a BBQ lunch. Thanks to the generosity of AirTran Airways, the Brewer Chapter was able to auction off two round-trip tickets in order to fund an event dedicated to CASA during the spring semester.

In mid-October, the Brewer Chapter hosted its annual 1L Opening Statement Competition which brings together 1L students, professors, attorneys, and judges for a unique advocacy competition. In recognition of October being domestic violence awareness month, the Brewer Chapter selected a mock civil case addressing spousal abuse as its competition case packet. Throughout the three-night competition, competitors and judges were provided with domestic violence materials supplied by CASA. The Brewer Chapter's 1L Opening Statement and 1L Closing Argument Competitions have long been recognized as cornerstone events for the chapter. These competitions provide 1L students the opportunity to develop their advocacy skills, network with local attorneys and judges, and compete for a first round bye during Stetson's Trial Team tryouts.

On March 30, 2007, Brewer Chapter members visited CASA's children's center to host a spring fling party. With the money raised from the AirTran Airways ticket auction at the Welcome Back BBQ, the chapter was able to spend a fun-filled day with 17 children involved with CASA's domestic violence support program. Throughout the day, the children participated in a treasure hunt packed with puzzles and prizes, created their own mosaic flowerpots, ate lots of pizza, and decorated home-made Easter cookies. Each child went home with a bag of goodies including art supplies, candy, bubbles, chalk, cookies, and their very own potted plant. We were also able to donate games, sporting equipment, and other outdoor activities to CASA's children's center.

One of CASA's community-based programs is collecting used cell phones to be reprogrammed as emergency phones for victims of domestic violence. Upon returning for the Spring 2007 semester, the Brewer Chapter decorated and placed collection boxes around the campus for the Stetson community to donate used cell phones. By the end of the semester, the Brewer Chapter surpassed its goal and collected over 50 new or used cell phones. This simple project provided the Brewer Chapter with the opportunity to raise domestic violence awareness and reach out to the Stetson community.

The Brewer Chapter is very proud of its commitment to raising awareness of domestic violence through its partnership with CASA. These events allowed our chapter to truly serve the student, the school, the profession and the community.

TERRIFIC... TRUMAN CHAPTER!

Truman Chapter has had an exciting semester. This spring we have had the opportunity to continue volunteering with the Ronald McDonald House. We had a great time making magnets for Valentine's Day with all the kids. It is always great to bring a smile to their face! Truman Chapter also visited the Washington Supreme Court and visited with a Truman Chapter Alum, Justice Charles Johnson. Both the outgoing and incoming Executive Boards are hard at work planning for the First Annual Seattle University School of Law Golf Tournament hosted by Truman Chapter. We are expecting to have over sixty judges, lawyers, professors, and students playing at the prestigious Newcastle Golf Course. We are also looking forward to hosting the regional conference in the fall! All in all it has been a great year and we're excited for the one to come!

NEWS FROM BEDELL CHAPTER

On Wednesday, February 28th, the Bedell Chapter held an Attorney Panel consisting of 6 Florida Coastal School of Law graduates (and some Phi Alpha Delta alums). The Panel addressed real life expectations of life after law school in the legal profession. Students were invited to ask questions regarding how many billable hours to expect, what salaries would be like, etc. Moderator Colleen Martinez-Skinner (Treasurer) kept the Panel moving along and addressed issues and questions.

On March 2, 2007, the Bedell Chapter initiated 7 new members.

Finally, on March 25th, elections were held for officers for the 2007-2008 school year. Rodney Hall is the Justice, Heather Medd is Vice-Justice, Joseph Percopo is Treasurer, and Lauren Linville is Marshall. Deanna Coates will remain as Clerk for the fall semester.

Hugo Black

Chapter Reporting

2007 Wine Tasting Seminar

The Hugo Black Chapter at Arizona State University Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law hosted a wine tasting seminar on March 3rd, 2007, at our District V Justice Carrie Smith's home. The speaker of the event was former Vice-Justice, Tom Williams, who has given similar seminars in the past, talked to the attending members about the etiquette about formal dining that involves wine, and the characteristics of the selection of wines presented at the seminar. Tom focused on the scenario that any of us may be asked to select a wine during a dinner interview, and provided us with some simple but delicious choices to remember.

The notable selection introduced include a 2005 Voignier from Field Stone (Sonoma County) which is a spicy white wine that is suitable for more full flavored foods. The other was a 2002 Pinot Noir from Russian Hill (Sonoma County - Russian River), a very versatile red wine with a light red color and a berry flavor. While everyone was intently learning the difference between a bottle of Souvignon Blanc or Chardonnay, our attention was also drawn to the other star of the event – the delicious hors d'oeuvres that Carrie personally prepared for us. It was an informative and pleasant afternoon.

Spring 2007 Initiation

On April 5th, 2007, the Black Chapter hosted its Spring Initiation Ceremony. Six new members were initiated into the Chapter. We were honored to have P.A.D. International

P.A.D. International Secretary Ronald Winter (Alden) assists Black Chapter with their Spring 2007 Initiation.

Secretary Ronald Winter as our speaker at the initiation. Ron shared with us his personal experience and growth through Phi Alpha Delta, and encouraged the new members of the Chapter with the highlight of our chapter's namesake – Justice Hugo Black's distinctive career. As part of the ceremony, Black Chapter took the opportunity to thank Arnold Hirsch, P.A.D. International Treasurer; Carrie Smith, District V Justice, and Professor Popko for their continuing guidance and support. The evening concluded with a reception at the College of Law.

Annual Dress For Success

On April 19th, 2007, the Black Chapter hosted our Annual Dress For Success Fashion Show at the Nordstrom department store in the Scottsdale Fashion Square. The Nordstrom managers graciously provided us with many excellent examples for professional clothing and the accessories for us to gain the edge of confidence in our interviews. Our panel speakers for the evening, Ms. Robin Varcoe, of the Law Offices of Robyn Greenberg Varcoe, PLLC, Ms. Carolyn Johnsen, of Jennings, Strouss & Salmon, PLC, and Dean Marilyn Seymann of the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law provided us with their insight as in the different standard of appropriate clothing in a large law firm and a small law office.

The panel also pointed out that the dress could influence not only an attorney's image, but also be a potent advocacy tool that an attorney may bring to the litigation. The evening concluded with an exciting raffle draw with the top prize being a free multi-state bar review sponsored by Micromash Bar Review.

Submitted by, Ron Winter, International Secretary

As we wind down the academic year, I wanted to stress a couple of things that often are overlooked in the scramble to complete classes and focus on final exams: award applications and paperwork submission. The clerk plays a vital role in both functions.

Starting with the latter, it is critical that any remaining paperwork that is due to the Executive Office be submitted before the end of the semester. In particular, we want to be sure to have (a) any remaining membership applications with appropriate fees so that the members can be properly enrolled, and (b) an updated listing of your new officers so that they can be reached by the Executive Office through the summer months and throughout the coming year. Updated contact information is of paramount importance in maintaining communication with the EO and with each other so that planning and information gathering can continue through the summer. Remember that your officers are elected for a twelve month period, not just the two semesters that you are together at school.

Efficient submission of paperwork is also a good habit, frankly, to develop as you learn to become an effective attorney in a fast-moving world. Might as well "learn life lessons" while you are learning the law. (District conference attendees with me will recall that phrase, but I digress.)

Personal and chapter awards are handed out each year after careful review - by your International Executive Board - of applications submitted by our chapters. Each year, however, very deserving chapters are left out of the process because they fail to submit an application. There is a saying in New York with regard to the lottery that "you have to be in it to win it". That slogan applies with equal force to our award recipients each year. Simply put, if you don't apply, you won't win. We encourage our chapters, big and small, to apply for merit and outstanding chapter awards. In addition, we select an outstanding Justice and Clerk, so please submit the names of your worthy candidates (with a description of their achievements) for those positions.

The IEB will also be considering candidates for the Professor John J. McAulay award as the outstanding law school professor. Please send us the names and credentials of your favorite PAD professors for inclusion on that list. The Board will be reviewing those candidates at its Summer Board Meeting in August.

Have a great summer. If you are a recent graduate, best of luck with the bar exam and your job search. If you will be returning to school in the fall, hit the ground running by having your chapter calendar in place. If you are an alum, we welcome your continued involvement and support in PAD activities. Let's all work together for the advancement of our ideals and principles in Phi Alpha Delta.

This column will return in the fall. Until then, take good notes.

Membership Services Consultant Memo

Dear MSC:

My chapter is developing our chapter calendar and we were looking for different programs to fulfill the fraternity motto, Service to the Student, the School, the Profession and the Community. Do you have any suggestion?

Fraternally,
Wondering in Wisconsin

Dear Wondering:

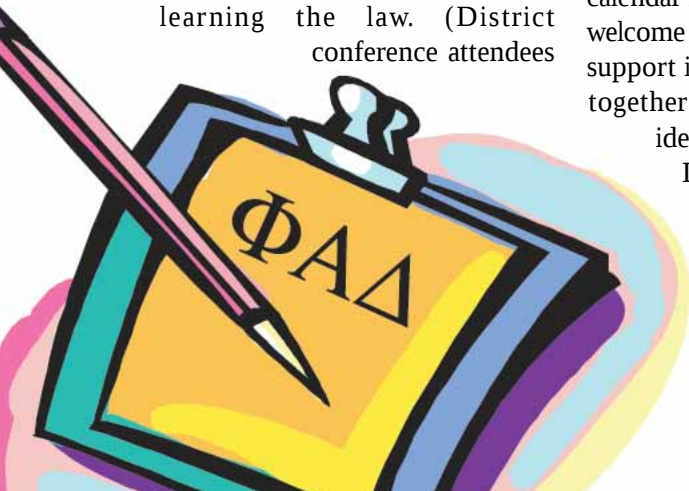

First of all, I'm glad to hear that you are filling out your calendar before the school year resumes! A chapter that has a calendar in place before everyone returns to school will be way ahead of every other organization on campus and will make a great first impression for interested students by showing how organized and active it is. Plus, your calendar will be a great recruiting piece that you can hand out to interested students who ask what P.A.D. does at your school! Well done!

Now to get to your question. As you mentioned, each chapter is expected to hold programs that fulfill the fraternity motto. I'm listing a few ideas here that will fulfill the various areas. They're not comprehensive but will provide you a good start. If you want more ideas, check out the P.A.D. Yahoo Group files that include the top three award winning applications from last year.

Academic Assistance Programs

Academic Assistance Programs are one area that can greatly benefit your chapter by providing members of the chapter, as well as potential new members, with an academic boost that non-P.A.D.'s won't have. Most chapters currently hold

- A How-To Series (How to IRAC, Outline, Survive Law School, Take a Law School Exam, etc.);
- War Stories Brown Bag Lunches with Professors;

Lincoln Chapter Hosts Middle School Mock Trial

By, Ashley Varterasian

During the Spring 2007 semester, the Lincoln Chapter united with students from Chicago's Southside Saucedo Middle School to educate them about law school and to pique their interest in the legal profession. Each middle school student was assigned a P.A.D. member as their pen pal and several letters were exchanged throughout the semester. In March, the Lincoln Chapter took a "field trip" to visit their pen pals to share with them what our experience in law school has been like.

The pen pals met again in April when the students came to visit The John Marshall Law School. They were given a tour of the school and the exciting opportunity to put on their own mock trial rendition of the classic story Three Little Pigs. The middle school students put the trial on themselves, filling the roles of the prosecution and defense attorneys, witnesses and the jury. It was a great success and was thoroughly enjoyed by all!

The Lincoln Chapter also sponsored the second American Red Cross Blood Drive of the school year. Thanks to the planning and organization of our P.A.D. members, we once again surpassed our donation goal!

P.A.D. also participated in the March of Dimes walk and joined with other organizations to sponsor Latin dance lessons prior to the annual Barristers Ball.

At the end of the semester, John Marshall held its annual Spring Fling where several distinguished awards and scholarships were announced. The Lincoln Chapter was honored there with the award of "Most Active Fraternity" due to our dedication to community service and contributions to programming at the law school! This was a great tribute to our executive board which worked hard throughout the semester to ensure that numerous activities were available to our members. The Lincoln Chapter hopes to build upon this remarkable achievement with the newly elected executive board, which has already begun to plan programs and events for the 2007-2008 school year.

INTRODUCING NEW P.A.D. EMPLOYEES

Jonathan Bassford

Robert Hughes

Meet Jonathan Bassford (Willis) our Membership Services Consultant. Jon travels to law chapters around the country providing leadership and training. If have questions regarding chapter operations, email Jon at jon@pad.org.

Robert Hughes from the Univ. of Southern California Pre-Law Chapter has accepted the position as the Pre-Law Membership Services Consultant. Welcome to Jon and Rob!

Watkins Chapter: Always Prepared to Serve

Implementing the principle which Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity was built, "Service to the Student, the School, the Profession and the Community," the Watkins Chapter of North Carolina Central University School of Law, hosted an Easter Egg Hunt and dinner at the Ronald McDonald House in Durham on March 30, 2007. A fundraiser, which raised nearly two hundred dollars, was held a week prior to the event to raise funds needed to cover the cost of the dinner and Easter Egg Hunt supplies.

The children currently residing at the Ronald McDonald House had a great time and were excited to open their Easter baskets filled with candy, coloring books, and other fun items.

Thanks to all the dedicated, hard-working members of Phi Alpha Delta, the Easter Egg Hunt was a memorable and huge success.

A.H. STEPHENS CHAPTER HONORARY INITIATION

On March 23, the A.H. Stephens Chapter at the University of Georgia School of Law conducted the honorary initiation of Justice Harold Melton of the Georgia Supreme Court. Justice Melton was selected for this honor because he embodies P.A.D.'s ideals of Integrity, Compassion, Courage and Professional Service. Known as a fair and conscientious jurist, he is widely respected for the dedication of his career to public service as an Assistant State Attorney General, Counsel to the Governor of the State of Georgia, and now Georgia Supreme Court Justice. The fraternity thanks Justice Melton for his leadership by example and welcomes him to our brotherhood.

THE FASHIONABLE FLEMING CHAPTER

On April 13th, the Fleming Chapter held a "Do's and Don'ts for Lawyers" Fashion Show. Fleming Chapter members walked a runway demonstrating the "Do's" of how lawyers should dress for all occasions, from a casual dinner to the courtroom to a formal affair. Nova Southeastern University Shepard Broad Law Center faculty joined in the fun by showing everyone what not to wear. While students trotted out wearing khaki's, suits, and formal wear, the faculty members riled up the crowd with their camouflage, spandex, and pajamas.

The Chapter hosted this event to help out a Fleming sister recently diagnosed with cancer. Various local business, faculty members, and students donated items to a silent auction and sold bracelets with another organization to raise funds for our sister's medical care. All together, along with entry donations, the Chapter raised over $3,000.

- Outline and Supplemental Reviews by chapter members;
- Picking classes after your first year.

These are just a few programs that most chapters hold. Most of them can and should be advertised during rush as members-only events to show that P.A.D. membership does indeed carry local tangible benefits.

Professional Programs

Professional Programming is an area chapters need to focus on to help their members begin looking at the legal field itself. Typical professional development programs include:

- A Speaker Series on hot topics in the law or on various areas of the law;
- Dress for Success with Brooks Brothers;
- A Bar Review compare and contrast;
- Shadow a Judge or Attorney.

Alumni Networking

The best way for the networking to take place is through chapter activities. Some chapters put on larger, more extravagant events such as wine tastings and annual poker tournaments but that does not have to be the case. Other chapters have local awards that they give to alumni, Judges and Professors. Yet others simply make sure that they invite alumni to all events, especially initiations! The keys to getting successful alumni turnout are:

- Advance notice of events (at least 3-4 weeks);
- Frequent reminders of the event as it approaches;
- Don't give up if someone doesn't come the first time you ask!

University of Central Florida “Support Our Troops”

The UCF chapter held a ‘Support our Troops Drive. In a matter of three weeks our chapter was able to donate and collect 37 care packages for our troops. The care packages include toothbrushes, toothpaste, deodorant, shampoo and conditioners, DVDs, chapstick, snacks, shavers, shaving cream, hand sanitizer, mouth wash, magazines, and most importantly phone cards.

Our chapter got in contact with a soldier in the Army with Bravo Company 18th Calvary. They requested all of the items that we got them. One member named Mallory Lineberger, went above and beyond for this project, spending over $300 in order to help our troops. She belongs to a military family, and fully understood how the soldiers like to be reminded of home and that there are people in the states who care about them.

Our contact in Baghdad wrote us saying, “she [my sister] told me about all the stuff you have to send over here! THAT IS SO AWESOME, THANK YOU ALL SO MUCH. You have no idea

CORNELL COLLEGE – POLAR PLUNGE!

On Saturday, March 24th, members of the Cornell College chapter of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity International, with many other people from around the area, participated in the first “Polar Plunge” at the Coralville Reservoir in Iowa City, Iowa. The purpose of the event was to raise money for the Special Olympics of Iowa. It’s hoped that the plunge, which raised nearly $22,000, will become an annual event. The water temperature at the time of the plunge was 42 degrees, while the air temperature was a balmy 54 degrees.

Using the Web to Boost Education and Membership Initiatives

This Fall's internet-savvy 1L students were in the sixth grade when AOL went public, and online learning has simply been something taken for granted in their secondary schools and colleges. But in law school, they will discover that online materials are used primarily to support classroom activities and not as an educational tool on their own. The syllabus, the professor's e-mail, and readings will be online - but teaching will be confined to the classroom.

We see this as a shortcoming, one that presents an opportunity for us to advance our education and membership initiatives. To do that, we're collaborating with Law Study Systems (LSS), a new Chicago-based publisher which designs, develops and publishes Web-based study aids that target the "big-ticket" topics that students must master to perform well on final exams.

We've reviewed these highly visual and interactive study aids and find them to be of the highest academic and pedagogical value. In fact, we wish we had had them when we were in law school.

With that in mind, we're working with LSS to make these products available to as many law students as possible as a means to advance our education initiatives and boost our 1L membership beyond levels that we would otherwise achieve.

How do we foresee doing that? One idea involves the use of our "rush boxes," which we distribute to each chapter before the beginning of the fall semester. This fall, part of the rush box will be a complimentary product called "The Ten Toughest Topics for the 1L Student." This product will consist of two Web-based tutorials drawn from each of the five doctrinal 1L courses (Contracts; Civil Procedure; Criminal Law; Property; and Torts).

By promoting the Ten Toughest Topics to prospective 1L members, we intend to call attention to this new component of our education initiatives. And having gained that attention, we hope to boost our membership by offering the full suite of these innovative study aids at a price that is discounted for P.A.D. members.

Christiancy Chapter's Supreme Inductions

By, Heather LaBombardi, Clerk

This semester has been action-packed for the Christiancy Chapter at Thomas M. Cooley Law School. In the spring semester we held our initiation in the Michigan Supreme Court located in the city of Lansing. All of our current members and initiates attended the initiation and enjoyed the great opportunity to be in the presence of such an important event. It was a tremendous honor to introduce the inductees to the history and oath of Phi Alpha Delta in the highest court of Michigan.

Given the above, it is worth noting that Christiancy Chapter has been quite heavily involved in community service, as it is part of Phi Alpha Delta's motto. For instance, beginning October of 2006, we brought several students to Edward G. Sparrow Hospital's Child Life Department to entertain the children who were staying in the hospital. In addition, we solicited donations from our school community as well as from our members. Through all our efforts we were able to donate hundreds of dollars worth of supplies. In the summer semester we plan to continue our visits to the hospital, in the hopes of continuing to put smiles on all children's faces.

HAMILL CHAPTER – CONQUERS PDP

Congratulations to the Hamill Chapter Flag Football team for bringing home the 2007 GOLDEN CUP!

What started out as a slow, low scoring game, quickly became a shootout as P.A.D. beat P.D.P. 56-49 in overtime to bring home the first Golden Cup in over 50 years. Using the memory of famed P.A.D. Hamill Chapter football great "Back-Seat" Billman, the team used an air attack to confuse the P.D.P. defense and score an amazing 42 points after the first half.

The event, back in its first year since the mid-1950's, was extremely successful, bringing year-long fraternity competitors toe-to-toe in order to determine who was the "real" legal fraternity on campus. The newly designed and engraved Golden Cup will now sit comfortably in P.A.D. control until next year's game.

After such an offensive explosion and team effort, not one player felt comfortable taking home the MVP, so the team unanimously chose "Back-Seat" Billman's name to adorn the cup, because without his memory and inspiration, the victory would likely not have been possible. Congratulations to P.A.D! Let the tradition continue next year!!!

Finding Ways to Save on Health Insurance

By, Jay L. Barnes

Sr. Vice President, Assurant Affinity

The cost of health insurance isn't just about how much you pay each month. The truth is that the rising cost of health insurance affects you in unexpected ways. Research from the Kaiser Family Foundation indicates that nearly half of surveyed employers plan on raising employee contributions for health benefits in the coming year. Small businesses everywhere are reeling from the health-care crisis while employers continually struggle with providing benefits in order to attract and retain the best and the brightest.

The catch-22 is how to pay for these benefits without going out of business or losing out on other important life events. Whether you're a self-employed attorney or have several employees, don't be surprised if your health insurance costs rise considerably in 2007. However, by making informed health-insurance decisions you can trim your monthly costs. Here are a couple of suggestions to help you make informed decisions.

Evaluate your health-insurance options:

The easiest way to reduce monthly premiums is to consider the new consumer driven health plans (CDHPs), such as a Health Savings Account offered through Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity. For members of P.A.D., this type of plan makes sense in terms of lowering monthly premiums and providing significant tax advantages. CDHPs will protect you from serious financial trouble in case of injury or illness while also protecting your bottom line.

You may have concerns about a higher-deductible health plan, but the tax advantages and lower premiums typically cover the costs of the deductible if you do have claims. Remember, if you don't incur claims for the year, you won't receive a refund from your insurance carrier. CDHPs are a way to realize immediate savings while maintaining comprehensive health insurance protection. Few people ever use all or even most of the benefits provided through a comprehensive health plan, so you may actually benefit financially if you offer choose to enroll in a CDHP and Health Savings Account.

Consider the new P.A.D. Member Health Insurance Program:

As an employer or individual member of P.A.D., you may have found that you just can't afford the group health insurance plans available in your area. If so, consider working with the P.A.D. Member Health Plan to help find affordable health insurance options. P.A.D. Member Health Plans provides up to a 36 month rate guarantee and $8 million in lifetime benefits. For graduating

MAGRUDER CHAPTER REPORTING

The Magruder Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta held its final social event of the 2006-2007 school year on April 12, 2007 in Champaign-Urbana, Illinois.

Students met at a local ice cream parlor as an extension of the Magruder Chapter's Fall 2006 Pre-Law Week event. PAD members from the law school and undergraduate chapters at the University of Illinois and local high school students interested in PAD and learning about law school were invited to attend.

Among the milkshakes and hot chocolates, students discussed the law school application process, classes and professors, and extra-curricular activities. The event was a successful extension of the Pre-Law Week event.

The new executive board for 2007-2008 also introduced itself to the members and visiting students and discussed plans for the upcoming year.

FAQ's of the DCO dco@pad.org

Dear DCO:

I've just been elected as an officer of my Pre-Law Chapter and I don't know what to do. Can you help?

Rudderless in Rolla

Dear Rudderless,

Absolutely! The fraternity has established basic programming expectations for each chapter, so let's start with the basic types of programs that need to be on every chapter's calendar.

Each chapter is expected to fulfill the fraternity motto of Service to the Student, the School, the Profession and the Community by holding the following types of programs and/or events each semester:

- The first initiation of each semester should be held no later than October 31st in the Fall and no later than March 15th in the Spring;
- At least one practice LSAT exam;
- Social event;
- Multiple professional development events such as bringing in speakers to talk about what they do with their law degrees, how to get into law school or what law school is like;
- At least two community service events;
- General Chapter meetings every two weeks; and
- A Mock Trial or Moot Court program.

The purpose of Phi Alpha Delta Pre-Law is to provide individuals interested in the law with the information necessary to make an informed decision about whether going to law school is for them. By holding these basic types of programs each semester you'll be able to help current members as well as new initiates do that!

Dear DCO:

I'm the new Membership Recruiter for my chapter and I was wondering how we decide who's P.A.D. worthy and who isn't?

Picky in Pennsylvania

Dear Picky:

Anyone who's expressed an interest in Phi Alpha Delta and its precepts may join. An unfortunate misconception is

Turning Aspirations into Achievements

Citibank can help Law students get what they need now – and owe as little as possible later.

Students get the benefit of an automatic interest rate reduction on our Federal Stafford and PLUS Loans, with unlimited chances to earn it back if they ever miss a payment.*

Stafford Loans begin with a fixed interest rate of 6.80%. With a Citibank Stafford Loan, you can get a rate as low as 5.55% – this includes:

- ZERO Origination and Federal Default Fees
- 1.00% interest rate reduction at repayment as a graduation present
- 0.25% interest rate reduction for E-Z Pay auto-debit payment program

Visit studentloan.com/law or call 1-800-967-2400 to learn more.

* The Zero Origination Fee Stafford Loan is valid for Stafford Loans serviced by Citibank. Citibank will pay the origination fee that is typically charged to the borrower. A 1.00% Federal Default Fee that is typically deducted from the loan proceeds may be paid by Citibank, N.A. or the guarantor on the borrower's behalf for loans guaranteed on or after November 15, 2006. Interest rate reductions and all borrower benefits including these offers terminate upon loan delinquency or default. Automatic interest rate reductions are granted during periods of active repayment for Stafford and PLUS Loans with a first disbursement on or after November 15, 2006. The E-Z Pay Program, an automatic payment program, provides additional interest rate reductions during repayment when a borrower enrolls in the program and agrees to receive only electronic statements. The benefit recovery feature for Stafford and PLUS Loans with a first disbursement on or after November 15, 2006, provides reinstatement of the automatic interest rate reduction to delinquent borrowers after 24 consecutive on-time monthly payments anytime during the life of the loan. We reserve the right to modify or discontinue benefit programs at any time without notice. Any termination or modification of the program will not affect the terms of loans previously made. Privacy and Personal Autonomy

By: Bruno Renda

The right to individual privacy in its earliest stages already hinted a contingent right to personal autonomy. In its earliest years, the right to privacy and personal autonomy found its most basic definition in Justice Brandeis' dissenting opinion in Olmstead v. United States (1928), where he says that the framers of the Constitution sought "to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions, and their sensations." Justice Brandeis summarized this protection as a person's "right to be let alone." The issue in this case was whether the defendant's fourth and, specially fifth amendment right against self incrimination, had been violated by wiretaps. In those days, the court found that it had not. However Justice Brandeis' dissent served as a mile stone for subsequent arguments for an individual's personal autonomy. As other cases dealing with privacy issues were granted review, The Supreme Court began to expand the scope of privacy within the First, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Ninth and Fourteenth Amendments. At the same time, the court narrowed the range of the personal autonomy aspect of the right to privacy to very basic issues in human individuality, namely family dealings, motherhood, marriage, and procreation.

Later in the century, in 1965, one's autonomy to make decisions within the confines of his marriage was challenged by a Connecticut law that prohibited a couple from seeking counseling regarding contraceptives, in Griswold v. Connecticut. In this case, the issue that arose was whether the couple in question had a constitutional right to choose such counseling under the protection of the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. In delivering the opinion of the court, Justice Douglas declared that this state law operated "directly on an intimate relation of husband and wife," however in the penumbra of constitutional amendments "various guarantees create zones of privacy" which could not be regulated by the state. To further this logic, Justice Douglas cites, among others, the Fifth Amendment right against the quartering of soldiers "in any house" to solidify the notion that a person's home is his domain, and consequently subject to his discretion only.

The Supreme Court went further in expanding a person's right to be autonomous when it decided the landmark case of Roe v. Wade (1973). The Court had already recognized the home as a private sanctuary in Griswold v. Connecticut, but in Roe, it expanded this privacy to a person's freedom to choose what to do with her own body. The main issue in this case was whether a woman had sufficient autonomy over her own body to terminate a pregnancy without her life being in danger. The Court, citing Griswold, reaffirmed a fundamental right to privacy and reasoned that the Fourteenth Amendment Due Process Clause gave a woman total autonomy over her body, but this autonomy would end upon viability of the fetus. The part of the decision that deals with the fetus is only relevant when it comes to pregnancy, but the affirmation of autonomy over one's own body would, outside of the scope of pregnancy make personal privacy inviolable.

Conversely, The Supreme Court was reluctant to expand the notion of personal autonomy to less elementary aspects of privacy. In Kelly v. Johnson (1976), a police officer's choice of hair length was claimed to be protected by the right to privacy. The Supreme Court decided not to invalidate state regulation that dealt with a police officer's appearance. It reasoned instead, that this claim did not infringe upon a person's most intimate realm.

the same line of reasoning, the Court also refused to extend the privacy protection in Whalen v. Roe (1976), where the issue was whether it was a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment for doctors to keep and report personal information of patients to whom controlled substances had been prescribed. In its decision, the Court found that the "remote possibility" that abuse of the availability of this information did not constitute a violation of privacy.

Further into the twentieth century, less orthodox and, consequently, more controversial claims for freedom to choose under privacy began to seek review by The Supreme Court. Laws prohibiting behavior that had long been seen as deviant by society began to be challenged under The Constitution. Sexual practices such as homosexuality and sodomy, both homosexual and heterosexual were against the law in many states. Even though such laws were almost never enforced, when they were, they became the target of privacy and personal autonomy claims. In Bowers v. Hardwick (1986), the question raised was whether the Constitution conferred homosexuals the right to engage in consensual sodomy. In reaching its decision, the Court subjected the issue to two questions in order to establish the legitimacy of the claim. The Justices asked whether the act was "implicit in the concept of ordered liberty" (Palko v. Connecticut, 1937) and whether it was "rooted in the Nation's history and tradition,"

The Socratic Edge

By Sonel Shropshire, JD

Socrates probably had no idea that his method of extracting analysis out of the human psyche would form the foundation of the law school learning experience. As the acclaimed “father of political philosophy,” his piercing development of logical reasoning revolved around the idea of the truth being pursued, rather than discovered. Socrates referred to his method of questioning as elenchus, which is loosely interpreted as “cross examination.” Centuries later, the Socratic Method not only forms the basis of how the truth is pursued in our justice system, but also how law students are trained to be pursuers of that truth.

Senescence has not abated the intensity of the Socratic Method. It remains one of the most interactive forms of educational instruction. Those who have been through the law school experience often remember the first time their name was called “out of the blue” by a professor. Somehow your last name sounds different to your own ears, and you begin to wonder if you are indeed the intended target of the professor’s query. The stares that follow from your classmates, however, quickly confirm that fact. Your identity has been exposed, and it is now your turn to formulate an opinion based on what you have studied.

At first, one might assume that a single correct (or incorrect) answer will end the examination, as is often the case in other educational settings. But law professors are notorious for presenting thought-provoking questions that have no right or wrong answer. They are more interested in the reasoning leading to your conclusion than the conclusion itself. So instead of absolving you from further examination, your response creates a verbal “sling-shot,” resulting in another question delving deeper into your reasoning. You are now within the jaws of the Socratic Method.

In dealing with this intense exchange, there is one guideline that will make the experience more enlightening and less frightening.

Be Prepared

A law student should never step into a classroom unprepared. You should be up to date on assigned readings and other responsibilities listed on your class syllabi. If not, your attempts to improvise while being questioned will be exposed, and embarrassment is almost sure to follow. The Socratic Method exploits and highlights inadequate preparation, as it is virtually impossible to engage in the required level of analysis without doing your homework.

The chances of you reading every assigned page and briefing every assigned case are slim to none. But when preparing for class, you should always seek to analyze relevant issues from various angles, anticipating the possibility of reaching different conclusions from those angles. Then, when you are called upon by your professor, you can dive into the conversation with confidence. Remember, it is not always the smartest person who succeeds in law school, but the one who can best apply legal memory to an assortment of factual instances.

SAMMIS CHAPTER SPRING SUCCESS!

In April 2007, the Sammis Chapter at Southwestern Law School organized events that were new to campus and both tremendous successes! The first was an all-campus In-House Counsel Speaker Panel and the second was a "Thank You" lunch for our school's maintenance staff. The In-House Counsel Panel was made up of speakers from the public and private fields, including the entertainment and commercial sectors. Specifically, the panelists included counsel to the Mayor of Los Angeles, General Counsel to 1-800-Dentist, general counsel to New Wave Entertainment, and former counsel to Red Bull North America. Even though the event was held during the last month of school and students were already cramming for finals, over 75 students came, ate lunch, listened, and asked questions. The panelists, moderated by Vice-Justice, Marc Baranov, talked about their paths to becoming in-house counsel attorneys and gave students advice on how to follow in their footsteps.

Our second April event was an Appreciation Lunch for the Southwestern maintenance staff, headed by our Clerk, Melanie Deutsch. Our chapter wanted to formally recognize the hard work of the staff throughout the year which is not regularly recognized by the student body. After recent P.A.D. efforts numerous staff, faculty, and other students displayed their gratitude for our work and the maintenance staff. With the overwhelming response from the school community, we collected signatures on multiple giant "Thank You" cards and presented the cards to the staff at a lunch in their honor as a token of our appreciation. Neither of these events could have been as successful without the hard work of the entire P.A.D. board including Treasurer, Bayan Laird and Justice, Ellen Levin!

that Phi Alpha Delta Pre-Law chapters are allowed to select who can join and who can't join and that is not the case.

The purpose of Phi Alpha Delta Pre-Law, as a professional fraternity, is to provide individuals interested in the law with the information necessary to make an informed decision about whether going to law school is for them. That means that anyone who wants to join Phi Alpha Delta Pre-Law can, unlike the selection process that is typical when rushing a social fraternity or sorority.

Phi Alpha Delta has always been a fraternity of firsts, the first to welcome members of all races to membership, the first to welcome all religious creeds, the first to welcome women to a law fraternity, and the first to have a pre-law program! We are proud to be a fraternity of inclusion, not exclusion, and take it very seriously when we discover that anyone or any chapter is violating that. We exist to educate everyone about the law, law school and any possible careers in the law that are out there and we cannot fulfill our purpose if chapters are selectively excluding potential new members.

P.A.D. Brother Authors New Book

Steven W. Dulan, past Justice of the Christiancy Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, announces the release of LSAT Exam Prep, published by Pearson Education, (www.PearsonEd.com) the global leader in educational publishing. This latest book joins GRE Exam Prep, GMAT Exam Prep and SAT/PSAT Exam Prep to complete the latest series offered by Advantage Education®, (www.AdvantageEd.com) the East Lansing based education company founded by Dulan. Advantage Education, now in its 10th year, is a full-service education and training company offering service to students in select locations and worldwide via the Internet with its Personal Distance Learning® system.

Also written by Dulan and the faculty of Advantage Education are McGraw-Hill's ACT, released last year, and McGraw-Hill's 10 ACT Practice Exams, now in bookstores nationwide. Both books are published by McGraw-Hill, America's leading educational publisher.

Current book projects include GED Exam Prep for Pearson and Conquering ACT Math and Conquering ACT English and Writing for McGraw-Hill. All are slated for mid-2007 release.

Previous projects include PSAT/NMSQT Exam Cram, GRE Exam Cram and GMAT Exam Cram, all published by QUE, a division of Pearson Education.

In 1994, Dulan received his law degree from The Thomas M. Cooley Law School in Lansing, where he is currently an adjunct professor teaching Firearms Law. Steve is also a member of the State Bar of Michigan and the State Bar of Colorado, and is a licensed Real Estate Broker and Residential Builder in Michigan. In addition, he serves as an adjunct professor at Lansing Community College teaching Real Estate Law.

Alumni Enjoy a Night in the Greek Islands

Members and friends of the West Suburban Alumni Chapter gathered together on the evening of February 22, 2007, at the Greek Islands Restaurant in Lombard, Illinois. On hand to celebrate the chapter's seventh month in existence were most of the chapter charter members and initiates. With thunderous shouts of Opaa!, several members toasted the chapter's success with shots of ouzo. Shortly thereafter, Chapter Justice Maley (Webster) made a sad attempt to impress the wait staff with the only bit of Greek language in his repertoire, the phrase "Philos Adelphos Dikaios". As it turns out, justice's position notwithstanding, the waiter was not a dear brother.

Sister Gloria Tsotsos (Lincoln) served as event chair and somehow managed to get everyone into their seats just in time for the saganaki to burst into flame – no small task, and no small flame. Among the special guests at the dinner was University of Minnesota student Brother Joey Swartz (Mitchell) who was forced to listen to veteran Brothers Spencer (Story), Kenney (Lincoln) and Maley (Webster) tell stories and jokes about P.A.D. occasions long past.

With one exception, members sated themselves on plate after plate of a wide variety of Greek dishes including Taramosalata, Greek Salad, Gyros with Tzatziki, Chicken Riganati, Arni Bouti Psito, Dolmades, Pastichio, Rice Pilaf, and Oven Browned Potato. Sister Carol Klima Martin (Lincoln), on the other hand, timed her fashionably late arrival to coincide with the serving of dessert!

Over dessert, Sister Michelle Isherwood (Humphrey) discussed plans for a chapter outing to see a Kane County Cougars game in May. The Cougars are the local Class A affiliate of the Oakland Athletics and have had nearly 90 players advance into the majors from their ranks. The event would include pre-game tented barbecue and possibly an appearance by Jake the Diamond Dog.

The West Suburban Alumni Chapter was chartered in August 2006 to serve P.A.D. Alumni members working or residing in DuPage, Kane, Kendall, and Western Cook Counties in Illinois. The Chapter provides a professional network for suburban practitioners, hosts quarterly social events, conducts periodic MCLE programming, and will be sponsoring monetary law student service awards beginning in the 2007-2008 school year. For more information concerning the fraternity's newest alumni chapter, please contact Justice B.J. Maley at attybjm@ameritech.net or visit the chapter's e-group at <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/WestSuburbanPAD/>.

Teen Court Partners with Baltimore City for National & Global Youth Service Day Event

On Saturday, April 21, 2007, Charles County teens joined millions of young people across America to participate as part of the Annual National and Global Youth Service Day (N&GYSD), a pivotal event that records and celebrates the positive contributions youth make to their communities year round. The National & Global Youth Service Day is the largest youth service event in the country and is organized by Youth Service America (YSA).

The youth volunteers from the Charles County Teen Court and the Baltimore City Teen Court met to begin work on a joint community service project in recognition of National & Global Youth Service Day. The project they selected was to help prepare the office space recently acquired to house the newly formed National Association of Youth Courts (NAYC) Headquarters. The offices, located in an older building in Baltimore, needed considerable elbow grease to clean and prepare for painting. Forming into teams, the teens worked together to clean, prep, and paint the 9 offices that will be occupied with the staff members of the new national association this summer. Throughout the day, the offices were abuzz with teen voices and music as they diligently undertook the many tasks of the challenge in front of them. By the end of the day, the offices had undergone a major transformation and greatly assisted with making the NAYC a reality.

In recognition of their participation, dedication, and commitment to the objectives of the N&GYSD, the Department of Justice will be highlighting their project as part of its national recognition of the N&GYSD activities. The Department of Justice and other national agencies currently sponsor youth courts by providing grants through Phi Alpha Delta Public Service Center.

Armstrong Atlantic State Youth Service Day

For Youth Service Day 2007, Armstrong Atlantic State University visited the West Chatham YMCA in Pooler, GA. The Pre-Law chapter presented different types of political campaign ads to the kids. After comparing and contrasting the different types of ads the children were divided into groups. Each group then was responsible for creating their own political campaign ad. The groups presented the ads to the class. Following the presentations all enjoyed pizza and soda. This was a very successful and fun Youth Service Day!

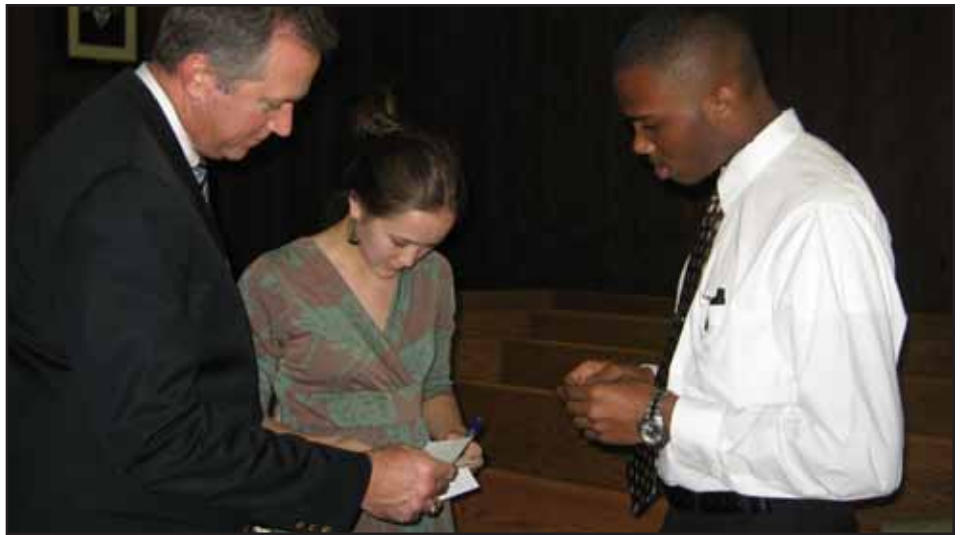

Hoffman Chapter Works With Teen Court

Each year Hoffman Chapter, like many other chapters, works with our local teen court by providing training and moral support to its members. Our chapter works with the Northern Kentucky Teen Court throughout the school year to help the high school students that run the teen court learn the ins and outs of the legal system. Teens that volunteer to work in the teen court program get experience working as everything from prosecutors and defense attorneys to jury members and court clerks.

This year the Northern Kentucky Teen Court was surprised to receive national attention. The Northern Kentucky Teen Court was selected to serve as a national model for teen courts throughout the country during at the Fourth Annual Congressional Conference on Civic Education in Washington D.C. During the Conference several representatives from the Northern Kentucky Teen Court discussed the benefits of teen court programs with several powerful Washington insiders, including former Senators Dole and Daschle and Justice O'Connor.

The teens also presented a re-enactment of one of their more memorable recent cases. The case that they presented centered on a 17-year-old father and high school dropout that was charged with underage possession of alcohol. During his trial at the teen court the young father was ordered to attend alcohol treatment and parenting classes. Because the trial was held through the teen court program, the young father will not have the offense on his criminal record as he tries to improve his life and the life of his young child.

If your chapter doesn't currently work with a local teen court, you should definitely consider getting involved. You can find all of the information that you need on the P.A.D. Public Service Center website. Working with your local teen court is a great way to give back to the community and make a difference in the lives of teens in your community. It is also a way to expose future law students to the benefits of joining Phi Alpha Delta and to network with the local attorneys and judges that also volunteer their time to the teen court.

THE SHRINKING APPLICANT POOL:

What It Means For You

Applicants seeking admission to law school for the fall of 2007 are each unique, but as a group they share a universal, and somewhat unusual, characteristic. They are the first applicant pool in five years to see the number of overall applicants decrease, based on the February data.* After 2001 (perhaps due to the Dot-com bust), the number of applicants to US law schools increased steadily, leveling out around 2005. 2006 is the first year to see a dramatic decrease in overall numbers.

The decrease in applicants has affected nearly every school. The New York Times recently reported that, as a whole, law school applications are down 9.5% from last year. And while some have speculated that the decrease is most pronounced for schools in the second and third tier, top schools had been impacted by the decline as well. Harvard, which typically has one of the largest applicant pools of any law school, saw numbers drop from 7,386 last year to 7,127 this year. Similarly, Stanford saw applicants slip from 5,040 to 4,863, and Columbia showed one of the largest decreases with numbers falling from 8,355 to 8,020.

According to LSAC, the number of law school applicants decreased an average of 6.1% to 75,332.

But does a decrease in overall applicants mean that the admissions process is changing? One sign that the applicant pool is experiencing ripples includes Yale Law School's recently relaxed rules regarding LSAT test dates. Yale typically does not consider test scores from administrations after December for fall admissions, but this year the consistently top-ranked school altered its policy to allow February test takers to apply for the fall of 2007. Perhaps because of the change, Yale is the only school whose number of overall applicants has only been slightly affected, down just five students from 2005.

The numbers are certainly falling, but it is difficult to determine why or what this means for applicants. With national unemployment at just 4.7%, (a four-year low), some speculate that the strong economy is luring more young people to the workforce before pursuing advanced degrees.

Another factor may be the increased cost of attending law school. Even at UCLA, a public school subsidized by tax dollars, tuition has doubled over the last several years and now hovers around $24,000. Even so, the cost of attending UCLA is still significantly less than the cost of attending a private school. (Stanford Law School's tuition for the 2007/2008 school year was just under $40,000). With tuition increasing, prospective students may be taking more time to consider the financial implications of assuming hefty student loans.

It is also possible that the increased competitiveness of the admissions game has discouraged some students from applying. With a tightening LSAT curve and increasing GPA demands, the process itself may have become so difficult that people who would have applied cavalierly before are now rethinking the process until they can be sure that applying to law school is the right decision.

Still another theory is that, like the real estate market, the law school applicant pool is experiencing a normal correction, balancing itself out after the spike in applicants over the last five years.

Whatever the reason, there is no proof that the decrease in applicants is making it any less difficult to obtain admission at competitive schools. In fact, the tightening LSAT curve and the stability of Yale's applicant pool suggests that the most competitive candidates, those who are targeting elite schools and competitive firm jobs, are still applying in large numbers.

If the applicant pool is shrinking, but overall competition is not slackening, the LSAT is as important than ever. And in light of the applicant boom and the fierce competition in law school admissions over the last decade, even a 10% decrease in applicants is unlikely to make the application process significantly easier. Obtaining admission to law school is still a tough and competitive process. Whatever the applicant pool numbers, an outstanding LSAT score continues to be essential to ensure your place in a law school class.

Article by Blueprint Test Preparation, providing the most hours of LSAT class with the best instruction available. www.blueprintprep.com

*According to the Law School Admissions Council (LSAC)'s most recent "Current Volume Summary," a statistical report comparing the volume of applicants and applications received by ABA-accredited law schools through March 30, 2007 to the volume received at the same time last year, the number of law school applicants decreased an average of 6.1% to 75,332.

On the October 2002 LSAT, test-takers could miss twice as many questions for a score in the 99th percentile as on the December 2005 LSAT.

Protecting Australian Business and Infrastructure from Terrorism

The Hon Philip Ruddock MP, Attorney-General

We are all painfully aware of the terrible human cost of terrorism. The tragic loss of life, the injuries and the senseless destruction are images that will be etched on our minds for many years to come. In addition to this human cost, terrorism also takes an enormous toll on individual businesses and on the entire economy. Approximately 80 per cent of businesses affected by the attacks of September 11 are no longer operating today. And it is estimated that the attacks cost the US economy half a trillion dollars between 2001 and 2003. Just as we need to protect ourselves from a terrorist attack, it is also important that businesses are prepared and have plans in place to get back to normal as soon as possible.

When I wrote for the Reporter late last year, I detailed Australia's wider efforts to keep our country safe and secure and to protect our unique way of life. In this edition I would like to build on this and discuss what we are doing to protect our economy and our critical infrastructure.

Australia has an open, market-based economy. This means that individual businesses are free to make decisions based on their assessment of risk and their own evaluation of what is in their best interests or those of their stakeholders. So when it comes to matters such as risk management and business continuity there is no way the Australian Government could, or should, be telling the private sector what to do. In some situations such as in the transport sector, regulation is necessary to meet international obligations. But as a rule, the Government recognises that there is no simple, universal, security formula that will suit every business – and there is no place for us getting involved in the day to day security considerations of business.

But this does not mean that governments are irrelevant to business security. The protection of our economy, the protection of nationally vital critical infrastructure and the maintenance of national prosperity are all areas where the Australian Government has a vital interest and is making a significant contribution. Indeed we recognise that we are in a unique position to work in partnership with business on security issues. We can promote best practice, we can raise understanding of security matters and we can share security information with the business community. We also realise that we can work as an 'honest broker' to bring together the owners and operators of critical infrastructure to discuss common security issues affecting them and to help them work out solutions to the common problems they face.

Recognising we are in a position to work with businesses on security issues is one thing – the difficult part was working out how to make the idea of cooperation, information sharing and dialogue a reality.

The first thing we have done is establish the Business-Government Advisory Group on National Security. The great value of this group is that it allows me to hear first hand what issues are important to Australian CEOs. So far it has been issues such as identity security, the protection of places of mass gathering, reform of the private security industry, the use of CCTV and the introduction of new technologies, such as biometrics, that have generated the most discussion.

This business-government relationship has been further enhanced by the establishment of the Trusted Information Sharing Network for Critical Infrastructure Protection (TISN). The TISN provides a forum where the owners and operators of critical infrastructure can come together to talk about security issues, to share information and to address common problems.

The outcomes achieved by the TISN in a relatively short period of time have been considerable. A strategy to enhance the safety and security of the food chain has been developed, an information technology security expert group has been formed which produces information and advice on a range of emerging IT issues, and a planning workshop was recently held to help identify industry priorities for the distribution of fuel in the event of an emergency.

As part of this ongoing dialogue with business, the Government has also released an information kit to raise awareness about risk management and business continuity among small and medium sized enterprises. Good Security – Good Business provides useful information on the importance of being prepared for an incident and the value of having plans in place to respond and recover as quickly as possible. Copies of the booklet are available through the TISN website at www.tisn.gov.au.

Another way the Government is working with business is through the provision of ASIO Threat Assessments and Business

Security Reports. These develop information and advice about security threats that is relevant to closely with the private sector to ensure that its advice is tailored to the specific circumstances of the business.

We are also working closely with business to develop a complex computer modelling and analysis capability to identify the ways in which the critical infrastructure jigsaw fits together. The Critical Infrastructure Protection Modelling and Analysis (CIPMA) Program is a computer based capability which models and simulates the behaviour and dependency relationships of critical infrastructure. The capability can analyse the flow-on effects of a service disruption within and across industry sectors, the effects on the economy and the population, the duration of a disruption, the area affected and how critical infrastructure systems will behave as a result of the interruption. The United States (US) is also working on its own critical infrastructure modelling programme and Australia and the US engage in regular consultations on this important work.

Of course, Australia is always eager to work with, and learn from, our international friends. We regularly take part in international exercises and in March 2008 we will be participating in Cyber Storm II. Cyber Storm II is a US-led initiative to exercise and evaluate communication and coordination between critical infrastructure protection agencies in the US, Australia, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and Canada in the event of a major cyber incident.

As part of our response to cyber-threats the last federal budget announced over $70 million on e-security initiatives. This money will help protect government systems, critical infrastructure, businesses and home users from the growing range of cyber-threats.

The message from the Australian Government is very clear - national security is everyone's responsibility. The Australian Government is deeply committed to helping the business community protect the vital assets that are the backbone of our national economy. By working together we will be better placed to ensure Australia remains a vibrant, prosperous and safe nation.

USC Pre-Law Chapter's Successful Rush!

Glasses clinked. Heels clicked. Men and women in suits and dresses mingled as they sipped Shirley Temples while having dinner at McCormick and Schmick's Seafood Restaurant in downtown Los Angeles. What drew all of them together that night was a passion for law.

It was the first night of spring rush for Phi Alpha Delta Pre-Law Fraternity. Phi Alpha Delta is not your typical fraternity; it doesn't have a house on "The Row" or throw registered parties. Monday night deliveries are replaced with presentations by judges and law school panels.

As a co-educational, pre-law fraternity with a professional emphasis, P.A.D. provides its members with extensive information about law schools, the LSAT and the different fields of law. Chapter President Robert Hughes says the fraternity helps members "get ahead of the competition" when applying to law school and has a "considerable emphasis on friendship and brotherhood."

"It's both professional and social, and both aspects are equally important. It's not a club where people just show up whenever they choose," continues Hughes. "P.A.D. rush is intentionally held a week after Interfraternity Council's spring rush because some of the actives are also in social fraternities and sororities," explains Hughes, who is also a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

One student at the Wednesday night dinner welcomed the P.A.D. atmosphere. "There is no sorority or fraternity intimidation," says Uche Anene, a senior majoring in political science. "It has goals. It's geared toward a direction."

P.A.D. saw a particularly high turnout for spring rush, with at least 80 people, including actives, attending scheduled events. "This is usually what we get in a year combined," Hughes happily explained.

A Note from University of Southern California P.A.D. Pre-Law Chapter

Dear Phi Alpha Brothers and Sisters Nationwide,

My name is Robert Hughes and I'm the President of the University of Southern California's P.A.D. Pre-Law Chapter. I'm honored to inform you of the best Professional Event our Chapter has ever had in my four years as an undergraduate and P.A.D. member. On Wednesday, March 7th our chapter had the privilege of hosting attorney Richard Montauk and his popular presentation, Law School Admissions Revealed.

A gifted and engaging speaker, Mr. Montauk is a leading authority on U.S. legal education, the author of How to Get Into the Top Law Schools, and two other best selling admissions books. He is founder and president of "Degree of Difference," a firm that has helped thousands of applicants get into the world's most selective law schools, business schools, and colleges. Mr. Montauk is Consulting Editor, and major contributor, to the annual LLM Guide and Global MBA Guide (publications of Hobson's London). I'm pleased to announce that over 100 students attended the event at USC's University Park Campus. Mr. Montauk is currently touring the country with his presentation and new book. Richard would love to speak to P.A.D. chapters nationwide and can be scheduled by contacting his publicist, Sherie Pitt at s.pitt.degreeofdifference@gmail.com.

In my four years as a member of the P.A.D. Pre-Law Chapter at USC, I have never seen a better legal speaker who will show you how to open the door of admission to your law school of choice. I would highly encourage your chapter to host Mr. Montauk and open the event to your student body on your campus. There are many books and speakers on how to get into the best law schools; Mr. Montauk's tops all of them and upon inviting him to your campus, you will see why. Best of luck in your professional and personal endeavors.

Respectfully, Robert E. Hughes II
President- USC P.A.D. Pre-Law Chapter

Hollowell Chapter

The Hollowell Chapter at John Marshall Law School -Atlanta held their "Hollowell Halloween" at Six Flags Fright Fest in Atlanta, Georgia.

Iredell Chapter

The Iredell Chapter has had a wonderful 2006 and is off to a great start for 2007.

The Fall of 2006 began with Rush which resulted in a record 46 new members, almost doubling the membership of the chapter. The record year continued as Iredell and Campbell's Women in Law raised over $1,000 for breast cancer awareness and the Komen Foundation through Karaoke for Komen. The event was held at Doughboy's in Lillington, North Carolina.

The trend continued in 2007 with a very successful Iredell Banquet. The Iredell Banquet is an annual event honoring a member of the legal community in North Carolina who has contributed to the state, community, and Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law. This year's recipient was the Honorable Ann Marie Calabria, NC Court of Appeals, a 1983 graduate of the School of Law. The ceremony and reception was held at the NC Bar Center in Cary, NC. Several NC Supreme Court Justices were in attendance as well as many members of the legal and political community. Thanks to Nicole Shoemaker, 2006 Iredell Banquet Chair, for all of her hard work. The event would not have happened without her.

Iredell's spring fundraiser was Rodeo for Ronald. The event was held at the C&G Sports Bar and benefited the Ronald McDonald House of Durham. Over $500 was raised and donated to the Ronald House, and this year's Rodeo was the first of what will be an annual event.

The second half of 2007 promises to be more successful than the first. The upcoming calendar includes koozie sales, rush, question and answer sessions for incoming 1Ls, Karaoke for Komen, and a new event in Iredell's Habitat Halloween.

For Habitat Halloween, P.A.D. members will volunteer to help construct a house with Harnett County's Habitat for Humanity, which will be followed that night with a Halloween party.

Thanks to the newly elected executives for their hard work and creativity: John S. Hindsman, Jr., Justice; Webster Harrison, Vice Justice; Douglas J. Short, Clerk; Carrie Randa, Treasurer; and especially Erin K. Pleasant, Marshall/ Social Chair. Sister Pleasant has worked very hard to put together all of our social events and fundraisers. Thanks also to the following Chairs: Caroline Weeks, Iredell Banquet; Marlo Ricks, Academic/Service; Elleveve Boyer, Promotions; and Allen Trask, III, Rush.

We are looking forward to a fun and productive year here at Campbell Law. All are welcome to join us at our upcoming events. Feel free to contact the Iredell Chapter for more information at jshindsman.jr@gmail.com.

Concord University Mock Trial Team Recognized By West Virginia Legislature

The pre-law members of Concord University's mock trial team traveled to Charleston, West Virginia, February 13, 2007, to accept a resolution passed by the Senate to recognize the team for its exceptional performance at the Phi Alpha Delta Pre-Law National Mock Trial Competition.

Senator Don Caruth proposed the resolution to recognize the team's first-place finish in the 2006 competition and to show appreciation for their distinction as "Best Defense Team" for the third consecutive year at the competition. The team consisting of Nathaniel Nagy, Matthew Stonestreet, Ashley Gillespie, and Bryan Henderson, and coached by

Marshall Campbell, was honored by the West Virginia Senate "for its dedication, intellectual excellence and hard work" and "outstanding academic achievement."

The Concord University Pre-Law Chapter, the University, and the community are very proud of the team's achievements and look forward to another exciting competition in the Fall.

The chapter is currently planning an LSAT prep workshop for members and interested pre-law students at Concord and surrounding universities, tours to law schools and observations of first-year law classes, and various fundraisers, community service projects, and social activities.

which was a question raised in Griswold. The Court's conclusion was that the Constitution did not protect the act.

More recently, in 2003, another controversial case, very similar to Bowers, was granted certiorari, the case of Lawrence v. Texas. This time however, the Court's decision was inconsistent with the precedent it had set in Bowers. The main issue in Lawrence was similar to that in Bowers. Do two individuals of the same sex have a Fourteenth Amendment right to be autonomous in their decision to engage in certain sexual practices in the privacy of their home? The Supreme Court ruled that they should be free from government intrusion in the privacy of their home, and thereby overturned Bowers.

As times change, the country's notion of what is "rooted in the Nation's history and tradition" change with it. This variable is at the same time balanced by the composition of the Supreme Court. Both of these factors are ultimately pivotal in defining how far the individual's right to personal autonomy will go.

Pre-Law Conference

The P.A.D. Pre-Law Conference is an educational and leadership opportunity for Pre-Law Members. Members will meet their counterparts from colleges and universities throughout the United States and Puerto Rico.

Thursday Kick-off Event

Mingle with fellow P.A.D. brothers and sisters!

Refreshments will be served. Each person attending should bring stickers and/or buttons that represent where they are from. Members will then trade stickers and get to meet fellow P.A.D.s. A very cool ice-breaker! Examples: South Florida = sunshine or flamingos, Wisconsin = cows, Georgia = Peach, you get the idea... the one with the most, wins a prize.

2007 PRE-LAW CONFERENCE PRESENTERS

RICK BARNES

“Lead Your Way To The Top!” This program takes a fun, interactive approach to leadership. “Lead Your Way To The Top” goes beyond the basics, addressing organizational change theory, specifically addressing the role of the leader in the process. Participants have the opportunity to challenge themselves throughout the presentation as principles of leadership are shared.

Note from Rick: I spent years of study and experience developing this program. I go beyond the basics. We're not talking about how to run better meetings or goal setting. This program works very well with leadership programs, workshops, conferences, etc. I approach leadership from a new perspective that touches on theory, yet without all the jargon that confuses the real issues.

TJ SULLIVAN

T.J. Sullivan has spoken to more than a million students since 1990.

He has been recognized with top national awards from the Association of Fraternity Advisors and the North-American Interfraternity Conference for his work with students on issues ranging from HIV/AIDS awareness to alcohol abuse. T.J. is one of the best known names in college programming, having keynoted every Greek regional conference at least three times.

Student audiences appreciate T.J. for his speaking style which blends humor, straight-talk, and practical strategies. With T.J., you get a speaker with a distinct speaking style that connects with students. Students leave with applicable ideas to improve their lives and their organizations.

STEVEN W. DULAN

Steven W. Dulan, past Justice of the Christianity Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, announces the release of LSAT Exam Prep, published by Pearson Education, (www.PearsonEd.com) the global leader in educational publishing. This latest book joins GRE Exam Prep, GMAT Exam Prep and SAT/PSAT Exam Prep to complete the latest series offered by Advantage Education® (www.AdvantageEd.com) the East Lansing based education company founded by Dulan. Advantage Education, now in its 10th year, is a full-service education and training company offering service to students in select locations and worldwide via the Internet with its Personal Distance Learning® system.

Steve will be speaking on Friday, November 1st.

SONEL SHROPSHIRE

Over a ten year professional career as Assistant Dean of Admissions for UCLA School of Law, Loyola Law School, Texas Wesleyan School of Law, and Stetson College of Law, I have reviewed nearly 45,000 applications. I know how important it is for applicants to receive accurate and experienced information. As one of the only persons who has served as Assistant Dean in all four-tiers of law school admissions, I also know the varying qualifications for consideration from a wide range of law school options.

As President of The Academic Network, Inc., a law school admissions counseling service, I will personally guide you through a selective, sometimes intimidating, law school admissions process.

Sonel will be presenting on Saturday, November 2nd.

LAW SCHOOL EXPO

There will be many law schools present to answer all your questions about your big decision. Representatives will be available for questions and answers on law school admissions.

MOCK TRIAL COMPETITION

The tournament consists of three rounds of competition for all teams. During the first two rounds, teams are given an opportunity to prosecute and defend. The third will have a coin toss to determine who will prosecute and who will defend. Scores from rounds 1, 2 & 3 will be tallied. The top 4 teams will advance to the championship round.

The following will be awarded:

- Outstanding Overall Team
- Outstanding Defense
- Outstanding Prosecution
- Outstanding Attorney
- Outstanding Witness

Only conference registrants are eligible to compete. Teams consist of four members with a required additional cost of $25 per person plus conference registration fee to compete. The case will be available September 1, 2007.

Teams will be penalized for not attending all educational sessions and teams dropping out will not be allowed any refunds.

TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS

Plan to arrive in Dallas the evening of Wednesday, October 30th or the morning of Thursday, October 31st. Keep in mind that those competing in Mock Trial will need to arrive the evening of October 30th.

REGISTRATION FEES

The fee of $195 includes snacks on Thursday night; breakfast and lunch on Friday and Saturday; Saturday evening Awards Banquet; and all conference workshop materials. Faculty Advisors are welcome and their reduced fee is $115.

P.A.D. Day at the Supreme Court 2007

To see pictures of P.A.D. Day 2007, please see the back cover. Brothers and Sisters participating were: Edwin Anderson, George Anibowei, Sonya Bacon, Royal Berg, Christopher Burke, Yvette D'Agrella, David Doctor, Crystal Elder, Patrick Espana, Effie Forde, Christian Gabroy, Tommy Hill, Robert Holland, Shannon Holland, Mark Keyl, Gerald Koelling, Robert Koosa, Suzanne Lewis, Charles McCarthy, Rodolfo Ocasio, James O'Hagan, Angelina Robertson, Paul Ryan, Stephen Savva, Bob Scher, Ronald Sharer, Vincent Sicari, Hon. Myron Steele, and Jerry Weigle.

P.A.D. Day at the Supreme Court has been held the first Monday in June for the past 41 years. A HUGE "Thank You" to Brother Robert Redding for making this day possible. To participate in P.A.D. Day at the Supreme Court in 2008, please email info@pad.org.

Alumna Celeste Reilly said she came to the dinner to show support for the fraternity which has grown dramatically since she was an active member. "P.A.D. is a crash course in what law school is all about," Reilly said. "It truly helped me in terms of seeing everything out there."

Some rushees said they want to get involved because of the opportunities the fraternity offers. "I'm expecting to network and meet people with similar interests," said Jackie Skara, a sophomore majoring in Viola Performance and French.

Many actives have said that the fraternity has already helped open doors to legal careers and enabled them to understand the intricacies of the legal profession. "P.A.D. has provided me with the most guidance in my legal pursuits," said Yiannis Rigas, a junior majoring in political science and international relations. "Without it I would just be lost. This fraternity puts you on the right track."

Dulan is a familiar face at P.A.D.'s annual Pre-Law Conference, where he serves as a Mock Trial Judge and provides assistance to members preparing for the LSAT. He also travels to visit PreLaw Chapters to offer LSAT preparation and Law School Survival Skills workshops. Advantage Education offers a discount on its services to all Phi Alpha Delta members in good standing. For more information, contact Steve at Advantage Education toll free: 1-888-737-6010, or visit the website at www.AdvantageEd.com.

P.A.D. Day at the Supreme Court 2007 - A SUCCESS!

Congratulations to the 29 P.A.D. Members who were admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court on June 4, 2007. These brothers and sisters enjoyed a perfect day including visits from Chief Justice Roberts, P.A.D. Sister, Ruth Bader Ginsburg, and P.A.D. Brothers Samuel Alito and Stephen Breyer.

We were also honored to have P.A.D. Brother, Hon. Myron Steele, Chief Justice of the Delaware Supreme Court, to also be admitted on this day.

Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg

Chief Justice Roberts

To be a part of P.A.D. Day at the Supreme Court 2008, please email info@pad.org and we will send you an application and information. Turn to page 31 for a list of P.A.D.'s who took part in P.A.D. Day. A special "Thank You" to Robert Redding, for making this day happen.

Justice Stephen Breyer

Justice Samuel Alito
