Chief Tribunes of Phi Alpha Delta

The Board of Tribunes was established in 1908 consisting of three members, the leader being referred to as Chief. The name of this body was changed to the Supreme Tribunal in 1964 and to the International Tribunal in 1976. Several Chief Tribunes served multiple terms of office. Three Chiefs, Charles Digangi, Hector Mendez-Loucil, and Robert L. Schimmel, have served five terms. Three Chiefs have had their terms extended by external circumstances. The extended terms were those of John Doyle Carmody by World War I, John J. Nangle by the Great Depression, and Dwight H. Green by World War II.

A Message from the International Justice

John Karasek
2024-2026

Brothers, Sisters, and Siblings,

I am honored to share Part II of our History Committee's Living History of Phi Alpha Delta. This publication represents the product of hundreds of hours of work by the members of this committee.

For many years, Phi Alpha Delta has understood the importance of our history. One needs only to consider our initiation ritual and its description of the founding of Phi Alpha Delta to recognize the central role of our history in the character of Phi Alpha Delta. And when we look at the role of so many of our members in shaping the history of our nation, we appreciate that the history of Phi Alpha Delta is, in many ways, the history of the United States for the past century and a quarter.

The committee has taken on the challenge of documenting our history in a way that has never been done before. They have systematically approached our archives and chronicled all the significant events in the history of Phi Alpha Delta. They have documented the laudable so that we may be inspired by it, and the questionable so that we may learn and grow from it.

This portion of our history explores how the fraternity dealt with one of its greatest early challenges, surviving the devastating impact of World War I and re-emerging from the crisis stronger than ever thanks to the dedication and commitment of its amazing members. It also hints at the approaching crises the fraternity will face in coping with the Great Depression and World War II. In exploring this theme, it causes one to contemplate the many challenges faced by our fraternity and how our organization continues to adapt and face each new challenge.

The fraternity recently survived and re-emerged from another crisis of worldwide proportions, that of the COVID-19 Global Pandemic. Though the pandemic may have changed society and how it operates in ways we will not fully understand for many years, with the dedication and commitment of its current members, Phi Alpha Delta can continue to thrive and play an important part in the legal profession and society in general in the future.

Our deepest appreciation to the members of our History Committee 2024-2026:

About the Organization and Content of this History

For the most part, I have preserved the chronological approach taken by my predecessors and have tried to ensure that the information they worked so hard to preserve and share was retained though corrected or supplemented where appropriate. With the advent of online history resources which were much less available to my predecessors, I have sought to provide more accurate information and more detailed information than those who've gone before. In particular, concerning the historical context of our fraternity's birth, our predecessor organizations the Law Student League and Lambda Epsilon Law Fraternity, the legal controversy which helped give rise to our fraternity, and Phi Delta Delta Women's Law Fraternity with which we merged in 1972. The history of Phi Delta Delta is laid out alongside that of Phi Alpha Delta rather than appended to it, as through the merger it has also become part of our history. This differs from the approach previously taken.

Throughout the primarily chronological text, readers will find some thematic features which may include information not bound to the specific time in which they appear. These features will usually relate to either the traditions or practices of the fraternity over time or to what the text refers to as our "Path to Inclusion".

While admittedly our fraternity was once a society founded in exclusivity, and our history is replete with practices and events which our now much more inclusive membership and a public with more modern sensibilities may find distasteful, this work does not attempt to hide that history. We acknowledge and disclose it, and we celebrate our progress towards becoming a more diverse and inclusive organization. The path from exclusivity to inclusivity is honestly explored and is intended to be a pervasive theme of this work. Hopefully, it will inspire our present membership to continue to strive toward a more diverse and inclusive organization in which all our members, no matter their gender, faith, background, or ability can feel a sense of belonging.

It is our intent that this history be published online and downloadable in whole or in part in PDF format from the fraternity's website where it will be vigilantly maintained and updated as necessary.

Part one of this history includes the gallery of Phi Alpha Delta justices, the gallery of Phi Delta Delta presidents, introductory materials, and the narrative history covering the legal controversy from which Phi Alpha Delta traces its origin, feature items related to diversity in the profession and the fraternity, and the establishment of the Illinois Law Student League, Lambda Epsilon Law Fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, and Phi Delta Delta Women's Law Fraternity. This second part of the history includes the gallery of Chief Tribunes, introductory materials, and picks up the narrative where Part 1 left off and details how the fraternity survived World War II and rebuilt in its aftermath. It also includes feature items related to the traditions of the fraternity and diversity within the profession and fraternity.

P.A.D. Traditions Feature: The Initiation Ritual

“The Ritual expresses the fundamental ideals and principles of Phi Alpha Delta. In some matters, practices differ as conditions differ, and the By-Laws of any one chapter may differ from the rest. However, the ideals upon which the Fraternity is founded are uniform. Therefore, the Ritual is modified only to better reflect those principles and ideals in a modern light. As years go on, the words and phrases become known to member after member. Long use hallows them. Through them, the hopes, aspirations, and high ideals of Phi Alpha Delta and its members are expressed and passed on to new members.”

- The Book of the Ritual of Phi Alpha Delta

On Founders' Day, November 8, 1902, one of Phi Alpha Delta's first official acts, along with adoption of its name and governing documents, was the adoption of a ritual for the initiation of its new members. Lambda Epsilon before it had also used a ritual for the initiation of new members, and from its beginnings in 1911 Phi Delta Delta would likewise have a ritual for the initiation of new members. While these rituals, along with recruitment practices, would evolve over time, the purpose of the initiations was to foster a shared bond between the newly initiated and existing members. In the tradition of "secret societies", the initiation rituals were historically open only to members of the fraternities and often included secret passwords and other mysteries meant only for members. The current version of Phi Alpha Delta's initiation ritual has been open to the public and has remained largely unchanged since adoption at the Forty-First Biennial Convention in 1976. The ritual provides a short summary of fraternity history, gives an introduction to the fraternity's core values and purpose, and includes an oath of membership which acknowledges the new members commitment to these values. It also stresses the relationship between senior and new members. It is a solemn ritual meant to impress and to be remembered, and chapter officers are charged with its proper exemplification.

The Initiation Ritual of Lambda Epsilon

The organizing members of Lambda Epsilon at Kent Chapter (Kent College of Law) and Blackstone Chapter (Chicago College of Law) likely never went through a formal initiation process but adopted an initiation ritual early on. We have at least two extant personal accounts of the initiation ritual of Lambda Epsilon which was written by Arthur C. Fort of Blackstone Chapter. These accounts are from DeGoy B. Ellis (Kent/Story) and August C. Babize (Story).

DeGoy B. Ellis is believed to be one of the first members to go through the initiation ritual and is sometimes referred to as Phi Alpha Delta's "First Initiate", though he was actually initiated by Lambda Epsilon. In an article published in the May, 1937, issue of The Reporter, Brother DeGoy B. Ellis offered his recollections as follows:

*DeGoy Bowman Ellis
(Kent/Story), "First Initiate"*

"My recollection regarding the first initiation in Lambda Epsilon, from which Phi Alpha Delta was originated, is as follows: Arthur C. Fort, who was a student at either Kent College of Law or Illinois College of Law, worked out the entire ritual and got a few of us boys together in a room at the old Sherman Hotel. It was decided by this small group of five or six that I should be initiated, and I was accordingly initiated. I cannot tell whether at this time I was a student at Illinois or Kent, but I think this occurred in 1898. My recollection is that John A. Brown (who now has offices on LaSalle Street) was one of this group, but I am not sure, and I think this was the first regularly organized Chapter of Lambda Epsilon, that I had heard of, though I believe that J. M. Kirkwood, Morris W. Loel, D. M. Howe, W. A. White, Robert Shaw, Arthur C. Fort, and Ben C. Nelson, and possibly some others, had held a preliminary meeting, but I am sure that I was told at the time that I was the first person to be initiated."

Ellis attended both Kent College of Law and Illinois College of Law, possibly doing his first two years at Kent and the newly mandated third year at Illinois. Although he did not remember which school he was initiated at and fraternity records now show him as a member of Story Chapter (then at Illinois College of Law which later merged into DePaul University) The differences in his account of his initiation and the extant account of the first initiation at Story Chapter suggest that he was initiated by Kent Chapter and later transferred to Story Chapter during his third year of law school.

In a letter dated February 10, 1925, August C. Babize, one of the organizers of both the Law Student League and Story Chapter, reported that the first Story Chapter initiation took place on a Friday evening in the Fall at the law office where John A. Brown was then employed. Martin Foss served as Chief Justice and wore graduation robes and cap belonging to Babize for the ceremony. Babize stated:

“The initiation was somewhat novel and doubtless different than present initiations. In a sonorous voice, the Chief Marshal would give the oath to the incoming member and in order to make the initiation oath that much more impressive, would make use of a large Webster’s Unabridged Dictionary which he would open in various places and shut with considerable vehemence and have the candidate repeat the oath. That done, the candidate was expected to lie prone on his back on the floor, and the fraternal members would circle around him and stamp on the floor with all the force possible to test the “nerve” of the man being initiated. This program would be followed by the discharges of popguns, rattling of sabers, and ringing of bells – I remember we had an old cow bell which was made to do excellent service – and other more or less noisemaking instruments on hand.”

These early initiations and accompanying activities were quite different from the solemn ritual we know today and often included elements of hazing which would now be forbidden. Sometimes the accompanying activities would even be reported in local newspapers. This would also be the case with early Phi Alpha Delta initiations.

Early Initiations of Phi Alpha Delta

While the activities surrounding the earliest initiations of Phi Alpha Delta shared much in common with those of Lambda Epsilon, the original initiation ritual adopted on November 8, 1902, explicitly identified “the motto of our fellowship: ‘Justice and Brotherly Love’.” From the very beginning through the present day, the Phi Alpha Delta ritual itself has focused on the core values of the fraternity and the affinity and bond among its members often referred to in the early versions of the ritual as being “Fond of One’s Brother”. In these early rituals, the officers instructed the candidates for membership on precepts of Justice and Brotherly Love which were identified as the “basic principles upon which our fraternity is founded”.

Notwithstanding the lofty principles espoused in the ritual, attending activities sometimes got out of hand and were publicly embarrassing as can be seen in contemporary newspaper coverage included here.

"FRAT" INITIATES IN PARADE; STREET FIGHTS AVERTED.

Blindfolded Boys Pass Through Loop District and Jostled Spectators Become Belligerent, but All Ends Well.

Attired in fantastic garb and many of them blindfolded, thirty students of law colleges paraded the streets of the downtown district and the north side last night. It was the annual initiation of the Phi Alpha Delta fraternity.

One candidate harnessed as a horse was compelled to jostle spectators and many fights were narrowly averted between the victims of the asinine performances and students. In several cases the police sought to interfere, but were restrained by a special permit, issued by Chief Shippy.

The candidates represented five schools, the Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, Kent College of Law, Chicago Law school, and the Illinois College of Law.

FINDING FACTS OF "INITIATION."

Dean Wigmore Learns It Was a Phi Alpha Delta Affair Where Students Were Roughly Handled.

Dean John H. Wigmore of the Northwestern University law school yesterday began an investigation of the fraternity ceremonies during which one of the initiates was handled roughly Thursday evening. It was found that Phi Alpha Delta, and not Phi Delta Phi, as was supposed, was the alleged offending society.

The dean, on discovering this, examined several representatives of that fraternity, but said that he would withhold action until further inquiry.

Alumni of Phi Alpha Delta declared that they knew nothing of the actions of the undergraduates when they were putting the freshmen through their paces. They defended the Northwestern chapter with the statement that several other local branches of the society, including those at the University of Chicago, the Chicago College of Law, and the Kent Law school, formed the initiating body.

A LAW FRATERNITY INITIATION.

What Happened Is a Secret, but They Used Midland Sheets and Towels.

"Here's them things you wanted, boss," said a negro bell "hop" at the Midland hotel last night, handing a man in the lobby a bundle. In it were sheets and towels.

"What's going on?" someone inquired.

"An initiation," was the answer.

They were used by a crowd of graduates and students of the Kansas City School of Law in initiating seventeen candidates into the Phi Alpha Delta fraternity at the Midland hotel. The local chapter of the fraternity was organized last July with twenty-three members. Loring T. Crutcher is justice, the official title of the presiding officer.

Details of the actual initiation rituals themselves were never reported publicly.

WHEN CHICKENS COME HOME TO ROOST, THEY DON'T SPURN JUDGES

Fleming's Initiation of K. C. Law School Students Lands Three in His Court as Dangerous Bolsheviks, but He Frees Them.

"Lathrop Backstrom, A. H. Gillis, E. Parker, all these outside," bellowed a court clerk in the South municipal court, Friday morning. Prisoners who have been arrested, but freed on bond, are termed in police parlance, as being "outside." Unfortunates who have waited in jail until their case has been called in court are known as "inside." These three men, not being familiar with police court procedure, took the word "outside" literally, arose from their chairs and hurried to the door.

"Where are you going?" shouted Judge Edward J. Fleming. "Come up here to the bench."

"What are the charges?" Judge Fleming then asked Leo Mullin, the arresting officer.

"Yenner, it is this way. Last night I found these three men at Thirteenth and Walnut with a crowd about them blocking the traffic. They acted like three of the worst Bolsheviks you ever saw, yonner. Backstrom wore red stockings. He was on a box making a speech and a mighty crowd was around him. Gillis wore an old suit of George Washington's clothes. He held a sign that said he was the last member of Washington's army and that George was the corporal of his squad. Gillis, yonner, is postmaster of Kansas City, Kas., and yonner, that's no nice way for a postmaster to act."

"I say it isn't," acknowledged Judge Fleming.

"Parker had a cup, yonner, and he was taking up a collection from the crowd. The sign he wore, said he was deaf, dumb and blind. That's all, yonner, I called the wagon and took 'em to jail."

"This is indeed a serious charge, officer," Judge Fleming said after deep study. "I'll fine each of them $50."

In a trembling voice the trio told the judge that they were all students at the Kansas City Law school, and that they were being initiated into the Phi Alpha Delta, a national law fraternity.

"Well, that being the case, if you will tell me the name of the man who instigated this crime, I'll remit your fines," said Judge Fleming. "Otherwise, down to the lockup you go."

The men said they didn't know who might be blamed for their play of the evening before, so the judge, true to his word, ordered the three to the cellroom.

The frightened trio had been taken back to the booking officer below, when word came from the courtroom to free them. They left—in a hurry.

Later Judge Fleming was overheard to say, in a whispered conversation with Officer Mullin, "No wonder they couldn't tell the man who 'framed' all of this. I'm the man."

The Initiation Ritual of Phi Delta Delta and its First Initiates

Much like Phi Alpha Delta's ritual, the initiation ritual of Phi Delta Delta stressed the core values of the women's law fraternity. Represented by the five "Sacred Stars" on its coat of arms, the core values were love, loyalty, truth, justice, and wisdom. As part of the initiation ritual, new members took an oath of membership subscribing to the precepts of the fraternity.

Although the founding members of Phi Delta Delta did not go through the initiation ritual themselves, they created the ritual and implemented it for the first group of new members. This first initiation took place on December 28, 1912, and those initiated were Ruth Black Lyons, Litta Bell Hibben Campbell, May Darlington Lahey, M. Eleanor Mack, Ida Viola Wells Shapely, and Orfa Jean Shontz. After law school Litta Bell practiced law in Los Angeles and taught torts and real property law, but after retirement she became an author. Letta Bell attended the joint convention in 1972 when Phi Alpha Delta and Phi Delta Delta merged.

Girls Captured and Blindfolded by Piratesses and Imprisoned in Fra- ternity House.

Captured at Broadway and Fourth street Saturday evening, blindfolded and driven through the streets in an automobile for an hour at a terrifying pace, five young women of the U.S.C. College of Law finally were unloaded at the home of Vere Radir-Norton, No. 335 West Twenty-seventh street, one of their captors, and initiated into the mysteries of the Phi Delta Delta Legal Sorority.

Following the initiation and the unfolding of the secrets of the new organization a banquet was held at midnight, and what occurred afterwards is one of the secrets of the order.

Those who were initiated were: Litta Belle Hibben, May Lahey, Orfa Jean Shontz and Eleanor Mack. Those who participated in the banquet were: Misses Beulah Wright, Gert-rude Comstock, Sarah Patten, An-nette Hunley, Vere Radir-Norton, Eleanor Mack, Gladys Moore, Georgia Bullock, May Lahey, Ruth Black, Orfa Jean Shontz and Litta Belle Hibben.

Newspaper account of the first Phi Delta Delta Initiation appearing in the Los Angeles Times, December 31, 1912.

She frequently shared stories of that first initiation on December 28, 1912, with her Phi Delta Delta sisters. She reported that the initiates were effectively kidnapped, blindfolded, and driven about randomly for over an hour before being taken to the home of founder and Chapter Priestess Vere Radir Norton. There, the initiation ritual, which included an introduction to "secrets and mysteries" of the new sorority, was held and the oath of membership administered to the first initiates: Ruth Black Lyons, Lita Bell Hibben Campbell, Mary Darlington Lahey, M. Eleanor Mack, and Ida Viola Wells Shapely. The initiation was followed by a midnight banquet.

Expansion of Phi Alpha Delta 1912-1918

"The wisdom of dissolving Lambda Epsilon can no longer be questioned, for Phi Alpha Delta is the institution its founders intended it to be. and it is now proved that they were not destroyers, but builders. The work of the organizers they selected has brought its reward in the knowledge that it is enduring and that their principles are still taught and striven for by the fraternity that has no equal. Phi Alpha Delta. ... Phi Alpha Delta will not only remain the great law fraternity, but in a short time be the grandest and best of all Greek letter fraternities, first in every respect, a model for all others, the realization of the hopes of the little band of rebels who met at South Haven that hot July Sunday morning in 1902."

- Paul C. Meier (Story), The Quarterly, March 1912

The Chartering of Staples Chapter and the Kansas City and Los Angeles Alumni Chapters

Under the leadership of Supreme Justice Carmody (Taft) and the other officers elected at the Twelfth Convention, the fraternity continued its expansion with the establishment of new law school and alumni chapters. The first of these was the Waller R. Staples Chapter at Washington and Lee University on January 13, 1912. The chapter was installed by Supreme Justice John D. Carmody (Taft) and Supreme Recorder Edward J. Hess (Webster) who were assisted by members from Taft and Jefferson Chapters. A number of honorary members were chosen, and the following were initiated at the installation: Judge Waller R. Staples (nephew of the chapter's namesake), Virginia Attorney General William A. Anderson, and Judge Samuel Houston Letcher.

This installation was soon followed by the chartering of two new alumni chapters, one in Kansas City and one in Los Angeles.

At the meeting of the Supreme Executive Board held in Chicago on March 31, 1912, the Kansas City Alumni Chapter charter was approved effective April 1, 1912. At this time, no official installation ceremony for alumni chapters had been adopted, but it was reported in the Kansas City Star that the chapter was "organized" on May 25, 1912 – presumably the first official meeting after chartering. This meeting took place at Benton Chapter's House, and many of the alumni chapter's members had been initiated by Benton Chapter while in law school.

New Alumni Association of Law Students Has Seventy-five Members.

The Kansas City Alumni Association of the Phi Alpha Delta, the national Greek letter society of law students, was formed last night at the club rooms of Benton chapter in the Reliance building. The new association numbers seventy-five members and includes the Phi Alpha Deltas Society now in Kansas City, no matter where from and irrespective of whether they are members of the local society chapter.

Regular meetings of the alumni association will be held and social functions given from time to time. Officers elected last night were: President, Perry W. Seaton; secretary-treasurer, R. E. McGinnes. William E. Morton was selected to attend the national convention of the Phi Alpha Delta in Chicago, June 28-29.

Kansas City Journal - Sun, May 26, 1912.

The Los Angeles Alumni Chapter was issued its charter effective June 20, 1912. Because the official chartering was so close to the date set for commencement of the Thirteenth Convention, it's likely that the chapter did not meet prior to convention. At least, no account of such a meeting has been found, and records do not reflect the representation of the new chapter at convention.

The Los Angeles Alumni Chapter would later be renamed the Sandy Rae Los Angeles Alumni Chapter to honor Phi Alpha Delta Distinguished Service Chapter member and long-term Los Angeles Alumni Chapter stalwart Matthew Sanderson Rae (Rutledge) after his passing in 2010. Brother Rae served as the fraternity's Supreme Justice from August 12, 1972 – August 9, 1974.

Thirteenth Annual Convention Held in Chicago

The Thirteenth Annual Convention was held at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago on June 28-29, 1912. The convention was called to order by Supreme Justice Carmody (Taft) and opened with a welcoming address from City of Chicago Mayor Carter Henry Harrison IV. Social events included a moonlight excursion on Lake Michigan and the traditional end of convention banquet. On Sunday, the day after the convention, delegates were guests of the Columbia Yacht Club.

In addition to the election of national officers, among the big matters debated by the convention was the incorporation of Phi Alpha Delta as a national organization as well as the incorporation of its individual chapters.

The Committee on Incorporation recommended that each chapter individually incorporate as "_____ Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity". It is not clear how many chapters followed this recommendation. Much debate also took place concerning revisions to the fraternity ritual and a committee was appointed to recommend changes at the next annual convention.

LAW FRATERNITY TO MEET HERE

Thirteenth Convention of Phi Delta Is Represented by 38 Chapters.

The thirteenth convention of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity will be held at the Hotel Sherman on next Friday and Saturday, and university law departments from all parts of the country will be represented by delegates. Twenty-eight active and five alumni chapters will be represented. Mayor Harrison is expected to welcome the delegates at the opening of the convention Friday morning. The fraternity has for members a number of well-known Chicago lawyers and judges.

An elaborate entertainment program has been arranged for the delegates and local members who will attend the sessions of the convention. The retiring supreme justice of the fraternity is John Doyle Carmody of Taft chapter, Washington, D. C., who is a member of the bar in that city.

More New Alumni Chapters

Only two years old, the fraternity's alumni chapter program continued to thrive and expand with the chartering of three new alumni chapters after the Thirteenth Convention.

The first of these new alumni chapters was the Cincinnati Alumni Chapter chartered on September 12, 1912, with ten charter members drawn from the alumni of Chase Chapter and one from Calhoun Chapter. One of the charter members, George C. Peacock (Chase) was then serving as a member of the national Board of Tribunes.

On April 19, 1913, charters were granted for the Grand Forks Alumni Chapter (Grand Forks, North Dakota) and the Cleveland Alumni Chapter. The original ten members of the Grand Forks alumni group were all alumni of Corliss Chapter at the University of North Dakota and celebrated their new status along with their Corliss brothers at the Annual Corliss Chapter Banquet on April 25, 1913. Among the prominent members of the North Dakota bar in attendance were the Chief Justice of the North Dakota Supreme Court Burleigh F. Spalding and U.S. District Court Judge Charles Fremont Amidon both of whom were honorary members of Corliss Chapter.

The Cleveland Alumni Chapter began with twelve charter members. Eleven of the charter members were Hay Chapter Alumni and one member was an alumnus of Campbell Chapter. One of the primary organizers of the new Cleveland Alumni Chapter was Conger G. Roads (Hay) who was then serving as the fraternity's Supreme Treasurer. Brother Roads would go on to serve three terms as Supreme Recorder before leaving the post to serve in the U.S. Army during World War I. His daughter, Barbara "Dusty" Roads, would one day achieve fame as an activist fighting gender discrimination in the airline industry and successfully campaigning to end the practice of firing women flight attendants once they reached the age of thirty-two.

Charles J. Hughes, Jr. Chapter Chartered

The fraternity also chartered a new law chapter during this time, Hughes Chapter at Denver University. The law or subordinate chapter (i.e. subordinate to the national chapter) as they were commonly referred to then was installed by First Supreme Vice Justice James P. Aylward (Benton) and Editor in Chief Oscar W. Hoberg (Magruder) on May 24, 1913.

Receives Charter.
The charter recently asked by the alumni of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity and which was granted at the recent convention in Chicago was received yesterday. No installation ceremonies will be held but the fraternity will use the club rooms of the Corliss chapter in the Widlund building. The Phi Alpha Delta fraternity was the first legal fraternity to be established at the university and the alumni is the first alumni association to be established there also. The annual banquet of the Phi Alpha Delta fraternity will be held Friday evening at the Frederick hotel. Judge Charles Amidon and Chief Justice Burleigh F. Spalding are honorary members of the Corliss chapter and they will be honor guests at the banquet.

respect to the application of the Naturalization Act of 1790 and other statutes limiting the rights of non-Caucasians. This “whiteness” of Middle Eastern immigrants was litigated in several courts, with the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit notably determining that “the inhabitants of a portion of Asia, including Syria, [are] to be classed as white persons.” Dow v. United States, 226 F. 145 (4th Cir., 1915). Among the arguments presented to win over public opinion to this classification was the assertion that since Jesus was from the Middle East, people from the Middle East must be white. Notably, although there was some talk of changing this practice during the Biden Administration, the federal government does not recognize Middle Eastern or North African as a separate designation, the U.S. Census bureau categorizes these people as “white”, and the Office of Management and Budget defined “white” as “a person having origins in any of the original peoples of Europe, North Africa, or the Middle East”. While this may seem odd to some, it resulted in a long history of Phi Alpha Delta being enriched by the inclusion of MENA members since 1913.

Path to Inclusion Feature: Phi Alpha Delta's First MENA American Member

Among the listed Hughes Chapter charter members published in The Quarterly (left) appeared the name “H.A. Saidy”. Brother Saidy’s full name was Habeeb A. Saidy. Brother Saidy was born in Syria in 1889 and had immigrated to the United States. He is believed to be the first Middle Eastern/North African (MENA) American member initiated into Phi Alpha Delta.

Although the fraternity restricted membership to white men at this time, those of Middle Eastern origin were likely considered white. Historically, immigrants from the Middle East were considered “white”, though this was a matter of some controversy particularly with

Fourteenth Annual Convention Held in Chicago

The Fourteenth Annual Convention, like the Thirteenth, was held at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago June 27-28, 1913. Supreme Justice Edward J. Hess (Webster) called the convention to order and reported that the fraternity was in the "very best condition that could be desired."

The big question facing this fraternity was the process for admitting new chapters. Up until then, all chapters voted on admitting new chapters to the fraternity and any one chapter could veto a new chapter. This provision was softened by the Fourteenth Convention such that at least three existing chapters would have to dissent to prevent the board from approving a new charter petition.

Phi Alpha Delta in Session.

"The High School Frat—What shall be done with it?" will be the principal problem of discussion at the fourteenth annual national convention of Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, which began a two days' session at the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

Twenty-nine leading colleges and universities of the country are represented at the gathering. Assistant Corporation Counsel Crawford S. Ross welcomed the delegates in behalf of Mayor Harrison, and Edward J. Hess, aldermanic candidate last fall, past president of the fraternity, presided at the opening session.

The business sessions will close today and the convention will be concluded with a banquet at the Hotel Sherman tonight.

Convention item in The Chicago Tribune, June 28, 1913

Another issue facing the delegates was a movement to disqualify members of high school fraternities from joining Phi Alpha Delta. Though rare today, high school fraternities were becoming common in the early 1900's and many considered them inappropriate and even dangerous to the young. The convention declined to enact the prohibition but did adopt a resolution condemning high school fraternities.

After much discussion of other items, including the ritual, The Quarterly (quality, cost, and distribution), and the application for a charter from the University of Oklahoma and other schools then considered "minor" colleges, the convention turned to the election of leadership for the following year. The convention assembled elected Supreme Justice John P. Aylward (Benton), Supreme First Vice Justice Edgar A. Jonas (Webster), Supreme Second Vice Justice John J. Wilson (Ross), Supreme Recorder Conger G. Roads (Hay), Supreme Financial Secretary Charles B. Admas (Hamlin), Supreme Treasurer George C. Peacock (Chase), Supreme Historian Paul C. Meier (Story), Supreme Marshal Frankl A. Saporito (Rapallo), and Editor-in-Chief Oscar W. Hoberg (Magruder) to make up the Supreme Executive Board. They then elected Chief Tribune Edward J. Hess (Webster), James McKeag (Marshall), and John Doyle Carmody (Taft) to compose the fraternity Board of Tribunes.

A final banquet was held in the Louis XVI Room of the Hotel Sherman at which members of the Chicago judiciary responded to toasts.

Four New Chapters Chartered – Three Law Chapters and One Alumni Chapter

The months before the Fifteenth Annual Convention saw a flurry of activity in the chartering of new chapters with four chapters being chartered in May 1914.

Phi Alpha Delta at present numbers thirty chapters, all of which are active, and distributed among some of the foremost law colleges in the United States. It is a strictly professional fraternity, confining its membership to law students and those engaged in the profession of law. Among its active and honorary members are not only prominent lawyers, but men noted in national affairs.

From the Lexington Ledger, May 17, 1914

On May 14, 1914, Supreme Recorder Conger G. Roads and Supreme Treasurer George C. Peacock, assisted by J.W. Welch of Calhoun Chapter and Chase Chapter members V.W. Astler, "Nick" Carter, Bellevue City Attorney George J. Herold, and August J. Rendigs, Jr. installed the Henry Clay Chapter at the State University of Kentucky now known as the University of Kentucky. The ceremony was held in the private assembly room of the Phoenix Hotel at three pm and was followed by a banquet in the private dining room.

Ten days later, on May 24, 1914, the Ralph O. Dunbar Chapter was installed at the University of Washington in Seattle and eleven new members were initiated into the bond of fraternalism. The chapter was installed by a team of alumni members from Seattle and Portland including Paul Farrens (Campbell), Fred B. Kemp (Campbell), Fletcher Lewis (Campbell), R.J. Nenables (Gunter), and James G. Raley (Marshall). Following the ceremony, a banquet was held at Hotel Frye.

The following day, on May 25, 1914, the San Francisco Alumni Chapter was chartered. The organization of the local alumni San Francisco was considered vitally important to the fraternity which had already begun planning for its 1915 convention to be held in San Francisco in conjunction with the Panama Pacific Exposition. This would be the first convention held outside of the Midwest and the first held in conjunction with a major non-fraternity event. The "San Francisco Committee" had been formed in 1912 to begin plans for organizing the chapter and the convention.

Oscar W. Hoberg Initiates Idaho
"U" Law School Men.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, MOSCOW, May 27.—The University of Idaho law school was honored last night by the installation of an Idaho chapter of the Phi Alpha Delta, one of the largest fraternities in the United States. The work was put on by Oscar W. Hoberg of Peru, Ill., editor of the Phi Alpha Delta quarterly.

The members of the new chapter are: R. G. Adams, Harry McAdams, A. O. Sutton, D. M. Buffington, Charles Horning, John McEvers, W. W. Casey, Isaac McDougall, John L. Phillips, Arthur Jardine and Paul P. Peterson.

The Spokesman-Review, May 28, 1914

The next day, May 26, 1914, the James Kent Chapter was installed at the University of Idaho by Oscar W. Hoberg (Magruder), Editor-in-Chief of the Phi Alpha Delta Quarterly. Following the installation, a banquet was held at the Hotel Moscow.

Originally named for James Kent, "the American Blackstone", the Idaho chapter was subsequently renamed for Idaho Senator William Edgar Borah, after his death in 1940. Borah had been initiated as an honorary member of the chapter and Phi Alpha Delta in 1927.

Fifteenth Annual Convention Held in Chicago

For its Fifteenth Annual Convention, the fraternity once again assembled in Chicago – this time at the LaSalle Hotel June 26-27, 1914. Brother James P. Aylward (Benton) presided over the convention as Supreme Justice. The evening before convention, the Chicago Chapters hosted an informal reception for the delegates at the North Side Fraternity House, 200 East Erie Street. Friday evening after the first day of convention business, the Arrangements Committee sponsored an outing to Riverview Park, and the Saturday evening banquet was held in the hotel's Red Room, a room with cabaret features. At the time of the Fifteenth Annual Convention, the fraternity boasted thirty-two law chapters and ten chartered alumni chapters.

During the business sessions, the convention made three important changes with a crucial long-term impact on the fraternity. First, the delegates voted to make the national convention biennial instead of annual. Second, the delegates voted to extend the duration of conventions from two days to three days. Third, the delegates voted to divide the chapters into five districts with each district to have its own district justice and a district convention in non-national convention years with the cost of these assemblies apportioned among each district's chapters. These changes were set to take place after the 1915 convention in San Francisco with the first national biennial convention to be held in 1917. Many of the details were left to the discretion of the Supreme Executive Board, and although the exact intentions of the convention did not occur as scheduled due the advent of World War I, these changes were the beginning of what would become our traditional biennial convention, the administrative districts into which the fraternity is still divided, the district justices who help administer the fraternity and the district conferences.

The last order of business of the fraternity in convention assembled was the election of its leadership for the following year. The convention elected Supreme Justice Edgar A. Jonas (Webster), Supreme First Vice Justice George L. Stewart (Story), Supreme Second Vice Justice Frank A. Saporito (Rapallo), Supreme Recorder Conger G. Roads (Hay), Supreme Financial Secretary Charles B. Adams (Hamlin), Supreme Treasurer Abraham J. Hart (Campbell), Supreme Historian Nelson Tillotson (Calhoun), Supreme Marshal Lester B. Marshall (Capen), and Editor-in-Chief Oscar W. Hobert (Magruder) to make up the Supreme Executive Board. Elected to serve on the Board of Tribunes were Chief Tribune James McKeag (Marshall), John Doyle Carmody (Taft), and James P. Aylward (Benton).

Judge Scanlan Steals Watch, but Escapes

However, It's Only Fraternity Conference Prank.

"My watch is gone and Scanlan took it!" exclaimed Judge Adelor J. Petit, toastmaster at a banquet last night, accusing Judge Kickham Scanlan, a speaker, who sat beside him. "I'm paying a man outside real money to guard my $1.25 straw hat, and here my watch is 'lifted.' "

Judge Scanlan was not arrested, for this was but one of the college pranks of the fifteenth annual convention of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity at the Hotel La Salle and the watch was returned.

The fraternity voted to divide its thirty chapters into five districts, each governed by a district justice.

Edgar A. Jonas of Chicago was elected supreme justice of the fraternity.

The Chicago Examiner, June 28, 1914

At the final banquet, a fraternity prank was played which was reported in the local newspapers. In the middle of dinner, Banquet Toastmaster Judge Adelor J. Petit (Webster) boldly accused Judge Kickham Scanlan (Blackstone) one of the banquet speakers of stealing his watch. The theft was merely a convention prank – the watch was returned, and Judge Scanlon was not arrested.

Supreme Justice Edgar A. Jonas (Webster)

During the 1914-1915 administration of Supreme Justice Edgar A. Jonas (Webster) the fraternity continued to expand, and in May 1914, The Quarterly reported that "The greatest legal fraternity in the world has spread its mantle over two new chapters."

The Manoah B. Reese Chapter at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln, Nebraska was installed by Supreme Justice Edgar A. Jonas (Webster) and Founder Sidney B. Meyer (Fuller) on March 12, 1915. They were assisted by Professor Walter L. Pope (Marshall) who also served as toastmaster at the celebratory banquet. Both the ceremony and banquet took place at the Lindell Hotel.

The David J. Brewer Chapter at Stetson University in DeLand, Florida was installed by Supreme Recorder Conger G. Roads (Hay) on April 3, 1915. Festivities lasted the entire weekend, with Tri Delta hosting a tea for the new chapter on Friday, April 2, 1915. Sigma Nu hosted the chapter on Saturday morning, April 3, 1915. Dr. Lincoln Hulley, President of the University hosted a reception for the chapter that afternoon. The installation on Saturday evening was followed by a banquet at the Lexington. Phi Beta Phi hosted breakfast for the new chapter Saturday morning. Among the Brewer Chapter charter members were several honorary members initiated at the installation including Hon. Bert Fish, Dr. Lincoln Hulley, Former Governor William Sherman Jennings, Hon. Cary D. Landis, Hon. James W. Perkins, and Dean Richmond Austin Rasco. The Phi Alpha Delta Chapter at the University of Miami would later be named after Dean Rasco in 1946.

Sixteenth Annual Convention Held in San Francisco, California

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition was a World's Fair held in San Francisco, California in 1915, and the fraternity's last annual convention was held in conjunction with the fair.

The Sixteenth Annual Convention would be a milestone for the young law fraternity. For the first time, its national convention would be held outside of the Midwest where Phi Alpha Delta was born, and as an inducement for its members to travel, the convention would be held in conjunction with the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Planning for the milestone convention had begun three years before the convention was convened, and in addition to planning the convention the San Francisco Committee had given rise to the San Francisco Alumni Chapter and greater cooperation and activity among the west coast chapters. Built into the convention schedule would be time for members to attend the exposition, enjoy some of California's natural beauty, and do the work of the fraternity. It would be the fraternity's most well-attended convention to date.

The Phi Alpha Delta Express – Arrangements were made for a special mode of transportation for the convention delegates to travel to San Francisco. A special train was designated. Delegates from the Midwest, Eastern, and Southern Chapters assembled in Chicago the board the “Phi Alpha Delta Express” for the trip to the west coast, stopping enroute in to pick up additional delegates along the way.

The special train consisting of thirteen coaches (two dedicated to fraternity members only) included an open section, compartment drawing room, sleeping cars, and dining and observation cars. It left Chicago from the New Passenger Terminal of the Chicago & North Western Railway on Madison Street at 9:35 PM on August 1, 1915, and after several stops along the way arrived in San Francisco on August 4, 1915, at 8:50 PM. Charles L. Daly (Fuller) served as Chair of the Convention Transportation Committee and had negotiated terms for the train and special reduced fares with the Chicago & North Western Railway. An entertainment committee coordinated activities on the train route which included a first day “get acquainted gathering” and socials on the observation car. Supreme First Vice Justice George L. Stewart (Story) joined the train in Sacramento and personally conducted delegates across the Bay to the Ferry Building where a large delegation received them and transported them to the Fielding Hotel via car. A welcoming social organized the San Francisco Alumni awaited them at the hotel.

Although the Fielding Hotel was designated fraternity headquarters for the duration of the convention and most delegates stayed there, the formal business of the fraternity was conducted in the Civic Center Auditorium, and the final banquet was held in the Fairmont Hotel.

Conducting the business of the fraternity – The convention was called to order in Hall D of the Civic Center Auditorium by Supreme Justice Edgar A. Jonas (Webster) at 9:30 AM, August 5, 1915. The convention committee appointments were announced, delegates presented reports on the health and activities of their chapters, and national officers presented their reports. At the end of the first day's session, delegates and members visited Mt. Tamalpais and Muir Woods and enjoyed an outdoor barbecue.

A lot of time was spent discussing the fraternity's finances including the chapter taxes and the financial stability of the organization and its subordinate chapters. Decisions of the prior convention to make the convention biennial and to establish districts with the fraternity were reaffirmed. Of note, with the removal of the University of Oregon to Eugene but leaving behind its law school in Portland under the name Northwestern College of Law, the convention confirmed that the chapter stayed with the law school. (Later, the law school was reincorporated into the University system and moved to Eugene after all!)

Saturday, August 7, 1915, was Phi Alpha Delta Day at the Exposition. Delegates assembled at the entrance to fairgrounds at 1:00 PM, and under escort by Exposition officials paraded to the Festival Building where they were received in Recital Hall. There Phi Alpha Delta was presented with five bronze medals from the Exposition. Past Supreme Justice Carmody (Taft) was chair for the event, and Supreme First Vice Justice George L. Stewart (Story) received the medals on behalf of the fraternity.

For its 1915-1917 leadership, the fraternity elected Supreme Justice George L. Stewart (Story), Supreme First Vice Justice James V. Barnett (Rapallo), Supreme Second Vice Justice August A. Rendigs, Jr. (Chase), Supreme Recorder Conger G. Roads (Hay), Supreme Financial Secretary Glenn E. Miller (Williams), Supreme Treasurer Abraham J. Hart (Campbell), Supreme Historian Joseph P. O'Connell (Hughes), Supreme Marshal Frank S. Ginocchio (Clay), and Editor-in-Chief Oscar W. Hoberg (Magruder) to the Supreme Executive Board. Chief Tribune John Doyle Carmody (Taft), James P. Aylward (Benton), and Lester B. Fish were elected to the Board of Tribunes. It was not known at the time, but the term of office for most of these leaders would be extended to 1919 due to World War I.

LAW FRATERNITY MEETS FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION

With delegates from thirty-three law school chapters of various parts of the United States, the annual convention of the Phi Alpha Delta, a legal fraternity, opened yesterday in the civic auditorium.

It was voted to hold the convention biennially henceforth instead of annually. The morning and afternoon sessions were devoted to the reading of reports by officers. Edgar A. Jonas of the Chicago Law School, supreme justice of the fraternity, presided.

P.A.D. Traditions Feature: Districts and District Justices

The Fifteenth Annual Convention had voted to split the fraternity's chapter into separate administrative districts with each district to have its own officers and district assemblies to govern the fraternity within the district (subject to national requirements) after the last annual convention in 1916. The Sixteenth Convention affirmed this plan, and the chapters apportioned to districts after the convention and the first District Justices were appointed.

THE DISTRICT DIVISION

After prolonged conferences in the earnest endeavor to liberally interpret and justly execute the mandates of the Constitution as amended by the Fifteenth Annual Convention, the Supreme Executive Board has finally concluded upon a division of the chapters into five districts, as shown upon the accompanying map.

The Original District Map of Phi Alpha Delta was published in the January 1916 Quarterly.

The chapters were divided as follows. The Central District was composed of Blackstone, Corliss, Fuller, Marshall, Ryan, Story, Webster, Chicago Alumni, Grand Forks Alumni and Milwaukee Alumni Chapters. The Eastern District was composed of Campbell, Capen, Chase, Clay, Hay, Magruder, Cleveland Alumni and Cincinnati Alumni Chapters. The Western District was composed of Benton, Green, Garland, Gunter, Hammond, Hughes, Lawson, Reese, and Kansas City Alumni chapters. The Atlantic District was composed of Brewer, Calhoun, Hamlin, Jefferson, Rapallo, Staples, Taft, Washington Alumni and New York City Alumni chapters. The Pacific District was composed of Dunbar, Kent, Holmes, Temple, Ross, Williams, Los Angeles

Alumni, Portland Alumni and San Francisco Alumni Chapters. The first District Justices appointed were Central District Justice George E. Fink (Story and Campbell), Eastern District Justice John H. Rainsberger (Hay), Western District Justice Frank Ludwick (Benton), Pacific District Justice Rex G. Hardy (Story and Ross), and Atlantic District Justice William S. Culbertson (Calhoun). Although the first District Justices were appointed, it was anticipated that District Assemblies held in off convention years would elect their successors and other district officers.

Since that time, the fraternity has always been divided into administrative districts. With the growth of the fraternity over time, the original five-named districts have evolved into thirty-three numbered districts (traditionally referred to by Roman numeral (e.g. District I, District II, District III, etc.). Although originally, the district's held assemblies or "conclaves" which actually had governing functions and even elected district officers, with the evolution of the a professional executive office supporting fraternity operations and better communication tools used by the national governing board, these evolved into district conferences for training, education, and development of local leadership, and district justices and assistant district justices are now appointed by the International Justice with the advice and consent of the International Executive Board. Serving as district justice has also become a way to develop as fraternity leaders and often serves as a steppingstone towards higher fraternity office.

Since 2022, all active district justices have also composed the District Justice Advisory Council which provides advice and recommendations to the International Executive Board regarding issues related to local district governance and organization.

On May 20, 1916, the John Marshall Harlan Chapter was installed at the University of Oklahoma by Supreme Historian Joseph P. O'Connell (Hughes) and Lyman P. Wilson (Marshall and Kent Chapters) assisted by Isaac R. McQueen (Jefferson), Chester B. Kidd (Campbell), and Myron M. Gibbons (Calhoun). Brother Wilson was a member

The occasion was well attended by members of Rapallo Chapter and the New York Alumni Chapter.

Finally, the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter was chartered in Indianapolis, Indiana. Law chapters represented among its charter members included Capen, Calhoun, Campbell, Chase, Gunter, Holmes, Marshall, and Taft.

Fraternity Receives 24 Students of Law

The initiation of twenty-four students of the Department of Jurisprudence of the University of California into the ranks of the Phi Alpha Delta society was celebrated last night at a banquet in the Fairmont hotel. Chief Justice Frank M. Angellotti and Judge John E. Richard delivered addresses. Erick G. Scudder acted as toastmaster. Andrew Y. Wood also spoke.

expand, the drums of war were starting to sound in Europe. The United States at first remained neutrality in the Great War, or as it would be later known, World War I. However, on April 6, 1917, Congress declared war on Germany and the United States was brought into what was then known as "war to end all wars".

It should also be noted that during this time, Temple Chapter which had been chartered at Hastings College of Law in 1911 expanded to include the University of California at Berkeley Department of Jurisprudence. Twenty-four students at Berkeley were initiated at the first initiation on February 16, 1916. The chapter would continue to operate at both campuses until 1923 when it would be split into two separate chapters.

Expansion of Phi Delta Delta 1912-1918

"Before we had even begun to work out our expansion plan, we had two "nibbles" from the East. Scotia Starck, a junior at the Washington College of Law in Washington, D.C., wanted to know what it was all about, and the other inquiry came from a local sorority at Kent College of Law, Chicago. We carried on a voluminous correspondence with these two "prospects" extending over a period of months, and finally in the spring of 1913, Beta Chapter was installed at Washington, and Gamma Chapter at Chicago... We had become national!"

- Founder Annette F. Hunley (Alpha), in The Phi Delta Delta, November 1925.

As has been seen, Phi Delta Delta began with a small group of five women at the University of Southern California, in 1911. These women became the first members of Alpha Chapter and the Founders of Phi Delta Delta. By December of 1912, they had added five additional student members and at least two faculty members. The Los Angeles press covered the new sorority (as it was then called) and its activities regularly, and much of this coverage was picked up in other parts of the country.

While the Founders had always intended that Phi Delta Delta would become national, they had barely begun to plan ways to expand to other schools when women law students at other schools began to contact them to inquire about the organization. With no other affordable, practical means of communication, the Founders began to correspond with these students by U.S. Mail, and plans for expansion in the Midwest and the East began to form.

National President and Founder Annette F. Hunley, who was then serving as law school Registrar took the lead on corresponding with the students who expressed an interest, and it was she who would travel by train east to install the first new chapters.

Beta Chapter Installed at Washington College of Law

On April 26, 1913, Hunley installed Beta Chapter at Washington College of Law which would later become the law school of American University. The five charter members of the new chapter. Hettie Bell, Elizabeth Eggert, Agnes Jones, Scotia Starck, and Hope Thompson. were presented with a beautiful charter certificate, sorority insignia, and corsages of rose and violets at their initiation by Hunley.

LEGAL SORORITY INSTALLED.

Students of Washington College of Law to Be Members.

A chapter of the Phi Delta Delta Legal Sorority has been installed in this city, Miss Annette Hunley of Los Angeles, Cal., and president of the sorority, acting as installing officer. The chapter here will be known as the Beta Chapter and its members will consist of the students of the Washington College of Law. Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, dean of the college, last winter gave her consent to the establishment of the chapter.

Those who were initiated by Miss Hunley are Miss Hettie B. Bell, Miss Elisabeth M. Eggert, Miss Agnes A. Jones and Miss Scotia S. Stark, all of the senior class of the college.

Miss Hunley is to visit New York and Boston and on May 10 she is to install the Gamma Chapter of the sorority at Chicago Kent College of Law. Alpha Chapter of the sorority was organized in the fall of 1911 at the College of Law, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, and is said to be the first national legal sorority in existence.

what is believed to be the first all women law partnership in Chicago – Kelley, Sellers, and Clark. Along with her sorority sisters Mary A. Sellers and Katherine A. Clark, Kelley concentrated her practice on probate matters.

However, the chapter's affiliation with Phi Delta Delta was short lived. Perhaps chafing under the leadership of distant national officers, the chapter seems to have quickly reverted to considering itself the Alpha Chapter of Kappa Beta Phi and began expanding to other Chicago area schools in 1915. At the first convention of Phi Delta Delta in 1917, Gamma Chapter's charter was revoked, and the names of its members were stricken from the roll of Phi Delta Delta. Kappa Beta Pi and Phi Delta Delta became competing law sororities, and perhaps as a result of this initial rivalry, Phi Delta Delta never again established chapters in the Chicago law schools.

Because of this early split and subsequent rivalry, little concerning Gamma

Gamma Chapter and Kappa Beta Pi

On her way back to Los Angeles, Sister Hunley stopped in Chicago and installed Gamma Chapter at Chicago-Kent College of Law on May 10, 1913. It is believed that Gamma Chapter had originally been organized at Chicago-Kent as Kappa Beta Pi Legal Sorority in Fall 1908 and had incorporated in Illinois in December of that year. Members of the chapter apparently desired to become affiliated with a national legal sorority and corresponded with Hunley about doing so. That desire was achieved in May 1913, when it became Gamma Chapter of Phi Delta Delta. It is believed that the charter membership was made up of both current students and alumni of Chicago-Kent who had been members of Kappa Beta Phi.

One of the charter members, both of Kappa Beta Phi and of the Gamma Chapter of Phi Delta Delta, Phyllis M. Kelley became the founder of

MISS HUNLEY RETURNS FROM FIVE WEEKS' TRIP

Miss Annette Hunley, registrar of the College of Law, U. S. C., has returned from a five weeks' trip through the Eastern states in the interest of the Phi Delta Delta sorority. She visited universities and colleges of law in Chicago, Washington, New York and at Berkeley.

In Washington, at the Washington University of Law, Miss Hunley established the Beta chapter of the Phi Delt, and the Gamma chapter at Chicago. The Delta chapter will be installed at the New York School of Law in the fall.

Chapter is preserved in Phi Delta Delta records beyond the oft repeated note that because of disloyalty the charter was revoked and Gamma struck from the roll of chapters. The brief affiliation with Phi Delta Delta is not mentioned in the Beta Kappa Pi history, and regarding matters omitted from that history, its founder and historian Alice C. Edgerton stated "If, at times, there have been small misunderstandings or mistakes, they were no more than would arise in any live organization, or in any ambitious family, and have long since been forgotten..."¹

Still at the end of her trip, Annette Hunley must have been very satisfied with the initial expansion. She later wrote that the Founders "thought it would be only a matter of time until we would be deluged with a perfect avalanche of inquiries." This was not the case, however, and to continue to expand the Founders organized an outreach program. They wrote to every law school dean in the United States concerning the aims and virtues of Phi Delta Delta and inquiring about the number of women in attendance at each school. They were dismayed to discover that there were scarcely a dozen schools in the country with a sufficient number of women law students to support a chapter of Phi Delta Delta. Often, they learned that there were two or three women in a law school but seldom more, and it took five members to start a chapter.

The Sunday Oregonian, February 22, 1914

¹ Of some interest to students of Phi Alpha Delta History, the application for incorporation of Beta Kappa Pi, dated December 14, 1908, was notarized by Brother Harry G. Keats (Blackstone) in his capacity as a Notary Public. Keats originally a Lambda Epsilon member (Class of 1899) remained active in Phi Alpha Delta and the Chicago Alumni Chapter throughout his life and was often referred to as "The Grand Old Man of Phi Alpha Delta". Keats served as a Judge in the Cook County Probate Court (Chicago).

However, in the fall of 1913, the Founders received another promising inquiry. A group of women students at the University of Oregon College of Law led by senior Ina Jaqua were behind the inquiry, and soon the petition for a charter there was granted. Founder and National Vice President Vere Radir Norton was dispatched, and on February 1, 1914, Delta Chapter of Phi Delta Delta was installed at the University of Oregon. The installation was followed by a luncheon given at the home of one of the charter members, Nattie Mae Rankin.

PDD Traditions Feature: The Naming of Phi Delta Delta Chapters

Unlike chapters of Phi Alpha Delta, Phi Delta Delta chapters were not named for prominent attorneys, jurists, or legal scholars. Chapters were named in alphabetical order according to the Greek Alphabet (Alpha, Beta, Gamma, etc.). When the end of the alphabet was reached, chapters were still named in alphabetical order, but Alpha was placed in front of the name (Alpha Alpha, Alpha Beta, Alpha Gamma, etc.). When the end of the “second alphabet” was reached chapters were named alphabetically using the “third alphabet” (Beta Alpha, Beta Beta, Beta Gamma, etc.). For the most part, listing the chapters in Greek alphabetical order yields a chronological order by charter date. However, names were given in the order charters were approved, but charter dates are based on actual installation. Accordingly, there are some exceptions.

Like most Phi Alpha Delta alumni chapters, Phi Delta Delta Alumni Chapters were named for the city or community in which they were established.

Epsilon Chapter Chartered at University of Washington

In early 1917, Phi Delta Delta chartered its fifth law chapter. Members of Delta Chapter at the University of Oregon traveled to Seattle, Washington to install a chapter at the University of Washington Department of Law. On February 10, 1917, Grace Arnold (Delta) and Elizabeth Braun (Delta) oversaw the installation of Epsilon Chapter with the assistance of other members of Delta Chapter. After the five charter student members Henrietta B. Chamberlin, Mary G. Hoard, Charlotte Kolmitz, Eloise Van Slatte, Sarah B. Stewart, and Clara G. Wein were initiated, they immediately initiated five alumni members into the chapter: Othilla Beals, Reah M. Whitehead, Reba J. Hurn, Grace McDonald Phillips, and Agnes Richmond.

The Spokane Chronicle, February 6, 1917

The First Convention of Phi Delta Delta

The Los Angeles Times, August 22, 1917

The first convention was held in Los Angeles, California at the Hotel Clark August 21-22, 1917. In addition to the election of new officers, the convention would address changes to the sorority's constitution and the issues with Gamma Chapter in Chicago. One big change to the constitution would be the change of Phi Delta Delta's name from "Phi Delta Delta Legal Sorority" to "Phi Delta Delta Legal Fraternity" by which the delegates meant to assert their equal footing with male attorney and law student groups. From here forward, members were frequently referred to as either sister or brother depending on their chapter and personal preference.

The convention also took action to codify membership restrictions constitutionally which till then had mainly been a matter addressed only through chapter membership voting on pledges. As will be discussed below, the women's fraternity had strict membership restrictions based not only on gender, but also on race and religion in its early years.

The five Founders of Phi Delta Delta in addition to serving as the charter officers of Alpha Chapter, served as national officers of Phi Delta Delta for the first five years of its existence from November 11, 1911, until August 23, 1917. They were President Annette Fillius Hunley, Vice President Vere Radir Norton, Secretary Georgia M. Bullock, Recorder Gladys Moore Brown, and Treasurer Sarah Elizabeth Patten Doherty. With five chartered chapters and the new women's law sorority seemingly on sound footing, the time had come for the first national convention and an opportunity for the other chapters and members to have chance at leadership.

The Los Angeles Times, August 21, 1917

The women's law fraternity also took action to expel Gamma Chapter at Chicago-Kent College of Law and strike the chapter and its members from the roll of Phi Delta Delta for "disloyalty".

The word "Grand" was added to the title of the National Officers to distinguish them from chapter officers with similar titles. Collectively, the national officers were referred to as the "Grand Council" for the next five years. As its new Grand Council, the women's fraternity elected Grand President Orfa Jean Shontz (Alpha), Grand Vice President Eloise Van Slatte (Epsilon), Grand Secretary M. Eleanor Mack (Alpha), Grand Treasurer Nettie Mae Rankin (Delta), and Grand Recorder Jeannette E. Jewell (Alpha and Zeta).

Zeta Chapter Chartered at George Washington University

One member of the Grand Council, Jeannette Jewel, had begun her legal education at George Washington University in the District of Columbia, but had transferred to the University of Southern California and been initiated as a member of Alpha Chapter. At the time the first convention was called, she had already transferred back to George Washington University and would continue her legal education there in the Fall of 1917. She was in the process of organizing Zeta Chapter there at the time of convention and was recognized at the convention as representing the as yet uninstalled chapter.

After the convention, she returned to the District of Columbia, and on February 15, 1918, acting as Grand Recorder she installed Zeta Chapter at George Washington University. She is counted both as a member of Alpha Chapter and a charter member of Zeta Chapter.

Of potential interest to students of American history, one of the charter members Laura Volstead Lomen was the daughter and later aid of Congressman Andrew J. Volstead, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and one of the principal sponsors of the National Prohibition Act of 1919 which is usually referred to as the Volstead Act. This legislation executed the 18th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and legally established the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages.

Path to Inclusion Feature: Membership Restrictions in Phi Delta Delta

“Although the legal sororities served an important role, both professionally and socially, for many women law students there was a darker side to them as well. Founded to give women law students a sense of community and female support, they did not welcome all women law students. Phi Delta Delta was restrictive on racial and religious lines. It was completely closed to women of color. Non-Christian women, although not totally excluded, could not be accepted through their local chapter but had to win the unanimous consent of the National Executive Committee. Florence Allen rejected the invitation to join the legal sorority at New York University because of its discriminatory policies. When Allen’s good friend Martha Gruening, the daughter of a renowned Jewish physician in New York City was not invited to join, Allen declined the invitation. ‘When you ask Martha, I will consider it,’ she replied to their invitation. ‘They never asked Martha, and I never joined,’ she explained.”

*- Virginia C. Drachman, Sisters in Law: Women Lawyers in Modern American History.*

Like Phi Alpha Delta, Phi Delta Delta was not always an inclusive organization. Throughout its history, Phi Delta Delta was restricted to women members, but more nefariously restricted membership based on both race and creed. Codified into its constitution at the 1917 convention, membership in Phi Delta Delta was restricted to Caucasian women, and non-Christian women could be admitted only by unanimous consent of the national officers. This was in addition to the local chapter membership voting on prospective pledges.

Hon. Florence Ellinwood Allen

While Phi Delta Delta included many extraordinary women and counted among its membership many of the first women to hold countless government and judicial posts, its membership would undoubtedly have been stronger and more extraordinary if it were not for its membership restrictions. Florence E. Allen, who is mentioned in the quote above from Sisters in Law for example, was the first woman assistant county prosecutor in the United States and the first woman elected to judicial office in Ohio. In 1922, she was the first woman elected to the Ohio Supreme Court, and in 1934 she was the first woman nominated and confirmed to a federal appeals court when President Roosevelt nominated her to the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit.

Phi Delta Delta never removed its gender restrictions, though it eventually merged with the (recently) co-ed Phi Alpha Delta in 1972. Other membership restrictions were not lifted till the 1950's.

P.A.D. Profile Feature: The Founders of Phi Delta Delta

"To those Phi Deltas who have been privileged to know and count as their friends Georgia Bullock, Annette Hunley, Sara Patten Doherty, Gladys Moore Brown, and Vere Radir-Norton, these Founders of Phi Delta Delta epitomize the ideals of love, loyalty, truth, justice and wisdom. They have always been forward looking, never content with the achievements of the past, interested primarily in the present and the future."

The five founders of Phi Delta Delta were actively involved with the women's law fraternity throughout their lives, and two of the founders lived to see the merger with Phi Alpha Delta on August 12, 1972. Regularly participating in fraternity events and being honored by its members, the five Founders each came to be associated with one of the five cardinal virtues of Phi Delta Delta – Love, Loyalty, Truth, Justice, and Wisdom. It was not just the founding of the fraternity that was celebrated each year on Founders Day by the membership, but the lives and contributions of the five Founders of the Fraternity. They were considered friends, family, and heroes to the membership.

Sarah Patten Doherty 1890-1980

“Love is a many-sided sacrifice.”

Sarah Patten Doherty was born in San Pedro, California. She was admitted to the California bar in 1911 while attending the University of Southern California law school. In addition to helping organize Phi Delta Delta, Doherty found romance during law school and married classmate Frank P. Doherty who went on to become a professor of law at the school. Together they raised six sons and one daughter and saw the birth of seventeen grandchildren. She served as the fraternity's first national Treasurer from 1911-1917 and remained active nationally and with Alpha and the Los Angeles Alumnae Chapters throughout her life. She lived to see the merger with Phi Alpha Delta in 1972.

Annette Fillius Hunley (1889-1954)

“Loyalty is the Seal of Unity”

Annette Fillius Hunley was born in Missouri but relocated to California in her youth. She was the driving force behind the founding of Phi Delta Delta, and at the time of its organization she was Registrar at the University of Southern California as well as an enrolled student. She not only organized Alpha Chapter and served as its first High Priestess but also obtained funding from the law school to assist in the establishment of Beta, Gamma, and Delta Chapters. She served as the first national President of Phi Delta Delta from 1911-1917 and presided over its first convention in Los Angeles. Although she never actively practiced law, Hunley worked at the law school until her retirement just eight years before her death on August 2, 1954.

Gladys Moore Brown (1891-1988)

“Truth is the desire of ages.”

Gladys Moore Brown was born in Minnesota and relocated to California with her family when only one year old. She studied at Vassar College for one year and then began her formal legal education at the University of Southern California. After assisting in the establishment of Phi Delta Delta and Alpha Chapter, she earned her LLB degree and was admitted to the California state bar. She married Herbert E. Brown and together they raised two sons and a daughter and saw the birth of ten grandchildren. She served as the fraternity’s national Recorder from 1911 to 1917 and remained an active participant thereafter. Throughout her life she was devoted to her family, her community, and Phi Delta Delta. She lived to see the merger with Phi Alpha Delta in 1972.

Georgia P. Bullock (1878-1957)

“Justice is the zenith of the Heavens”

Georgia P. Bullock was born in Chicago, Illinois and was educated in private schools in Illinois, Indiana, and Wales. She was married to William W. Bullock, and after his death in 1910 relocated to California with their two children where she began her formal legal education at the University of Southern California. She was admitted to the California Bar while attending law school in 1913 and received her LLB in 1914. While attending law school, she assisted with the establishment of Phi Delta Delta and its Alpha Chapter. She served as the fraternity’s first national Secretary from 1911-1917. In her professional practice, she was a great trailblazer for women in the law. During law school, she worked as a probation officer in Women’s Court. After law school she became a deputy district attorney and was assigned primarily to the prosecution of prostitutes and their clients. After World War I, she entered private practice. While in private practice she was the first woman in California to act as defense counsel in a murder case. In 1924, she became the first woman appointed to a California judgeship when she became a Los Angeles Police Court Judge. Thereafter, she became a Municipal Court Judge (1926-1931), and then a Superior Court Judge (1931-1956). In addition to co-founding Phi Delta Delta, she was also a co-founder of the Women's Lawyers Club of Los Angeles. She was the first woman member of the Los Angeles Bar Association, and in 1932 she served as vice president of the National Association of Women's Lawyers.

Vere Radir Norton (1891-1970)

“Wisdom gives us knowledge and understanding.”

Vere Radir Norton was born in Portland, Oregon in 1891, and moved to California with her family in 1900. She received her formal legal education at the University of Southern California, and while a student there helped organize Phi Delta Delta and its Alpha Chapter. She served as Alpha Chapter's charter priestess from 1911-1912, and the organization's first national Vice President from 1911-1917. After graduation from law school in 1914, she entered private practice and practiced law in California throughout her life. She is the only Founder to serve on the national board of the fraternity more than once, returning to the board to serve as National Third Vice President from 1950-1952.

The Great War and Recovery 1917-1929

"The darkest period in all Phi Alpha Delta was that in which occurred during the World War. When the writer took office at San Francisco, in August 1915, following the memorable convention there, the conflict which was to set the civilized world afire was not considered an American affair... And then the affairs of war-torn Europe became our affairs. None will forget the years of fraternity privation which ensued. The 1917 convention was postponed—without date. The office of the Supreme Justice at San Francisco became virtually an officers' recruiting place for induction of college men into the U. S. Marine Corps. Brothers everywhere dropped law for intensive military training. Chapter members were scattered and separated like autumn leaves in a winter storm. Some found final resting place where the whirl of war had blown them. The light of the Fraternity itself seemed likely to die out."

- George L. Stewart, Supreme Justice 1915-1919, The Quarterly, May 1927

The United States Goes to War

Members of the fraternity could scarce imagine the chaos and loss that the fraternity and the world would suffer in the years following the San Francisco Convention. At that time, unrest in Europe seemed to have very little to do with the United States, and it was thought that America would remain neutral. However, on April 6, 1917, after significant loss of merchant ships and increased civilian casualties, Congress declared war on Germany and entered what then was optimistically called the "war to end all wars".

George L. Stewart (Story) had been elected to serve as Supreme Justice from 1915-1917 but ended up serving much longer and was responsible for guiding the fraternity through unprecedented challenges. When the Supreme Executive Board met in Chicago in December 1916, there was no true indication of how bad things would get. The Seventeenth Convention was duly scheduled for July 12-14, 1917, but after the United States was drawn into war and enrollments in law schools dropped as students abandoned their law books for military training – by choice or draft – the Board acted cautiously and on May 28, 1917, announced a

Whereas, it is understood in view of the aforesaid National emergency, the less severely affected or more fortunate of our chapters do not desire the benefits of representation in Convention to the possibly exclusion of the majority and less fortunately situated ones; and

Whereas, the Supreme Executive Board of this Fraternity is convinced that an entirely successful and representative Convention thereof cannot be held this winter under such financial conditions as now, or in the near future will undoubtedly obtain; and further that the necessity therefor is unquestionably secondary and subordinate to the future maintenance and integrity of the lone chapter organizations themselves; now therefore

Be It Resolved, by the Supreme Executive Board thereof, that the next, the Seventeenth Convention of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, be and it hereby is postponed to such date as shall be later determined by this Board.

Witness the hand and seal of the Chairman, and of the Acting Secretary thereof, this 10th day of November 1917.

The Seventeenth Convention, rescheduled for December 29-31, 1917, was cancelled without a new date being chosen. The Supreme Board had gathered chapter reports over the summer and early Fall in which no chapter reported enough members to form the nucleus of an active chapter, many chapters reported only two or three active members, and Magruder and Capen Chapter reported only one man each to carry on the work of the chapter. In some instances, entire chapters to the last man had entered military service.

In January 1918, after the publication of the prior two scheduled issues had been cancelled, the Quarterly reported what was believed to be the first Phi Alpha Delta life lost during the Great War. Brother Stanley H. Smith (Clay) was lost overboard from a submarine chaser somewhere off the coast of France. Smith, who at the time was Clerk of Clay Chapter at the University of Kentucky, had enlisted in April.

In the same issue, many chapters shared "honor rolls" of the chapter members known to be under arms in the service of their country. Updated rolls were published in subsequent issues of the Quarterly. (The name Quarterly was retained although due to the financial pressures of war, only two issues were published each year.)

Stanley H. Smith, a student in the college of law, University of Kentucky last year, who enlisted in the navy at the end of the school term, was lost overboard on September 20, according to a message received yesterday by the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, of which he was a member.

Smith was a yeoman on the United States Steamship Wilkes and he was drowned in foreign waters, according to a letter from his aunt in Crawford, N. J. On account of the censorship other details of his death were not given.

Smith's home was in Berea, and he and William J. Collins, of Richmond, enlisted at the same time, but were assigned to different vessels.

Lexington Herald Ledger, October 11, 1917

At the Supreme Executive Board level, Supreme Financial Secretary Glenn E. Miller (Williams) was forced to resign “on account of local duties caused by the war”. Frank E. Rutledge (Webster) was recruited as Acting Supreme Financial Secretary. Rutledge would later be forced to resign as well and was replaced with Acting Supreme Financial Secretary George K. Brasher (1910). Supreme Recorder Conger G. Roads (Hay) was called to arms, and George S. Meyers (Hay) served as Acting Supreme Recorder. Supreme Historian Joseph P. O’Connell (Hughes) and Supreme Marshal Frank S. Ginocchio (Clay) were both on active military duty, though they did not resign their positions. The acting officers were appointed by Supreme Justice George L. Stewart who obtained the consent of the board after the fact. This consent was generally obtained by mail as in person meetings were not held during the war. The Board Meeting scheduled to be held over the holidays in 1917 was cancelled due to the unavailability of board members and no new meetings were held in 1918.

Reflecting on his term as Supreme Justice, a term unexpectedly extended by two and a half years due to the war, Brother Stewart wrote, “Lest the labors of years become naught, the Supreme Justice assumed extraordinary powers and endeavored to carry on the work of the other officers where their duties called them away, keeping intact the fraternity structures only, until the Armistice sheds its light on a smoking and desolate Europe, and a new America.”

The Alumni Chapters During the War

Even as America entered the fray, the Fraternity did experience one brief expansion. On May 9, 1917, the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter was chartered in Indiana. Its charter members included Howard Webster Adams (Calhoun), Mark E. Archer (Marshall), Frank C. Ayers (Campbell), Robert H. Espey (Chase), William Gage Hoag (Campbell), Joseph O. Hoffman (Taft), Merrit H. Perkins (Gunter), Fred Pitcher (Capen), Roger H. Wallace (Holmes), and Chester L. Zechiel (Marshall).

Supreme Justice Stewart called upon the alumni chapters in 1918:

“Phi Alpha Delta needs the helpful cooperation of its widely scattered alumni as it never did before and perhaps never may again. This means those brothers whose work is at home, rather than at the front. Now is the time to form alumni chapters in the cities. Now is the time, Brother Alumnus, to take an interest in the welfare of that little band of loyal workers who are striving to uphold the standard of that chapter which it may be you have not even visited for a long time.”

However, as the law school chapters were decimated by the younger fraternity members going to war, the fraternity’s alumni chapters were themselves much reduced with many alumni members being called to service abroad or at home. At the end of the war, the Quarterly would report that no alumni officer elections were reported to national in 1918, and that many of the alumni chapters appeared to be mostly dormant outside of the larger cities and older chapters like Chicago.

EVAKUATED FLEES TO

At 5:35 AM on November 11, 1918, an Armistice was signed between the Allies and Germany which ended hostilities at 11:00 AM – the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month. The armistice was extended several times and a formal peace treaty ending the war, the Treaty of Versailles was signed on June 28, 1919. At long last, the war was over and a weary world, and fraternity, could begin the long process of rebuilding.

Rebuilding the Fraternity

"And then came peace and reconstruction. Rehabilitation was begun and slowly chapters were reorganized. With funds subscribed by generous alumni, the belated seventeenth convention was called to meet at Chicago at the end of December 1919. It ratified and enacted into fundamental law the proposed new constitution which had been prepared and submitted to the chapters before the War. One item in that constitution – the increase in the per capita tax to $7.00 annually – has raised the fraternity from poverty to affluence. With this was brought to a close an incumbency of four and one half years – the longest and most eventful term of any Phi Alpha Delta executive."

- George L. Stewart, Supreme Justice 1915-1919, The Quarterly, May 1927

In early 1919, with the cessation of hostilities, fraternity members who had entered military service and who had not made the "supreme sacrifice" began returning from Europe and from the military camps in the United States. Many of these members resumed their legal education and returned not just to their schools but also to the fraternity, but the return and rebuilding was not immediate. The law school at Illinois Wesleyan, then home of Phi Alpha Delta's Capen Chapter, reported in its 1919 annual:

"After considerable debating on the part of the Law faculty as to the advisability of starting the school this year, it was finally decided to open January 6, 1919. Probably no other branch of the University suffers as a result of the war as does the Law School. Nearly one hundred percent of the students were in the service, and consequently at the beginning of 1919 a mere handful of former law students was registered to begin work. At the present them there are practically thirty young men here, less than a fourth of the number during normal times. The Junior and Senior Classes were forced to combine into one class, both taking Senior Studies.

"Even under such adverse conditions the students and faculty have forged ahead and have made a very credible showing for such a poor year. The Law fraternities were forced to become inactive, but the few remaining members of both the Phi Delta Phi and Phi Alpha Delta fraternities are confident that by the next year they will have normal sized chapters and will be up to their usual strength."

Law schools and chapters across the country faced similar situations, but the fraternity was determined to rebuild. Capen Chapter initiated only one new member in the Spring of 1919, but things were much improved by Fall 1919, and nine new members were initiated on December 16, 1919.

Capen Chapter Initiation, December 16, 1919

As the law chapters struggled to rebuild, the alumni chapters were also revitalized. Indeed, three new alumni chapters were chartered in 1919 – in Denver, Colorado; Seattle, Washington; and Bloomington, Illinois. All the new alumni chapters were represented when the fraternity once again met in convention assembled in December 1919, along with representatives of the Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Kansas City, Milwaukee, and San Francisco alumni chapters and twenty-four student chapters.

The “Victory Convention” Chicago 1919

From December 28-30, 1919, the fraternity met in convention for the first time since the Summer of 1915. The Hotel Morrison in Chicago hosted the fraternity, and members from twenty states attended. The focus of the convention was rebuilding and reorganization, but time was taken to remember those we had lost to war. On December 29, 1919, memorial resolutions were read. It was reported in the Chicago Tribune that seven of the eighty-four student members of the fraternity in Cook County had lost their lives during the war, and similar losses were suffered throughout the country. The convention resolved:

Seven of the eighty-four members of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity from Cook county who served in the war lost their lives, statistics in memorial resolutions read yesterday morning at the convention of the fraternity in the Hotel Morrison showed. The convention, the seventeenth annual one, was the first held since 1915, and representatives from twenty states attended.

Chicago Tribune > 30 Dec 1919, Tue > Page: 15

“that we, the brothers of Phi Alpha Delta, in National Convention assembled, do hereby express our reverence and love, our great esteem, and our highest regard for those of our brothers who have sacrificed all in the service of their country and God; and be it resolved that we tender to their loved ones our sincere sympathy in their affliction, and bid them find comfort and consolation in the fact that the sacrifices made by those gallant men have not been in vain.”

The most important business conducted by the convention was the adoption of a new constitution. The new constitution was considered by many to contain radical changes. Specifically, it substantially reduced the number of national offices and the size of the Supreme Executive Board. In the early days of the fraternity, as new chapters were added new offices were also added on the national level so that a member from each chapter would hold a national office. Soon, the Fraternity became top-heavy with national officers. The constitutional revisions of the seventeenth convention eliminated a number of national offices by abolishing the extra vice-justice positions and combining the offices of Supreme Financial Secretary, Supreme Recorder, and Supreme Treasurer into the newly created office of General Secretary. Then this office was later renamed the Supreme Secretary to conform to the titles of the other offices. The constitution also substantially increased the per capita chapter tax in order to put the fraternity on a more sound financial footing. At the close of 1919, the Fraternity treasury had been reduced to $132.00 with outstanding unpaid obligations totaling $440.00. In addition, to the revenue provided by the increased chapter tax, a “Reconstruction Fund” was established to which all members were encouraged to donate.

The convention also directed that an Honor Roll of members killed in the war be prepared, adopted a revised ritual, commended the supreme officers and acting supreme officers for their service, selected Kansas City as the site of the next convention, and declared Hamlin Chapter at the University of Maine inactive due to the discontinuance of the law school there during the war.

And finally, after an unprecedented four and a half years of continuous service by the Supreme Executive Board and Board of Tribunes, the convention elected new Supreme Officers and Tribunes: Supreme Justice August A. Rendigs, Jr. (Chase), Supreme Vice Justice Milton T. Miller (Blackstone), General Secretary George K. Brasher (Benton), Supreme Historian H. Mason Welch (Taft), Supreme Marshal Frank S. Ginocchio (Clay), and Editor-in-Chief Harry W. Humble (Green) were elected to the Supreme Executive Board, and Chief Tribune George L. Stewart (Story), Harry C. Moran (Magruder), and Conger G. Roads (Hay) were elected to the Board of Tribunes.

The newly elected officers adopted a post-war policy of extreme leniency toward chapters, which under previous policies, would have been considered delinquent. Additionally, the national officers began a program of visits to the active chapters, providing firsthand encouragement in the post-war rebuilding process.

Continued Recovery and New Chapters

Following the seventeenth convention, a period of prosperity and expansion began for Phi Alpha Delta. The new Editor, Harry W. Humble, was a member of the Faculty of the University of Kansas and having the facilities of the University press at his disposal, was able to put out by far the best magazine which had been published by the Fraternity. He began an agitation for the change of the name “Quarterly,” but as no suitable names were suggested, no change was made at the time.

Chapters delinquent in their obligations to the national fraternity, aided by the Supreme Executive Board’s policy of considering “fair adjustments” on chapters that were in arrears, began coming back into good standing. McReynolds was the first to come back, then Brewer, Magruder, Clay, Green, Gunter, Hughes, Hay, Jefferson, Kent, Fuller, Calhoun, Livingston and Rapallo followed in quick succession. During the 1919-1921 Biennium, six new law chapters and one new alumni chapter were established as the fraternity not only recovered but expanded.

The first of the new law chapters, Jay Chapter, was installed at George Washington University in Washington, D.C. on June 5, 1920. The chapter was installed by Supreme Justice August A. Rendigs, Jr. (Chase), General Secretary George K. Brasher (Benton), and District Justice William S. Culbertson (Calhoun) at the New Masonic Temple and over thirty new members were initiated.

Benson Chapter at Washburn College now Washburn University in Kansas followed on February 26, 1921. The chapter was installed by Supreme Secretary George K. Brasher (Benton) and Editor-in-Chief Harry W. Humble (Green) assisted by members of Benton and Reese Chapters. The ceremony took place on the fifth floor of the National Hotel. A banquet followed in the evening in the dining room of the National Hotel.

Two months later, Cole Chapter was installed at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa on April 23, 1921. The chapter was installed by Editor-in-Chief Harry W. Humble (Green) and Frank F. Messer (Hammond). After the ceremony, a banquet was held at the Hotel Fort Des Moines. Brother Messer was the toastmaster. The chapter had originally been organized as the Tau Beta Phi honorary law fraternity.

The same day, the McKinley Chapter was installed at Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio. The chapter was installed by Supreme Justice August A. Rendigs, Jr. (Chase) and District Justice Harrison L. McCarthy (Campbell) assisted by District Treasurer Arthur L. Limbach (Hay), W. Donald Hall (Chase), Andrew W. Lockwood (Campbell), and Cornelius J. Petzhold (Chase). A post-installation banquet held at the Chittenden Hotel was attended by the Dean of the Law School, Judge John J. Adams, Law Professor Joseph Warren Madden (Marshall), and Walter C. Barnes (Magruder).

Just seven days later, on April 30, 1921, the Thomas Ruffin Chapter was installed at the University of North Carolina. The Chapter was installed by Supreme Justice August A. Rendigs, Jr. (Chase) assisted by John F. Bain (Staples), L.G. Benford (Staples), George Hepburn (Staples), Arthur Limbach (Hay), and Brother Maples of Kansas City.

This was soon followed by the installation of Lurton Chapter at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee on May 14, 1921. The chapter was installed by Supreme Justice August A. Rendigs, Jr. (Chase) assisted by Brothers John R. Eagle (McReynolds), Harrison L. McCarthy (Campbell), and Neal G. Sullivan (Clay). The ceremony was followed by a banquet at the Hermitage Hotel. Speakers at the banquet included Brother Rendigs (Chase), Harrison L. McCarthy (Campbell), Fred Wade (McReynolds), Frank S. Ginoccio (Clay), Dean John Bell Keeble, Professor Holden B. Schermerhorn, and charter member Myron T. Nailing.

The next alumni chapter was the St. Louis Alumni Chapter which had been installed on February 14, 1921, in St. Louis, Missouri and included among its charter membership fourteen alumni from six different active chapters. The chapter was organized in January and petitioned for a charter. At this time, formal installation ceremonies were not typically held for alumni chapters.

With the addition of seven new chapters and the steady restoration of the previously established chapters, Phi Alpha Delta was on solid footing and ready to once again assemble for convention in December 1921.

P.A.D. Traditions Feature: Chapter Houses

"If a law fraternity is going to mean anything to its members, it ought to have a home of its own. Without at least a meeting place, a chapter is not anchored anywhere. Growth of fraternal spirit and esprit de corps is impossible. A luncheon at stated intervals does well enough, no doubt, for the furtherance of the common interests of the members of a Rotary Club. But probably no Rotarian would claim that any real fraternal spirit was developed"

- Herbert F. Goodrich (Hammond), "The Law Fraternity House", in The Phi Alpha Delta Quarterly. November 1920

Today's Phi Alpha Delta members would likely be surprised to learn that in the fraternity's early years, most of the chapters of Phi Alpha Delta had fraternity houses or rented chapter rooms in hotels. It was considered imperative that chapters have a "home" where members could live or at least fraternize and build the chapter communities. The chapter houses provided living quarters for members, meeting space for chapter events, and a place to stay for fraternity brothers visiting from out of town. They often housed small law libraries and study rooms which were used by residents and non-resident members alike. It was thought that members living in a chapter house had a "great advantage of intimate contact and association with brothers who will be their associates and opponents at the Bar all through professional life." It was also thought that maintenance of a chapter house was essential at schools to compete with social fraternities that might otherwise draw off members from Phi Alpha Delta. In some locations, like Chicago and Madison, the area alumni helped establish and manage chapter houses.

have a house. In recent decades, it is unheard of for a chapter to establish a house or even rent chapter rooms. Indeed, the lack of fraternity houses is often considered one of the positive distinguishing features of a professional fraternity.

Still, the chapter houses sometimes became a burden. Many chapters overextended themselves financially to maintain chapter houses and became insolvent in cases where there was a downturn in membership as occurred during the Great War. Chapter houses were sometimes subject to robbery or damaged by fire. During outbreaks of illness, chapter houses were sometimes the subject of quarantines. Over time the chapter houses fell out of favor and were actively discouraged due to liability concerns. After World War II it started to become more unusual for a chapter to

There is a full house at the Phi Alpha Delta fraternity house, where a strict quarantine has been maintained since Thursday morning. There are eighteen inmates of the house, three extra men who room elsewhere being caught by the quarantine and compelled to remain. These have been provided for by "doubling up" in several of the rooms. The boys report that they are enjoying the situation fairly well and are putting in the time playing whist, poker, seven-up and other games. Most of them have examinations for tomorrow, but it is probable that they will be given a special examination upon their release.

Phi Delta Delta Post-War Expansion

While the law schools where Phi Delta Delta had chapters also suffered reduced enrollments or even closures during World War I, Phi Delta Delta was less impacted than Phi Alpha Delta. While expansion ceased during the War, most chapters continued to function. Because of low enrollments of women law students even during peace time, Phi Delta Delta's law or "active" chapters operated differently than those of Phi Alpha Delta. Since there were often not enough women students to carry on chapter activities, alumnae continued to be active members of the law chapters, pay law chapter dues and assessments, and even serve as officers of the chapter. Since opportunities and obligations to be involved in the war were fewer for women, fewer women were called away from home to do service and so Phi Delta Delta chapters, though impacted, were less impacted than their Phi Alpha Delta counterparts. Even where schools were closed or where there were no women students, the law chapters could continue to operate based on their active alumnae membership. After the war, Phi Delta Delta resumed its pre-war expansion and in 1920 and 1921, the women's law fraternity established five new chapters.

On January 24, 1920, Eta Chapter was installed at the Portia Law School in Boston, Massachusetts. Portia Law School had been founded informally in 1908 when Arthur MacLean, a professor at Suffolk University Law School began tutoring women studying for the Massachusetts Bar. The law school was established exclusively for women to study the law as few opportunities existed for women to receive a formal legal education. The school was named for the character of Portia in Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice. In the play Portia disguises herself a man in order take on the role of a lawyer. In the early twentieth century women lawyers and law students were often referred to as "Portias". As opportunities for women expanded, Portia Law School went coed and in 1969 became the New England School of Law. Eta Chapter was installed by Laura Volstead Lomen (Zeta) and seven charter members, including one honorary member, were initiated at the installation. The honorary member was Hon. Emma Fall Schofield who was the first woman judge in the New England states. After the merger in 1972, the chapter would be rechartered as the Bertha MacLean Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta. MacLean had been one of the charter members of Eta Chapter and the wife of Portia Law School founder Arthur MacLean.

Theta Chapter was chartered at the University of Kansas in Lawrence, Kansas on December 13, 1920. The chapter was installed by Anita Veale Robbins (Alpha) in Green Hall in the offices of the Dean, and the ceremony was followed by a formal reception at Eldridge House. The chapter had originally been organized at the University as the James Woods Green Club. It should be noted that the Phi Alpha Delta Chapter at Kansas, with which Theta Chapter would one day merge, was also named in honor of James Woods Green, first Dean of the Law School and patron saint of Kansas football.

The following spring, Iota Chapter was chartered at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee on May 19, 1921. The chapter was installed by Bess Newsom (Zeta). Following the installation, the chapter entertained the wives of the law faculty with a luncheon and were later taken on a picnic by the local chapter of Phi Delta Phi. Four new members were initiated as the charter members of the chapter including Theresa Sherrill Davidson, Law School Librarian, who was also a second-year law student at the time. The national board of Phi Delta Delta waived the five-member requirement normally imposed to facilitate the charter citing the good reputation of the school and the excellent scholarship and qualifications of the petitioners.

Lambda Chapter of Phi Delta Delta was installed at the University of Pittsburgh on May 23, 1921. The chapter was installed by Frances Park Kennedy (Zeta). The ceremony took place in a private room of the William Penn Hotel followed by a visit to the Law School and a banquet. The charter members of the chapter included three students and two practicing attorneys, including Sara M. Soffel who went on to become Pennsylvania's first woman judge. The William Penn Hotel also holds an important place in fraternity history as in addition to many chapter events it hosted two fraternity conventions, first in 1958 when it was known as the Penn Sheraton Hotel and most recently in 2024 when it was known as the Omni William Penn Hotel.

Path to Inclusion Feature: The Struggle is Real - Maintaining Active Chapters in Phi Delta Delta with So Few Women in Law School

"First Meeting of year. Discussion as to whether or not chapter should remain active there being but three members in school. Moved, seconded and carried that Kappa Chapter shall remain active, but that meetings shall be held only when necessary and that dues shall consist only of national dues and an equal division of expenses."
- Minutes of Kappa Chapter, Washburn College, September 30, 1924.

At the time Phi Delta Delta was founded, very few women attended law school and many law schools did not accept women. The Founders and early leaders of the women's law fraternity quickly realized that at most schools it would be difficult for chapters to maintain an active student membership robust enough to support chapter activities, and they planned accordingly.

First, the requirements for chartering a chapter were only that five women join the chapter and petition for a charter, and even this requirement could be waived as it was for Iota Chapter at Vanderbilt University which started with just four members.

Second, the active membership of a law school chapter could consist not just of law students but also of law alumni and practicing attorneys – even if they did not attend the school where the chapter was chartered. This was different than Phi Alpha Delta chapters where a limited number of alumni could continue to be active members of their law school chapters and could even maintain some involvement with chapter affairs if they continued to pay chapter dues. In Phi Delta Delta, the active alumni members of a law chapter could even serve as officers of the law school chapter and chapter delegates to convention. In one notable case Margaret McGurnaghan (Kappa) who graduated from Washburn in 1927, continued to serve as Kappa Chapter Registrar for over thirty years, from 1929-1961. Sister McGurnaghan also served fourteen years as National Treasurer (1938-1950) and was made Honorary National Vice President from 1950 until her death in 1963. Often, there were no women students to recruit from, and active chapters were composed entirely of alumni members. In times of particular hardship for the active chapters, alumnae chapters could surrender their charters, and the alumnae chapter members would take up active membership in the law chapters to ensure they remained active. Both the Buffalo Alumnae Chapter and the Boston Alumnae Chapter took this action in the 1930s when law chapter activity was threatened by the Great Depression.

Third, law students and alumni could "affiliate" with active chapters when their schools did not have active chapters or when they moved near an active chapter. School chapters could even initiate students from other nearby law schools as affiliate members until such time as chapters might be activated at their own schools.

Mary Louise Ramsey Only M. U. Member of Phi Delta Delta

Mary Louise Ramsey, the only woman student in the School of Law, has the distinction of being the only member at Missouri of Phi Delta Delta, international professional legal sorority.

Miss Ramsey was pledged to this sorority a week ago, when Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, honorary national president, was in Columbia. Since Miss Ramsey is the only student at Missouri eligible, it will be necessary for her to go to Kansas City to be initiated with women from other universities.

Phi Delta Delta had an active chapter here about five years ago, but since that time there has been no eligible students in school.

Miss Ramsey is from Knobnoster and will receive her LL. B. degree next year. Among her other activities are: president of W. S. G. A., member of Mortar Board, secretary-treasurer of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary debating fraternity, and winner of the Delta Theta Phi scholastic prize.

Eighteenth Convention of Phi Alpha Delta 1921

Phi Alpha Delta's Eighteenth National Convention was called to order at the Baltimore Hotel in Kansas City, Missouri on December 29, 1921, by Supreme Justice August A. Rendigs, Jr. Thirty-three of the fraternity's forty-one law chapters and nine of its sixteen alumni chapters had seated delegates at the convention. In the two years since the Victory Convention, the fraternity had fully recovered from the war, and the Supreme Justice reported to the assembled delegates, "It is indeed a pleasure to me that I can, at the outset of this report, state confidently that Phi Alpha Delta has never before in its history been in such a flourishing condition, generally, or so sound financially." It had been an amazing comeback since the Great War. The Supreme Justice also reported the news that President Warren G. Harding had pledged the fraternity and that General John J. "Black Jack" Pershing had been initiated as honorary member by Lawson Chapter on April 21, 1921. Pershing served as commander of the American Expeditionary Forces during the Great War. Though a career military officer, Brother Pershing was also a lawyer having received his Bachelor of Laws at the University of Nebraska in 1893.

However, the elections of national leadership and the politics surrounding those elections dominated the three days of convention and was even reported on in local newspapers.

Brother Floyd W. Murray, delegate from Brewer Chapter at Stetson, had this to say about the elections:

"Can you imagine over a hundred lawyers 'politicking' among themselves? Neither could I until I saw it. That perhaps is the reason that we have always had such a splendid set of officers in the past and will continue to have them in the future.

POLITICAL FIGHT MARKS OPENING OF CONVENTION

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 29.—A hot political fight for supreme justice and a race for the 1922 convention site marked the opening of the eighteenth annual convention of the Phi Alpha Delta national law fraternity here today. Tonight, according to delegates, the race for supreme justice of the fraternity had narrowed down to George Fink, Chicago and Harvey L. Taylor, Kansas City, with the possibility, it was said, that a dark horse might appear on the horizon before election time tomorrow.

Washington, D. C., and Los Angeles were the principal contenders for the 1922 convention.

Phi Alpha Delta has active chapters in most of the leading universities and colleges of the country. Alumni chapters are maintained in many cities. Membership is restricted to students in the law departments of the various schools.

LAWYERS FACE HOT FIGHT

KANSAS CITY AFTER SUPREME JUSTICE SEAT OF PHI ALPHA DELTA.

Race for 1922 Convention of National Law Fraternity, Now in Session Here, Has Narrowed to Two Cities.

The eighteenth national convention of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, the largest national law fraternity, opened at the Hotel Baltimore yesterday morning. It will close with a banquet New Year's Eve.

There are fifty delegates representing active and alumni chapters. Lawyers all, the political pot has already begun to boil. In the words of an "old head" of the fraternity, it takes a hot political fight to make a successful convention.

Cloak room conferences are in session already. Kansas City members expect to get the convention to elect Harvey D. Taylor, assistant prosecuting attorney, supreme justice. John W. Francisco, who is furthering Taylor's candidacy, said yesterday that a block of middle western states are behind him. George E. Fink, of Chicago, has been mentioned for supreme justice.

The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Committee meetings were held early in the afternoon. The convention met as a whole at 2:30 o'clock. Following an address of welcome by James P. Aylward, past supreme justice, August A. Rendigs, of Cincinnati, supreme justice, and Harry Humble, editor-in-chief of the Phi Alpha Delta Quarterly, made annual reports. Judge Edward J. Fleming also spoke.

There is a lively contest between Los Angeles and Washington, D. C., for next year's convention. Al G. Rives is here in the interest of a local society of the University of Alabama, which is petitioning the establishment of a chapter of Phi Alpha Delta there.

There will be sessions of the convention as a whole today. At 8:30 o'clock tonight there will be a dance at the Meadow Lake Country Club, Seventy-fifth and State Line. Officers will be elected tomorrow morning.

The new Supreme Executive Board eventually elected by the convention consisted of Supreme Justice Frank L. Fawcett (Ryan), Supreme Vice Justice Rex G. Hardy (Story/Ross), Supreme Secretary Frank M. Ludwick (Benson), Supreme Historian Dwight H. Green (Marshall), Supreme Marshal Charles F. Partee, Jr. (McReynolds), and Editor-in Chief Harry W. Humble (Green).

The newly elected Board of Tribunes was composed of Chief Tribune August A. Rendigs Jr. (Chase), George K. Brasher (Benton), and George E. Fink (Story/Campbell).

continued to grow in 1922 with the chartering of additional law and alumnae chapters.

Phi Delta Delta to Be Installed.
Miss Ruth Adair, graduate of the Law School at the University of Kansas will come to Columbia Friday to install a chapter of Phi Delta Delta at the University of Missouri. Phi Delta Delta is one of the rational women's honorary legal sororities. There will be four active members: Serelda Zoff, Mrs. Ben Ely, Edith Hamby and Florence Meisner. Installation will be followed by a dinner at the Phi Delta Delta house.

The first of these new chapters was Mu Chapter which was installed at the University of Missouri - Columbia on January 21, 1922, by Ruth May Adair, a charter member of Theta Chapter. Florence Meisner, Chapter Secretary reported that "Our members are Miss Serelda Zoff, a senior in the school of law and president of the Senior Law Class, Miss Florence Meisner, a junior at the school of law and president of the Junior Law Class, Miss Edith Hamby, a sophomore and secretary-treasurer of the law school, and Mrs. Sallie Pryor Ely, a charming white-haired lady, a special student in the law school and mother of one of the most brilliant students in the School of Law at the present time."

Sallie P. Ely, the last charter member noted above, enrolled in the law school initially to assist her son Ben Ely, Jr., a blind law student. She served as her son's "eyes" during his education and in so doing became student of the law herself. Both were admitted to the Missouri Bar in July 1921.

Nu Chapter at the Brooklyn Law School of St. Lawrence University soon followed on May 7, 1922. The chapter was installed by Frances Park Kennedy (Zeta) in a ceremony at the home of charter member Helen T. West. Other charter members included Adelaida Artola Allen, Eleanor L. Curnow, Amelia P. Dietrich Lewis, Edweine Schmitt, Madeline W. VanDine, and Ione Weber. As there was no Phi Alpha Delta Chapter at the school at the time of the merger, this is also considered the charter date of Phi Alpha Delta's LaGuardia Chapter.

Xi Chapter was installed at the Northwestern College of Law on May 20, 1922. The chapter was installed by Nettie Mae Rankin (Delta) and the ceremony took place in her home in Portland. Patricia Malone Anderson was the principal organizer of the chapter and worked with Rankin, then National Recorder, to organize the chapter. In 1965, Northwestern College of Law affiliated with Lewis and Clark College.

The Phi Delta Delta fraternity established its Nu Chapter at the Brooklyn Law School of St. Lawrence University recently at the chapter rooms, Eagle Building. The installation was conducted by Mrs. Frances Parkes Kennedy, of Washington, a member of the U. S. Supreme Court Bar. Mrs. Kennedy called upon the new chapter to exert its influence for more ethical conduct and practices in the law profession.

The charter members of the chapter are Miss Madeline Van Dyne, Adelaida Artola, Amelia Dietrich, Edweine Schmitt, Miss Ione Weber, Miss Helen T. West and Eleanor Curnow.

The Times Union, May 14, 1922

One of the Xi Chapter charter members, Mary Jane Spurlin, went on to become the first woman district judge in Oregon when she became Multnomah County District Judge in 1926. Other charter members included Imo Laura De Lay, Hulda Patricia Malone-Anderson, and Louise F. Wilson.

The first alumnae chapter of Phi Delta Delta was also organized that year with the chartering of the Los Angles Alumnae Chapter on March 3, 1922. This chapter would remain continuously active until the merger with Phi Alpha Delta in 1972, and its members played a large role in the national leadership and conventions of Phi Delta Delta for over fifty years.

Phi Alpha Delta at the White House

As announced at the 1921 Biennial Convention, Warren G. Harding, President of the United States, had pledged the fraternity in the Fall of 1921. His formal initiation ceremony as an honorary member of Phi Alpha Delta and Taft Chapter took place at the White House on May 24, 1922, and was covered in newspapers across the nation throughout the summer.

Approximately fifty members of the fraternity were present at the White House, including Chief Justice William Howard Taft (Taft) of the United States Supreme Court and General John J. Pershing (Lawson) who witnessed President Harding take the oath of membership in the Oval Office. The ceremony was conducted by Supreme Justice Frank Fawcett (Ryan) who was accompanied by former Supreme Justices August A. Rendigs (Chase) and John D. Carmody (Taft), and Editor-in-Chief Harry W. Humble (Green).

Second Convention of Phi Delta Delta

The members of Phi Delta Delta returned to the Hotel Clark in Los Angeles from July 20-22, 1922, for their second national convention. Alpha Chapter was designated convention host chapter, and members of Alpha and the recently chartered Los Angeles Alumnae Chapter made most of the arrangements. Prior to the official call to order, delegates spent Thursday visiting the Los Angeles County Courthouse and the University of Southern California College of Law, birthplace of the women's law fraternity. After a dinner at the Assembly Tea Room, the convention was called to order by Grand President Orfa Jean Shontz (Alpha).

The convention concluded with a formal banquet hosted by Alpha Chapter at the Beverly Hills Hotel and attended by the President of the University of Southern California, the Dean of the College of Law, and several local judges. Litta Bell Hibben Campbell (Alpha) served as toast mistress. Although the convention was officially concluded after the banquet, Alpha Chapter also hosted a picnic at Hermosa Beach the next day on Sunday, July 23, 1922.

Among the business matters taken up by the fraternity were amendments to the national constitution, revisions to the ritual, and election of new officers. Among the constitutional changes made were changing convention timing to biennial rather than quinquennial, replacing the word "Grand" with "National" in existing officer titles, and adding the additional offices of Editor and Business Manager. The newly added officers would oversee the publication of the Phi Delta Delta Magazine. The convention elected National President Mabel Walker Willebrandt (Alpha), National; Vice President Hazel M. Curnane (Etz), National Secretary Anita Veale Robbins (Alpha), National Treasurer Phyllis Obee (Kappa), National Recorder Grace Olive Dailey (Epsilon), Editor Lois

*Mabel Walker Willebrandt (Alpha),
"First Lady of the Law"*

Newly elected National President Willebrandt was one of the most well-known woman attorneys in the country and was often referred to as the “First Lady of the Law”. She was the first woman public defender in Los Angeles, and later was the second woman to receive an appointment as United States Assistant Attorney General and the first to serve an extended term in that office (1921-1929). Although personally opposed to prohibition, Willebrandt handled cases involving violations of the Volstead Act as well as federal taxation and the Bureau of Federal Prison cases. She was sometimes referred to as the “Prohibition Portia” for her work enforcing the prohibition against the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages. She was the highest-ranking woman in the federal government at the time. Judge John J. Sirica (Taft), a friend of Willebrandt and the U.S. District Court judge famous for ordering President Nixon to turn over recordings to prosecutors during the Watergate scandal, is reported to have said, “If Mabel had worn trousers, she could have been President.”

The Phi Delta Delta Magazine

Provision for a Phi Delta Delta magazine was first made at the very first convention in 1917, and Founder Vere Radir Norton (Alpha) and May D. Lahey (Alpha) were to serve as its first editor and business manager respectively. However, due to financial issues associated with the War and relocation of the fraternity’s treasury to a Portland bank which subsequently closed, no national magazine materialized. In 1922, Zeta Chapter at George Washington University in D.C. attempted to fill this void with the publication of Oak Leaves, a thirty-page booklet providing a short history of the fraternity and news from each of the chapters.

Inspired by Oak Leaves, the Second National Convention ordered the publication of The Phi Delta Delta magazine and elected its first Editor and Business Manager from among Zeta Chapter members - Lois Gates Gorman and Harriet M. Barbour. Barbour had been editor of Oak Leaves. The first volumes were published semiannually, but after the 1924 convention The Phi Delta Delta became a quarterly publication. It continued to be published until shortly after the merger with Phi Alpha Delta. Pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement, a final edition, the historic and last issue of the magazine was published on November 11, 1973, the sixty-second anniversary of Phi Delta Delta’s founding. It included a history of the fraternity, lists of the national officers, and charter information for its chapters as well as other valuable historic information. The entire run of The Phi Delta Delta is preserved both in the Phi Alpha Delta archives and the archives of the University of Southern California.

Continued Expansion of Phi Alpha Delta

As its sister fraternity prepared for and held its 1922 convention, Phi Alpha Delta was not idle. It continued to expand with both new law chapters and new alumni chapters.

Petitioning members of Morgan Chapter from its charter petition dated February 17, 1922.

Morgan Chapter at the University of Alabama was officially installed on April 28, 1922, by Supreme Secretary Frank M. Ludwick (Benton) assisted by Robert D. Hudson (Lurton), Poe Maddox (Lurton), Frank McClenighan (McReynolds), W. T. Shaw (T. Ruffin), and Fred Wade (McReynolds). A celebratory banquet was held the following evening at the McLester Hotel of Tuscaloosa at which charter member Robert Winston Huddleston acted a toastmaster.

On June 10, 1922, the William Mitchell Chapter was installed at the University of Minnesota. The chapter was installed by Supreme Justice Frank L. Fawcett and Supreme Secretary Frank M. Ludwick assisted by a team from Cole and Hammond Chapters and local alumni. John F. Scott (Campbell), who resided in St. Paul at the time, wrote The Quarterly about the chapter's installation saying, "It was a source of great satisfaction to welcome the Mitchellites into our fraternity. That group at the University of Minnesota should provide a nucleus for a strong membership in the State of Minnesota, which we have heretofore sadly lacked."

Third National Law Fraternity Installs Chapter in Minnesota

Twenty-six members of the Mitchell law club of the University of Minnesota were initiated last night as members of Phi Alpha Delta, national professional law fraternity, marking the installation of the third national law fraternity at the university.

Installation ceremonies were conducted at the Alpha Sigma Phi chapter house, 925 Sixth street NE, by a team of five members from the national headquarters of the fraternity, at Kansas City, Mo. A. L. Lobb, controller of the University of Minnesota and J. C. Hammond of St. Paul also participated in the initiation.

"The Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity was organized in 1897 by students at several of the Chicago law schools," A. R. Johanson, member of the new chapter, said. "At the present time it has 41 active chapters, with a total membership of 12,642. There are chapters at most of the 'Big Ten' universities, including Northwestern, Chicago Law school, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan and Iowa."

Charter members of the chapter are: John W. Ahlen, Arthur N. Carlson, Arthur M. Chure, Russell H. Ewing, Avery W. Gilkeson, James Hetland, John H. Hougen, Milton J. Holst, Elmer C. Jensen, Alvin R. Two additional alumni chapters were chartered in the spring of 1923. The Detroit Alumni Chapter was chartered on March 31, 1923, and the Oklahoma City Alumni Chapter was chartered on April 27, 1923.

The charter group for Detroit was made up of approximately twenty alumni members and included the Hon. Arthur J. Tuttle (Campbell), Judge of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan, who was the principal organizer of the chapter. No formal installation of the Detroit Alumni Chapter occurred, and their first official meeting was not held until December 6, 1923, when the charter officers, including Judge Tuttle as Justice, were elected.

The Nineteenth Biennial Convention of Phi Alpha Delta

Nineteenth Biennial Convention Banquet, December 29, 1923. Former President and then Supreme Court Justice Chief Justice William Howard Taft (lower center) and Major General Hanson E. Ely (right lower center).

From December 29-31, 1923, Phi Alpha Delta once again met in convention assembled – this time at Wardman Park Hotel in Washington, D.C. Among the many prominent P.A.D.'s in attendance at this convention were United States Supreme Court Chief Justice William Howard Taft (Taft), Army War College Commandant Major General Hanson E. Ely (Benton), and U.S. District Court Judge Arthur J. Tuttle (Campbell). Delegates from forty-two law chapters and seven alumni chapters attended this convention. Ample time was set aside for delegates to tour the District of Columbia, including a scheduled visit to the White House on December 31, 1923, to pay the fraternity's respects to President Coolidge.

The convention took action to eliminate the district assemblies but preserved the district divisions and district justices. It was the feeling that the district assemblies were costly and a needless expense. Over time these district assemblies, which were then deliberative assemblies held in off convention years, would be replaced by the district leadership conferences of modern times which serve more educational, community building, and leadership development purposes than actual governance roles.

One action of the Nineteenth Biennial Convention which continues to impact the fraternity today was the creation of the Phi Alpha Delta Endowment Fund with its own Board of Trustees. Originally established to promote ownership of chapter houses for the active chapters, the Endowment Fund was initially funded through the retention of charter fees, $2.00 per member paid to the Fraternity for the $7.00 per capita tax, and "such other and further sums as shall be appropriated to it from the General Funds of the Fraternity or... given or appropriated it by individuals or from other sources".

Over time the Endowment Fund evolved into the Phi Alpha Delta International Foundation we know today, the independent 501(c)(3) entity which supports fraternity operations and development in a variety of ways. At various times in its history, it has provided loans to chapters, loans to the national fraternity for operations during lean times, and loans of last resort to members facing hardship. It has funded scholarships to members, grants to chapters for chapter programming, grants to individuals to assist in convention attendance, hardship grants to members in financial distress, and sponsorships for fraternity events.

As was usually the case, the final business of the convention was elections. As its new Supreme Executive Board, the fraternity elected Supreme Justice George E. Fink (Story/Campbell), Supreme Vice Justice Joseph A. Carey (Taft), Supreme Secretary Frank M. Ludwick (Benton), Supreme Historian Allan T. Gilbert (Blackstone), Supreme Marshal Howard B. Henshey (Ross), and Editor-in Chief Harry W. Humble (Green). Humble would later resign and be replaced in 1925 by John Bradfield (Campbell). As its new Board of Tribunes, the fraternity elected Chief Tribune Frank L. Fawcett (Ryan), Rex G. Hardy (Story/Ross), and Dwight H. Green (Marshall). For the Endowment Fund's very first Board of Trustees, the fraternity elected Chair August A. Rendigs, Jr. (Chase), Harvey D. Taylor (Benton), and Arthur L. Limbach (Hay).

Delegate Alvin Johanson
(Mitchell)

"It was a great convention. The delegates did some good work and it was a credit to the national organization. It was a great privilege for the writer to attend this convention and to meet the various delegates and members of the alumni, converse with them and interchange ideas. The personnel of the convention, active and alumni, was of the highest and most dignified character and reflected the high calibre of Phi Alpha Delta"
-Alvin Johanson (Mitchell)

THE biennial national convention of the Phi Alpha Delta fraternity, an organization of law students and lawyers, will begin at 10:30 o'clock this morning at Wardman Park Hotel. More than 300 delegates are expected. A special train carrying Western delegates will arrive over the Pennsylvania lines at 9 o'clock. The day will be spent in a business session. A banquet, at which Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, head of the War College, will be the principal speaker, will be given in the evening. Sunday will be given over to sightseeing. Another business session will be held Monday morning. Monday afternoon the delegates will visit President Coolidge.

Fletcher Chapter at the University of Florida Gainesville

Shortly after the conclusion of the Nineteenth Biennial Convention, Phi Alpha Delta chartered a new chapter at the University of Florida Gainesville. The chapter had originally been organized as the Alpha Delta Law Club in 1922 with the intended purpose of becoming a chapter of Phi Alpha Delta. The new chapter was named for United States Senator Duncan U. Fletcher who still represented Florida in the Senate at the time. Although unable to attend the installation, Fletcher consented to the use of his name and was later initiated as an honorary member of the chapter bearing his name. The chapter was installed by Supreme Vice Justice Joseph A. Carey (Taft) at the College of Law building on Friday. The ceremony was followed by a banquet at the Women's Club Building

Not to be outdone by their future brothers, Phi Delta Delta continued to grow with the chartering of more law and alumni chapters leading up to its 1924 convention.

Omicron Chapter was chartered at Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania on May 18, 1923. The chapter was installed by Lois Gates Gorman (Zeta), editor of Phi Delta Delta Magazine, with five charter members Eleanor Fairman Buchanan, Mary Vashti Burr Whittington, Anna Elizabeth Davis, Eleanor Fulkerson Stevenson, and Dorothy Elizabeth Stroh. sometime before the Nineteenth Convention. A committee had been appointed prior to that convention to study and propose changes to the ritual. When the work of that committee was presented to the convention, the proposals were considered so “radical” that it was referred to a new committee. However, the Board objected to “the great length and amount of detail as well as the ‘radical changes’ from the old ritual” and rejected the proposals. The Board then summarily issued its ideas for revision with orders to the committee to re-draft accordingly. The ritual adopted by the twentieth convention was the result.

The 1925 convention featured a model initiation, a “convention first,” and the convention adopted this new ritual as the official ritual for the Fraternity. The adoption of this new ritual climaxed a move begun

EMORY GETS CHAPTER OF LEGAL FRATERNITY

Officials of the Phi Alpha Delta, national honorary law fraternity, installed a local chapter at the Lamar School of Law of Emory University at ceremonies held Saturday afternoon at the Atlanta Athletic club.

The national fraternity granted the petition of Gamma Rho, a law local at Emory, headed by D. E. McMasters, Jr., and has included the new chapter among 50 others in the country.

Following a custom of the fraternity to name each chapter in honor of some lawyer prominent locally, the new society here has been christened the "William Albert Keener" chapter after the prominent Georgia attorney of that name, who is now dean of the Columbia University school of law, at New York city.

Among national officers who were here to conduct the installation ceremonies was Rex Hardy, prominent Los Angeles attorney, supreme justice of the fraternity.

At a banquet in the Georgia room at the Atlanta Athletic club Saturday night all officers of the new chapters were formally installed.

Accordingly, the Buffalo Alumnae Chapter was rechartered as the Buffalo Alumni Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta and the Buffalo Alumni Chapter traces its origins to the chartering of the Phi Delta Delta Chapter in 1927.

This was the only time all five Founders jointly installed a chapter. A banquet celebrating the occasion was given at the Jonathan Club, and eighty-five guests attended including the Rev. Jos Sullivan, S.J., President of Loyola, Dean Ford of the Law School, and many Los Angeles Alumnae members. Charter member and Charter President / High Priestess Ann O'Keefe had been the first woman to graduate from the law school, Class of 1924. In 1930, Loyola College achieved university status becoming Loyola University of Los Angeles. Unfortunately, the law school at Loyola stopped accepting women in 1930, the chapter went inactive, and the charter was withdrawn in September 1937. The law school resumed accepting women in 1943, and the chapter subsequently reactivated. In 1973, Loyola University merged with Marymount College to become Loyola Marymount University.
